NEWTON.

C. Farley rents new piano, 433 Wash'n. st.

—Mr. John Deary has resigned as driver of Steamer 1.

—Mr. W. H. Brackett is reported to be improving in health.

—Mr. James Converse has just returned from an extended Western trip.

—Mr. E. P. Wright of Denver, Col., made a flying visit to Newton this week.

—The Wellington Howes is building an addition to his barn on Church street.

—Republican caucuses will be held in Armory and Eliot Lower Halls, Saturday evening.

—Rev. Dr. Calkins will exchange with Rev. Mr. Phipps of Newton Highlands, on Sunday evening.

—Mrs. Dwight Field leaves next week for Texas, with her family, to remain for a portion of the winter at Swanscott.

—The Channing Literary Club will meet next Tuesday evening, to discuss Emerson's Essay on Domestic Life.

—Miss H. P. James will return to Wilkesbarre, Penn., next week, as her health is very much improved.

—Miss Coffin's handsome pointer was killed by an express train yesterday afternoon, at the Centre street crossing.

—Rev. Mr. Hornbrook will have John Henry Newman as the subject of his address, Sunday evening, in Channing chapel.

—Mr. Geo. Allen and family of this city, have closed their cottage at Swanscott and will be at 112 Boylston street, Boston, for the winter.

—The Newton Social Science Club will meet at the residence of Mrs. Wm. A.
Brown, Sargent street, Wednesday Nov.
22, at 8 P. M.

—The beautiful weather of yesterday brought out the open cars, and the travel was so large that two cars were called for all the afternoon.

—A very pleasant entertainment was given the Sunday school of Grace church by Mr. E. S. Hamblen on Wednesday evening, in the parish house.

—Mr. William Z. Ripley has this week received an unexpected honor in the Institute of Technology, Boston, he having had a fellowship bestowed upon him.

—Vesper Services at the Channing church will be resumed on the last Sunday of this month, Nov. 30th. A splendid selection of music is in preparation.

—The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of Grace church, have adopted the charter of the Epworth League and will hereafter be known by that name.

—Miss S. Louise Shelton was in town for a brief visit this week, and is much improved in health. She is now staying at Malden but will spend the winter in Washington.

—The lecture committee of the Hygiene and Emergency Society have arranged for a series of lectures to Emergency Classes. The particulars will shortly be made known.

—Mr. Herbert L. Wood of Thornton place, has taken the position of correspondent of the Boston Globe in Newton. He will continue his connection with the Newton GRAPHIC as formerly.

—James McDonald found a pocket book containing some fifty dollars at the depot Sunday, and by advertising it at the post office found the owner, a lady who gave him the dollars for his honesty.

—The Grace church choir of forty men and boys will be present at the Y. M. C. A. anniversary next Sunday, and will sing special music, consisting of solos, trios, choruses; Eliot Hall, at 3 o'clock.

—Capt. B. H. Gilbreth and wife have returned from their summer residence at Bourne, Mass., and as they were unable to get rooms at the Hunnewell, they have gone to Newtonville for the winter.

—Gen. Armstrong of Hampton Institute, will address a meeting in Eliot chapel, Monday evening, Dec. 1, and a company of Hampton students will be present and sing, and such an event will be well worth attending.

—Murray & Farrell had one of their fine diamond buggies on exhibition in front of Eliot block, on Monday. No handsome buggies are made anywhere, while they can be depended on to wear like Dr.
Holmes' famous vehicle.

—Hospital Sunday is Nov. 23rd. Envelopes and blank pledges will be distributed in all the churches next Sunday, and some will be left at the drug stores. Every reader of this paragraph is asked to remember Hospital Sunday.

—The frost of Monday night produced a perfect shower of leaves on Tuesday morning, and one could see a limb left bare while watching it. It was a curious sight, but it is said that the leaves have remained remarkably late this year.

—It is said that the Ward Seven caucus will renominate the present representatives, Alderman Hamblen and Councilmen Hall and Bates, although there is some talk of trying to induce Mr. Chas. A. Haskell to accept a nomination.

—F. G. Barnes & Son have sold the Page estate, corner of Park and Elmwood streets, to Mr. L. E. Coffin, and have leased the Goodrich house, Centre street, to Mr.
Bemis of Northfield, and the Boise house, Church street, to Mr. Henry V. Slack of Boston.

—The officers of the Newton Y. M. C. A. for the ensuing year are: President, Geo. A.
Flint; vice-president, J. R. W. Shapleigh; secretary, Albert Clark; treasurers, B. L.
Goodwin; board of managers, F. O. Barber,
F. H. Tucker, Wallace Moore, R. A.
Oldrieve, C. F. Bacon.

—Aban, Trowbridge & Co. have sold the large lot of the Ricker estate on Washington street, Brighton Hill, the entire front 453 ft., between the Bailey and Sanborn estates, half the depth to Tremont street, 120,929 sq. ft., to a Boston gentleman who will put up a fine residence there in the spring.

—To meet the demands of the public for an extra quality of oil for stoves and duplex lamps, G. F. Atkins has put in stock the celebrated Imperial Oil, odorless, water white, high test.

—Mrs. H. A. Crosby and Mrs. M. A.
Moore of Newton, have opened a studio at 52 Boylston street, Boston, where they will teach all kinds of Art work. Designing for china a specialty.

—The friends and neighbors of Mr. C. B.
Fillebrown, gave him a housewarming at Saturday night, to celebrate the completion of the recent improvements he has been making. About sixty were present, and they were entertained with vocal and instrumental music, and a fine supper was served.

—The General Missionary Committee of the M. E. church will hold its annual meeting next week in Bromfield street church, Boston, opening Nov. 12, at 10:30 a. m. Rev. S. L. Baldwin, D. D., one of the secretaries, formerly missionary to China, is advertised to preach in the Newton Methodist church, Sunday Nov. 16, at 10:30 a. m.

—A change of services at the Methodist church. Hereafter for the present the Sunday evening service will begin at 7:15, and consist of a praise service and a short sermon or address, to be followed by a young people's meeting at 8:15. The public are cordially invited. The pastor's topics next Sunday will be, in the morning, "Festivals" and in the evening, "How can we best help our boys and girls."

—Hon. R. H. Colcord, who was elected governor by the Republicans of Nevada, is the brother of Mrs. H. J. Woods of this city. We understand it was owing to his personal popularity that the Republicans carried the state by such a handsome majority, when so many of the western states were swept by the Democracy in the recent election.

—Among the pieces to be sung by the choir of Grace church at the Anniversary of the Christian Association in Eliot Hall, Sunday afternoon, are the following:
"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee." "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet," and "In God's word will I trust." A beautiful hymn tune composed by Mr. H. B. Day, organist of Grace church, has recently been published in the musical department of The Churchman.

—A choral service at Eliot church last Sunday evening was listened to by a congregation that completely filled the church.
Mr. Willis Nowell, violinist, added much to the interest of the musical portion of the service, which was of a very interesting nature. One of the selections was a hymn, the music of which was composed by Mr. J.
Wallace Goodrich, and showed remarkably musical talent. The large choir was heard to excellent advantage in the choruses, and there were some fine solos, duets and quartet selections.

—A Ladies' Missionary meeting was held in the parlors of the Baptist church, Tuesday, to listen to remarks made by Rev. Mr.
Richards concerning his work in Banza Manteke, Africa. Much interest was shown by those present in the life-like presentations of the work, many coming from neighboring churches. The great efforts of the natives to build a church were spoken of, as all the material was procured sixty miles by land. After the remarks the ladies were invited to remain to take a "social cup of tea," and a pleasant hour was passed, Mrs. Merrill presiding at the tea table.

—The position taken in the first of the November Evening Talks in Grace church last Sunday was that Nature is a book of symbols, and not merely a book of facts.
The three points respecting the autumn foliage, considered were, that the brilliant colors were carefully prepared for in advance, that there was a special growth that caused the fall of the leaf, and that the mission of a fallen leaf was to enrich the soil for the growth of new plants. The lecture drew three lessons. The lecture next week will be on "The Lessons taught by the Migration of the Birds."

—Miss Marietta King Palmer, niece of
Mr. W. H. Partridge, was married to Mr.
Wm. C. Ball, at South Boston, Wednesday last. Three carriage loads of Newton young people attended the reception, which was held at the residence of the groom's father. There was a large number of guests from South Boston and other places, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr.
Jenkins. The ushers were E. F. Smallwood, F. C. Partridge and Arthur Wright of Newton, and Louis Zephier of South Boston.

—The bride wore a white tulle silk with long train and veil. The presents were numerous and costly. After a wedding trip the happy couple will board in South Boston, but intend to build in Newton in the near future.

—Rev. J. P. McCullough, formerly pastor of the Baptist church here, but now of Nyack, N. Y., had quite an exciting experience in New York city recently, according to the New York Herald. He saw an advertisement of a cow for sale in a New York paper, and thinking that he might need it, he put a pistol in his pocket and went to look at the cow, which was said to be at the Bluestone Yards, although hearty is known to the seller as "Hell's Kitchen" near "Murderers' Row."

—He was shown into a dark shed, by a tough looking man, and when another appeared and the shed door was closed, he suspected something was wrong, took out his pistol and ordered the men to unlock the door, which they did, and he escaped. The police told him that it was an old game and that he had a narrow escape from being robbed if not worse.

—Martin McGuire, aged 23 years, was struck and instantly killed by the owl ward express on the Boston & Albany railroad on the Weston side of the Charles river, between the railroad bridge at River side and Rice's crossing, about 6 o'clock Sunday morning. The body was terribly mutilated, one leg being severed at the trunk. His skull was also fractured. The remains were taken to Cate's undertaking rooms in West Newton and were subsequently taken in charge by the relatives.
McGuire was a mason by trade, was married, and lived on Adams street. The deceased went out from Boston on one of the late trains Saturday evening. It is supposed that he fell asleep in the cars, and was carried by the Newton station, as it is said that he got off the cars at Natick and started to walk down the tracks toward Newton.

Newton Associated Charities.
A regular meeting of the Visitors of the Associated Charities was held yesterday at the room of the Association in Newtonville. The Visitors report their hands full of work. The great need seemed to be lack of suitable clothing for the worthy poor. A very large amount of clothing has already been distributed in the most judicious and careful manner possible. Much more is required to meet the increased demand of the coming winter. Persons having good second hand clothing to spare may be assured that it will be carefully distributed to worthy and needy people, if sent to the Associated Charity rooms at Newton-ville.

An Apt Quotation.—Ferguson: "Your bullpup seems very eager to get away."
Webb: "Yes; he reminds me of weather at Elm Grove." Ferguson: "What do you mean by that?" Webb: "He has 'a nip ping and an eager air.'"

BOWLING FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

FIRST GAMES OF THE SERIES FOR AMATEUR LEAGUE HONORS

The first games in the series for the championship of the Amateur Interclub Bowling League, which comprises teams representing the Boston Athletic Club, Woodland Park Hotel, Auburndale, Norfolk House Casino Club, and the Revue Club of Chelsea, Arlington Boat Club and the Newton Club, were played Wednesday evening.

The teams representing the Athletic association and the Newton Club contested at the clubhouse of the latter, and a very pretty exhibition of bowling was given. The best work was done by Brown, Tapley and Hunt for the Newtons, and by Lodge and Wood for the Athletics. The Newtons won by 105 pins.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN MET TO RECEIVE ELECTION RETURNS.

The board of aldermen met at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening, to receive election returns, with all the members present, and Mayor Burr in the chair. An interested crowd filled the lobby, to watch the election returns which were posted as soon as received, but they came in slowly, and at 9 o'clock, Wards Three, Six and Seven had not been heard from.

The other wards gave some indication of how things were going, and until Ward Seven came in it was supposed Mr. Saltonstall had been chosen a representative, and that Messrs. Candler and Brackett would have a very small plurality.

In precinct 2, Ward Four, the election returns had failed to sign the returns, and a police officer was dispatched after them, and about eleven o'clock, brought them all down to complete their work. About eleven o'clock the board of aldermen adjourned to the assessors' room, and went into executive session over a lunch served by Lee of the Woodland Park Hotel, but they had to wait until after twelve for the returns from Ward Three, which had the unusual distinction of not being the last ward in Ward Seven coming in last, and the board was able to adjourn this year about one o'clock.

Very little business was done outside of receiving returns.

An order was passed for a lamp under the Grove street railroad bridge, and the free use of City Hall voted to J. Wiley Edwards camp, S. of V., for their installation services, Jan. 12, '91.

L. F. Flynn gave notice of intention to erect a house, 40 by 25 feet, on Winslow road. The tax collector asked for compensation for injuries received by caving in of a gravel pit in which he was at work.

James Hart and others asked for a street light on Lincoln street.

H. M. Davis, for license to build stable on Alpine street.

An order was passed for one street lamp on Summit avenue and one on Temple street.

A. L. Harwood, secretary of the school board, gave notice of recent changes in the board.

A. H. Wiggin asked to have sidewalk on Bowdoin street repaired.

D. S. Farnham asked for license to build a shed adjacent to his private stable, with accommodations for eight horses, and a hearing was granted for next Monday evening.

Rather Queer.

It is rather queer, when you come to think of it, that there are people who do not care to prepay their newspaper subscriptions. If those people would not prepay their railway fares trouble would likely ensue, though railway corporations could much better afford to wait until the end of the trip than could newspaper publishers wait until the end of the year. Do you see and appreciate the point?—Malden City Press.

Death of Cephas Brigham.

Mr. Cephas Brigham died at his late residence, the home of Luther E. Leland, Woodland, Newton, Oct. 31, from paralysis. He was born in Deerfield, this State, Dec. 26, 1821. His father died, leaving him in early life, with other children, to the care of a Christian mother, well qualified for her increased duties and responsibilities. Not being very robust in his early boyhood and having studious habits, he attended the Deerfield Academy, where he completed his academic education. He then taught school winters and spent the remainder of the year in manual labor and study.

His success in teaching was marked from the first and his services were eagerly sought. He married early in life one of his pupils, Miss Lucy E. Graves, daughter of Daniel and Phebe Graves of North Leverett, a young lady of rare personal and intellectual qualities. Their union was blessed, during the long term of forty-one years, by an attachment rarely if ever excelled. She died about three years ago, leaving him an invalid and almost imbecile at his great loss. Soon after his marriage, while residing in Montague, he taught a private school of a very high character. He then taught two terms in Ashland, when he removed to West Dedham and began permanently the work of teaching. He taught there seven years with so great success that his reputation as a teacher of progressive ideas was generally known throughout this part of the State. The School Board of Newton offered him unusual inducements to take charge of the Williams School in Auburndale. He accepted the position, removed to Auburndale in 1861, and soon became one of the leading teachers of Newton. Having taught there about seven years, during which time he completed his law studies with David H. Mason of Newton Centre, he was admitted to the bar. He held also the office of Trial Justice. He assisted in organizing the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Dumb Animals, and was a member of the School Board. He removed to Boston in 1874, opened a law office on Court street, and very soon found himself with a remunerative practice, occupying his whole time. He returned to Auburndale in 1883, and remained there until after the death of his wife in 1887. Three years ago last May he had a paralytic shock while going to Boston in the cars, from which he never recovered. Since the death of his wife he has spent his time among his friends in Newton and Northampton. He leaves no children. During twenty-five years of the latter part of his life he had been a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity. He was Past Master of Dalhousie Lodge, F. A. M., and Past High Priest of Newton Royal Arch Chapter. He was a charter member of Gethsemane Commandery and a member of the Massachusetts Consistory, attaining the 32nd degree. For two years he was District Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, and was also Grand Lecturer. In all of the various positions to which he attained he showed marked ability in the discharge of his duties, and at all times maintained the character of a Christian gentleman. He was humane, generous, large hearted and a friend to all that was good and true and noble. He identified himself with the Republican party at its commencement and ever remained attached to its principles. He had great faith in the ultimate triumph of right over wrong, and never despaired, though the way at times might seem dark. His home life was his joy. He became a Christian in early life, and died trusting in Christ for salvation. He died as he lived, and his memory will not perish.

LAMP.

There are six essential points to a good lamp. It must be tasty in design, perfect in finish, non-leakable, produce the greatest possible light with least expenditure of oil, and be reasonable in price. We know our Lamps fulfill these requirements.

This Banquet Lamp is of finely polished brass, 36 inches high, and has duplex burner. Beautiful muslin, silk fringed shade. A real gem, costing only $2.49, that will give you splendid service for a lifetime.

Parlor Lamps with delicately colored bisque base, hand-decorated shade, lift-out fount, unbreakable chimney, with patent extinguisher, are a real pleasure, and at $2.69, our price, are not luxuries, but a necessity in every house.

We have lots of patterns and mounts, and can suit a full or lean pocket.

10 cents buys a real cute medium-size hand lamp, fully furnished with chimney and wick. See illustration.

If you have any idea of purchasing any kind of a lamp, you will lose money if you do not write us and let us give you our price for it delivered free at your home.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

The Tariff is a Tax.

Every person interested in the subject of the tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussions carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

The Popular Verdict.

The people have spoken and have condemned the McKinley Tariff. The verdict is unmistakable, and so is the cause of it. Two years ago, when Harrison was elected President, and a majority of the House with him, the people did not contemplate the possibility of a higher tariff. So far as the question of the Tariff entered into the contest, the most that was expected by the protectionists was that the Tariff should be revised by its friends; and they expected it would be revised down instead of up. The revision that was made, with higher rates for raw materials and manufactures, and with the absurd bounty system on sugar, was a disappointment and a surprise, and the high-handed proceedings by which the bill was pushed through caused the gravest apprehensions in the minds of Republicans, who believe in fair play.

How futile are all the dodges by which a political party seeks to establish itself in power when the people are not considered? Of what avail are arbitrary rulings, the reversal of popular elections by party majorities in the House, the admission of new states not properly qualified for admission, and the shameless use of money contributed by people who have received great favors from the government, and have a lively sense of more favors to come? The people revolt against such methods and sweep away the cobwebs so cunningly built by the politicians. It turns out that the question they thought settled was never so unsettled before, and it will never be settled until it is settled right.

The Tariff Reformers are encouraged to go on with their work. Much remains to be done before this great economic question can be wisely settled, but from this time on we shall be sustained by the assurance that the people are sound on the main issue; they see that the Tariff is a tax, and that the only excuse for it is to raise the necessary revenue without increasing the public burden for the benefit of any private interest.

The Tariff Reformer's Position.

(From a Letter by David A. Wells.)

I believe in the right of every man to freely labor and exchange (or sell) the products of his labor, subject to no other restrictions than what are necessary to meet the needs of a government economically administered. Such a policy—which now characterizes the industrial and commercial relations of the States of the Federal Union—I believe to be the one which science and history have proved to be most conducive to the maintenance and progress of civilization, popular liberty and the most rapid increase and equitable distribution of national wealth; and its denial I regard as equivalent to the rearming and defending the right and expediency of human slavery. I accept, furthermore, the declaration of the United States Supreme Court—all the Republican judges on the bench, and constituting a large majority of the court, concurring—that "to lay with one hand the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less robbery because it is done under the form of law and called taxation."

On the one hand, we find the Republican party, under the pretence of guarding and promoting the interests of American labor, supporting measures of taxation, whose declared purpose is to enhance the price of nearly all the crude materials that enter into and are necessary to the development of our domestic industries. Such a policy is one of privation, and not of protection. It tends to increase the cost of production and the cost of living; to reduce wages and diminish the opportunities for employment by restricting markets; to strangle commerce; to foster monopolies and combinations for the purpose of promoting the unequal distribution of wealth, and to enrich the few by the oppression of the many.

On the other hand, the Tariff Reformers want free raw material and duties upon foreign imported goods. They desire a repeal of useless war taxes, a reduction of taxation to meet only the wants of the Government; and they desire economy in the administration of the Government. With proper discrimination, this would give ample protection to our industries.

Carl Schurz Replies to Mr. Blaine.

Mr. Blaine puts this question to me: "I would like to ask Mr. Schurz, before this Ohio audience, how free trade is going to let us into their markets with our products?" I will frankly tell Mr. Blaine my opinion. He is greatly mistaken if he thinks that foreign nations can be made to buy our products as long as they can get what they want more advantageously from other people than from us. Other things being equal, he who offers his wares at the lowest price will have the market. Commerce is not sentimental. To enable our people to compete with others in the foreign market on equal terms, as to industrial, as well as agricultural products, I would, as I very distinctly said in my Boston speech, advise what Henry Clay called an effective method of protection—"the admission, free of duty, of the articles which aid in the operations of the manufacturers." This would remove the dogs which hamper the manufacturer at every step in the shape of the onerous duties put by our hedge-podge tariff upon everything he has to use in the production of his goods. This will enable him to produce his articles as cheaply as they are produced in other countries, and to compete successfully in the markets of the world—for the superior energy, ingenuity and efficiency of American labor makes up for the difference in the wages paid in this and in other countries. The manufacturer himself will then not object to a corresponding reduction of the duty on the manufactured article, and our farmers, too, will find their production more economical and more profitable when they are relieved of the high tariff prices of all they have to buy. In this way our foreign commerce can be largely developed, and I do not think it can be in any other. This is my answer to Mr. Blaine's question. To the frightened timid souls, Mr. Blaine may call this free trade. I call it common sense.

A Word to the Farmer.

Now, the tariff taxes about 4000 articles of consumption in this country. There is a tax on earthen pipe, 25 cents on every dollar's worth; on linseed oil, 75 cents; on wall paper, 25 cents; on lime, 35 cents; on screws, 50 cents; on window glass, $1.13; on slate, 25 cents; on nails, spikes and tacks, 52 cents; on white lead, 58 cents; on cheapest crockery, 55 cents; on 65 cents; on glassware, 45 cents; on 55 cents; on oilcloth, 45 cents; on woollen blankets, $1.10; on woollen clothing, 84 cents; on hats, 81 cents; on cotton thread, 50 cents; on buttons, 25 cents, and ivory and bone buttons, 50 cents; on salt and rice, and so I might go on showing you taxes on almost every article that enters into the construction and furnishing of your houses and barns, your clothing and your food. Now, most of these taxes raise the cost of the articles taxed, whether brought here from abroad or made here, not always to the amount of the tax, but still to a large amount. You know, from your experience, that the recent law which raises tariff taxes 5 to 10 per cent has raised the cost of many of the most common necessities of life. If 5 or 10 per cent raises prices, as you know it does, what do you suppose tariff taxes of 50 or 60 per cent do, which is the average amount-to-day of tariff taxation.

Comparison of Prices here and Abroad.

Here are a few instances from official reports. White lead sells for 5 cents on the foreign market and 11 cents here; soda, 1-1-2 cents on the foreign market and 3 cents here; window glass, above 16 inches square, 2 cents a pound on the foreign market and 4 cents here; plate glass, 25 cents a sq. ft. there and 85 cents here; pig-iron, $13 per ton there and $20 here; iron for building purposes 1-1-10 cents there and 2-3-10 cents per pound here; castor oil 40 cents per gallon there and one $1.20 here; rice 2 cents a pound there and 3 cents here; sugar sells for three cents there and 5 cents here; the blanket that costs 50 cents a pound there sells for 85 cents here; the cloak that sells for $2.25 there sells for $3.58 here; the ready made clothing that sells for $2 there sells for $3.10 here; women's and children's dress goods that sell for 15 cents per yard there sell for 24 cents per yard here; the flannel that sells for 20 cents per yard there sells for 37 cents per yard here; the wool that sells for 55 cents per pound there sells for $1.10 here; the knit goods that cost 26 cents a pound there cost 43 cents here, and when the new bill is passed they will cost 60 cents here; and which costs 53 cents there costs $9 cents here, and will cost under the new tariff bill $1.53. Shawls costing 63 cents a pound there cost here $1.22, and under the proposed bill will cost $1.33.

These facts are enough to show how the tariff affects all imports and domestic manufactures. But you do not see the same result in wheat and flour and corn, bacon, beef and cotton. You do not see them bearing a price in this country higher than that in foreign countries. The reason is this: produce that here costs less than that produced in other foreign countries and we do not import them, but export them, to get the higher price of foreign countries. The tariff on his products is a sham. It can confer no possible benefit on him.

What the farmer wants is the normal condition of trade. He wants a free and unobstructed way to market and the right of a free man to buy where he pleases and at the lowest price. As he has to sell in competition with the world, he wants to buy on the same terms.

Grade Crossings Again.

To the Editor of the Graphic: Since August 7, petitions have been filed for the abolition of forty-five grade crossings under the new law. Nine of these crossings are in the city of Worcester, the mayor and aldermen petitioning for most of them. The Mayor and Aldermen of Springfield have also petitioned for change of grades at Armory Street, and the selectmen of Greenfield and Northwood have also filed petitions. The Grade Crossing Commissioners estimated that the average cost of changing grades at the Newton crossings, including all damages, would be about $80,000. It is hardly likely that the Worcester crossings will cost less and more of them will probably cost much more. In that case probably the average cost of all the crossings to be $2,700,000, of which the State's share will be $675,000 or more than the first year's limit. At this rate, the petitioners, before a year from next June, will have absorbed the whole of the State aid, and it is not likely that any more will be given. All the petitions so far, except that of the St. Mary's street crossing in Boston, are for double-track railroads. Does not Newton care anything about State help for abolishing its four track crossings? If it wishes to have them changed and wants to have the railroad and State Treasury pay nine-tenths or more of the expense, there is no time to be lost. It is not necessary to petition for all the crossings. To do away with four or five of the worst crossings on the main line would save many lives, and, if done now, would save the city much money; but it will not do to hesitate. Already the Springfield, Brockton, Boston, Worcester, and Brookline people have secured all the State money for nearly a year and a half to come, and the masterly inactivity which reigns over the administration of our public affairs means heavy bills for us to pay later. To talk of a sewerage system before the grade crossing matter is settled is preposterous. Sooner or later the grades must be separated, and we shall have a trench perhaps fourteen or fifteen feet deep, cutting our sewerage system in two, making it necessary to rebuild it almost entirely, unless the new grades are settled before the sewers are laid out.

King among Liniments is Johnson's Anodyne, because it can be taken internally by everyone.

The children's health must not be neglected. Colds in the head and snuffles bring on catarrh and lung affections. Ely's Cream Balm cures at once. It is perfectly safe and is easily applied to the nostrils. It also cures catarrh, the worst cases yielding to it.

How is your cold? Use Johnson's Anodyne Liniment or it may last all winter; certain fact!

I Don't Want a Doctor!

I have tried them, and they have only swindled me. I have figured up what they cost me for the last four years and just $24.31. If I had it now it would be a fortune for me. This year my bill for medicine was only five dollars, for which I purchased six bottles of Sulphur Bitters. They cured me of Scrofula after suffering four years.—P. J. Cummings, Troy, N. Y.

City of Newton.

REGISTRARS OF VOTERS, 1890.

City Election, Dec. 2d, 1890.

REGISTRATION OF WOMEN.

Notice is hereby given to all persons to present themselves for registration and that the Registrars of Voters will hold sessions for the registration of voters, including women duly qualified, and to correct and revise the Ward Lists, upon the following dates and at the places herein named:

Newton Centre—Associates' Hall, Pleasant street, 3 to 5 o'clock, and from 7 to 8.30 o'clock, P. M., WEDNESDAY, NOV. 12. At City Hall, from 2 to 5 o'clock, P. M., THURSDAY, NOV. 13; FRIDAY, NOV. 14; WEDNESDAY, NOV. 19; FRIDAY, NOV. 21, and SATURDAY, NOV. 22; from 9 A. M. to 12 M., from 2 to 5 o'clock, and 7.30 to 10 o'clock, P. M.

No name can be registered after 10 o'clock P. M., NOVEMBER 22.

All persons whose names are not on the Voting List must appear personally before the Registrars of Voters on either of the days above-mentioned, presenting a receipted tax bill of 1889 or 1890.

If the father of an applicant was naturalized before he (the son) became 21 years of age, the son is naturalized thereby, and must present the father's naturalization papers.

The names of all persons not assessed in 1890 are taken from the voting lists, but such persons can be re-registered by applying in person to the Registrars at any session held for registering voters, and presenting a receipted tax bill for 1889 or 1890.

Every male citizen of 21 years of age and upwards, who has resided in the State one year, and in the City of Newton six months prior to December 2, 1890, and who has paid a State or County tax assessed upon him either in 1889 or 1890, and who shall be able to read and write, shall have the right to vote at the city election to be held December second, eighteen hundred and ninety.

EXTRACT FROM STATUTES CONCERNING VOTING.

BY WOMEN, CHAP. 423, ACTS 1890.

SECT. 15. "Every woman who is a citizen of this Commonwealth, of twenty-one years of age and upwards (except paupers, persons under guardianship, and persons excluded by article twenty of the amendments to the constitution,) who has resided within the state one year, and within the city or town in which she claims a right to vote six months next preceding any election of a city or town, it shall remain on the list as long as she continues to reside in such city or town and has paid any state, county, city or town tax that has been assessed on her or her trustee in this State within two years next preceding such election, shall have a right to vote in all such elections, for members of school committees."

SECT. 16. "Any woman who is a citizen of this Commonwealth, may, on or before the first day of October in any year, give notice in writing accompanied by satisfactory evidence, to the assessors of a city or town, that she was on the first day of May of that year an inhabitant thereof, or being charged with the preparation of a list of voters, she shall remain on the list, both real and personal, not exempt from taxation, and shall thereupon be assessed for her poll, not exceeding fifty cents, and for her estate, and the assessors shall, on or before the first day of October, return her name to the registrars of voters of the city or town, and she shall collect and pay over the same in the manner specified in her warrant."

SECT. 17. "The names of women may be placed upon a separate list, and when the name of any woman has been placed upon the list of voters of a city or town, it shall remain on the list as long as she continues to reside in such city or town and has paid any state, county, city or town tax that has been assessed on her or her trustee in this State within two years next preceding any election."

It is therefore necessary for each woman who desires to retain her name on the list, to inform the Registrars of Voters before the close of registration of her continued residence in this city, and if the taxes upon which her registration is based are paid in any other place in the State than Newton, her receipted tax bill must be shown to the Registrars.

Board of Health.

Messrs. Pettie, Wiswall, Hall, Dr. Baker and Agent French were present at the board of health, Monday afternoon, and the reading of the records were dispensed with. Mr. Dolan of Lower Falls appeared on a summons from the board and was given the remainder of the week to complete his cesspool. The towns on the other side of the river were ordered notified by the city, to abate nuisances along the line of the river. An analysis of the water in Laundry brook and Newtonville drain was submitted by T. M. Brown of the Institute of Technology, Boston. The board did not consider the analysis showed a nuisance in Laundry brook, and the attention of the city council was called to obstructions in the Newtonville drain. An order was passed subject to approval of the city solicitor in reference to a temporary abatement by the city engineer of the cause of the petitions from River street residents. An appropriation of $500 was received from the city council. A number of bills were approved. Board renewed its recommendation to the city council to push the matter of constructing sewers throughout the city which shall connect with the Metropolitan sewer. Adjourned.

Cancer Can be Cured, and by Dr. James M. Solomon, Jr., 75 Court St., Boston, Mass.

Boston, Aug. 26, 1889. Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my lip of sixteen years standing. It was cut out twice by what they call eminent surgeons at intervals of six years, after being cut out each time I knew by the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not to delay but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

Commerce of the Great Lakes.

A recent article in Bradstreet's gives some surprising statistics of the commerce of the great lakes. During 264 days of navigation last year, tonnage passed through the Detroit river to the amount of 10,000,000 tons more than the entries and clearances of all the seaports in the United States, and 3,000,000 tons more than the combined foreign and coastwise shipping of Liverpool and London. This does not include traffic between ports on these lakes. The growth of ship building on the lakes has been very marked in the last few years. In 1880-87 there were 31 boats built, valued at $4,074,000 and in 1888-90 there were 56 built, valued at $7,866,000, the tendency being as elsewhere, toward iron and steel for large ships.

To Art Lovers.

The exhibition of the paintings of the Russian artist, Verestchagin, at the Arena building, on Tremont street, Boston, is a very remarkable one, not only for the extraordinary skill and versatility displayed by the artist, but for the daring flights of his brush. History, portraits, architecture, landscape, marine, and still life are all depicted with equal power and truth to nature. There are numerous battle pictures, showing the horrors of war, and these, though generally repulsive in their subject and almost sickening in the horrors of their details, are splendid examples of the artist's gifts as a master of form, color, and effect. There are numerous lovely little gems of landscape, exquisite in atmosphere and feeling, and full of poetic sentiment. There are one hundred and twenty works in all, and it would be impossible in the space at our command to describe them with any approach to the care they deserve, but we cordially advise all art-lovers to see the collection. The gorgeous Agra rugs to be seen there would alone repay a visit to the exhibition. Nothing as gorgeous and as royal as beautiful in their way has ever been seen here. In addition, there is a large variety of curious weapons of war, religious jewels, lace, head-dresses, garbs, and ornaments of Russian origin that are rare in their peculiar attractiveness. A still further interest is imparted to the collection by the display of Millet's much discussed painting, "L'Angelus," which is shown for the first time in Boston. There is no reason why this extraordinarily stimulating exhibition should not be crowded during its brief stay here.

A Ray of Hope.

For all who are held by the chains of scrofula or other diseases of the blood comes from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which by imparting the elements of good health and strength to the vital fluid, dissolves the bonds of disease and sets the captive free. THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

The Republican Caucuses have been called for Saturday night, and work will be begun at once preparing for the city election. This is an event in which every citizen is directly interested, and there is no excuse for staying away from the caucuses and failing to have a voice in regard to the choice of the men who are to spend the city's money the coming year.

It was hoped that this year the citizens would all unite and hold citizen's caucuses, without regard to national politics, but it does not appear that this can be done. What national politics have to do with city affairs, even the most thorough-going partisan has yet to discover, the only question being to nominate the best man that can be prevailed on to take office, whether he be a Republican, Democrat, Mugwump or Prohibitionist. When once elected they all unite for the best interests of the city, and there has yet to be found a case when the members of the City Council ever divided on party lines. Newton is unique in this respect, and that is one reason why it has always been so well governed.

In view of all these facts and also of the strong sentiment among a large proportion of the Republicans of Newton, it would seem to be the wisest plan to all unite in a caucus of citizens, consider only the question of who will make the best officers for the interests of the city, and then give them a united support. In a city election party ties sit very loosely on the average votes, and the best man generally wins.

The feeling in favor of a Citizen's ticket is stronger this year than ever before and as they have nothing to consider but the best interests of Newton, they will not be hampered in making their nominations.

The only spirited contest this year will probably be over the nomination for Mayor, and at present there seems to be a possibility that both parties may nominate the same man, Mr. H. E. Hibbard. There is little doubt that the Republican caucuses in Wards One and Seven will be carried by Mr. Hibbard's friends, and he has so many friends in the other wards that he may receive the nomination from both the Republicans and the Citizens. It cannot be denied, however, that there are some Republicans who have great influence at the caucuses, who are bitterly opposed to taking any candidate who has been put forward by the Citizen's party, and the result will depend on the number of citizens who can be gotten out to the caucuses on Saturday night. With a large attendance Mr. Hibbard's friends would be sure to carry the day, and as he has always been a Republican, there is no reason why he should not receive a Republican nomination, especially after the hearty endorsement he received last year. The preliminary contest will be full of interest, and in nominating Mr. Hibbard the Republican convention would be sure to name the winning man. The Citizen's party are not proud, and they would not regard it as any objection to a man that he had received a Republican nomination.

THE NINTH DISTRICT.

It was one of the most active campaigns ever waged in the ninth district, and even Mr. Williams' opponents could not help admiring his courageous campaign, which was waged from the start against great odds. But his energy was untiring and every night saw him on the stump in some part of the district. His earnestness and enthusiasm gave him great power over his audiences, and in this respect he had the advantage of Congressman Candler, who is not a brilliant stump speaker, as his speeches evidently lack preparation, and he is liable to wander from the issues under discussion.

Mr. Candler will be a loss to the state in many respects, as he was always ready to serve the interests of the people of Massachusetts, and did more for them than any of the other Republican congressmen from this state. Business men were sure of a hearing from Mr. Candler, while from Mr. Lodge, for instance, they generally got the cold shoulder, unless it was something to advance his personal or political interests. If Mr. Candler had been faithful to his former liberal opinions on the tariff he could not have been defeated.

He has left Mr. Williams a good example to follow, in regard to giving a willing ear to business men who appeal to him, and also in regard to the post office contests, which Mr. Candler settled by civil service reform principles. He made some bitter enemies by doing so, but on the other hand he made many friends, and he received more votes in Newton than he would have got had he followed the advice of the politicians. Of Mr. Williams it can be said that he has many qualities that a Massachusetts representative needs, one of the chief of which is his perfect independence, and it would not be safe for any caucus to try to whip him into line. With such young men as Williams and Hoar and Andrew in Washington, there is no danger that Massachusetts will be lost sight of.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

There are seven members of the school board to be nominated this year, and the Saturday night caucuses will elect delegates to the convention which is to nominate these men. There are two vacancies to be filled, one in Ward Two, to fill the unexpired term of Hon. J. W. Dickinson; one from Ward Six, to fill the unexpired term of Mr. A. D. S. Bell. In regard to the first there will probably be a contest, as the friends of Rev. R. A. White will make an effort to see that he is nominated. In Ward Three, Mr. Barnard has been a very useful member and will without doubt be renominated. Mrs. Davis will also probably be renominated, if she desires, unless it is decided to nominate two men to represent the ward, as there is said to be some intention of doing.

In Ward Four, two new members will have to be chosen, owing to the death of Mr. Parker, and the removal from the ward of Dr. Baker.

In Ward Six, Mr. A. L. Harwood will have a unanimous renomination, as he is emphatically in the right place, and is of great assistance to the board, from his wide experience in the Newton schools. From Ward Seven, Rev. Mr. Hornbrook will also have a renomination, as he is one of the strongest and most influential members of the board, and his services can not easily be spared.

There is no special excitement over the school board nominations this year, which is in marked contrast to former years, and the school troubles seem to have been happily settled.

The vote for Senator in this district is very close, and can not be ascertained definitely, probably, until the official returns are given. In Newton, Mr. Gilman obtained the remarkable plurality of 719, and apparently a large number of Democrats did not take the trouble to vote for Senator. The Democrats intend, it is said, to petition for a recount in Newton as they imagine that some mistake has been made, judging from the totals of the votes for the two candidates. Waltham gave Mr. Gilman a majority of 93, Lexington 33, Concord 44, with Lincoln still to hear from. As Lincoln on the governor vote was about evenly divided, this would give Mr. Gilman a plurality in the towns mentioned of 889. Waterdown and Belmont gave a plurality of 809 for Davis, which makes Mr. Gilman 89 ahead.

ONE vote was changed from Candler to Williams in this way. A Newton lady went into a leading dry goods store of Boston to purchase underwear for her children. She asked for the same make that she bought last year, and found that she had to pay three dollars more for the same number of articles, "on account of the McKinley bill," although the garments were made in this country. She also bought some table linen, the price of which had advanced 20 per cent. As her husband is a salaried man, he could not figure out how the McKinley bill helped him, and so voted for Williams. There were many who were taught by such object lessons as this, in spite of the claim of the high tariff orators that as there is no tariff on American goods the McKinley bill could not advance the prices of such goods.

BRACKETT had 372 plurality in 1889 and this year 332. In 1888 Candler had 388 plurality and this year it came down to 202. Lt. Gov. Haile had the largest vote of any candidate on the State ticket, 1808, and Col. Olin, Marden, Pillsbury and Read all received over 1800. Mr. Gilman had the largest plurality of any candidate, 719, Mr. Davis, who was not known in Newton, running behind his ticket. Mr. Dwight Chester led the representative ticket, while Mr. Saltonstall only fell 41 votes behind Capt. Howard, a remarkable record for a Democratic candidate for representative.

The Milford Journal is bragging about how splendidly Milford did for Candler. It gave him a plurality of just 8 votes. Here in Newton we gave Mr. Candler a plurality of 202, but we don't brag of it. The Milford Journal always has more to say than other paper about who shall be nominated, and then calls on Newton to come forward and elect him. It looks as though Newton would be allowed to have something to say about the next Republican candidate.

The returns show that the Australian ballot law is a great incentive to independent voting. When a man is left alone with a ticket and a lead pencil, he can't help thinking who is the best man, and the party label has not half the influence it did when all he had to do was put a straight ticket in the ballot box. Then he could vote without thinking, and the character of the candidate did not trouble him so much.

The city will save $10,000 by constructing the filter basin under City Engineers Noyes, and the Water Board, instead of building it by contract. The work is so near completed that its total cost can be pretty accurately estimated, and it is ten thousand under the lowest bid received. Such an amount as that is worth saving and shows that in Newton at least contract work is not always the cheapest.

It is three years since Mr. Chaloner held an art exhibit in Newton and the public will be glad of another opportunity to see his work. His water colors show a delicacy of feeling and treatment very pleasing to genuine art lovers and his choice of local subjects and of picturesque interest ought specially to attract the people of Newton.

The Board of Public Works bill was defeated by 250 votes, only about half the people taking the trouble to vote upon it. Now the question is who will be the Superintendent of streets, and will the appointment be left over for the next Mayor to make?

In Ward Two, where Mr. Candler re-appointed a Democratic postmaster, his vote did not vary much from that of Brackett, and in Lower Falls he also kept up with his ticket, so that the post-office contests had no effect to speak of.

A correspondent wants to know why the city government takes no action on the abolition of grade crossings, and points out the necessity of having the grades separated before the sewerage system is laid out.

THEY are having a good deal of good-natured fun with a Newton man who made a campaign speech for Mr. Candler, Monday night, and the next day the town where he spoke gave 38 majority for Williams.

GOVERNOR Brackett will leave his office with the respect of the people, for he has made an excellent record, and had it not been for McKinley he would have been re-elected by the usual majority.

NEWTON showed a smaller falling off in its Republican votes than any other city in the state, which is evidence of the good work done by the ward and city committee.

The totals of the vote on the bill to establish a board of public works, are transposed in the table given on the second page, and should read no 1250, yes 904.

Those who favor a Citizens' party in the city election feel very comfortable over the vote of Tuesday.

The notice of registration for women who wish to vote in the city election is given on the 3d page.

Death of W. D. Bickford.

Mr. W. D. Bickford died at his residence on Jewett street, Sunday evening. The deceased was 75 years of age, and was born in Epsom, N. H. For 50 years he had been engaged in the ship chandlery business in Boston. He was first associated with Mr. Luther Dana, a few years later going into business for himself on Atlantic avenue. Subsequently his brother became associated with him under the firm name of W. D. & S. L. Bickford. The deceased retired from business in 1888. Mr. Bickford was a prominent Odd Fellow and a 32nd degree mason, being at the time of his death a member of Bethel lodge, F. A. M., of Brighton, where he formerly resided, holding office there under the old town government, as a member of the board of selectmen. He had resided in Newton about 10 years, where he was much respected and esteemed. A widow, two sons and two daughters survive him. The funeral was held at his late residence, Wednesday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Rufus A. White, pastor of the Universalist church, Newtonville, and appropriate selections were rendered by the Welver quartet. The floral tributes were simple and beautiful, and included a number of Boston business men. The pall bearers were Messrs. George W. Warren, Samuel N. Davenport, C. W. Oxford and Edward H. Leonard. The remains were interred in the Newton cemetery.

STANDARD CLOTHING COMPANY.

WHAT JIM TARBOX SAYS!

THE KING OF FRIEZE.

FOR DRIVERS AND OTHERS.

Warranted strictly all wool, and snow and water-proof.

The Best Ulster ever made for $12.

THE STANDARD CLOTHING CO.,
395 Washington Street, Boston.

To Whom it May Concern:

In February, 1889, the STANDARD CLOTHING Company sent me a Dark Oxford Mix Frieze Ulster, which they called their "King of Friezes," with the request to give it the hardest possible wear during the balance of the winter. Although there was no snow of any amount, it was a very wet season, and I wore the coat daily in my business, and found it exactly as they represented, impervious to water and snow. I have the ulster in use now, and can confidently recommend it as the most desirable, strongest, warmest ulster that I have ever owned.

The price of this "King of Friezes," $12, brings it within the reach of every hack driver, herdick driver, car driver, or any one whose business is out of doors, and who needs a coat that will shed water or snow.

JAMES M. TARBOX, Superintendent Herdic-Phaeton Co.

A Long-Felt Want Supplied.

A Warm, Durable, All-Wool, Water and Snow-proof Ulster, at the moderate price of $12.00.

The KING OF FRIEZE.

The President of our Company—an expert in woollens—has been two years perfecting a fabric that would be impervious to snow and rain, and yet that could be sold at a moderate price. In the "King of Frieze" a perfect success has been attained.

STANDARD CLOTHING CO., 395 Washington St.

Overcoats, Ulsters and Cape Coats.

We have manufactured and placed upon our tables for the coming season, the largest and most complete stock of Overcoats ever shown in this country, and at the lowest prices ever named for Reliable Goods. We say this boldly for it is the simple truth. We name a few of the Special Bargains:

West of England Kerseys, in blue, black and brown—all colors warranted fast—for $15; worth $22.
Fine Oxford Kersey, $15.00; worth $20.00.

NEWTONVILLE.

—Mr. H. M. Barker and family have moved to New York City.

—D. H. Fitch moved into his new store in Associates' block Tuesday evening.

—Mrs. S. J. Brown has been entertaining Mrs. Staples and Mrs. Young of Worcester.

—Rev. R. A. White officiated at the funeral of Mr. Weare D. Bickford at Newton, Wednesday afternoon.

—A Republican caucus will be held in Tremont Hall, Saturday night, to make nominations for the city election.

—The result of the bowling contests in the Amateur Interclub League series will be found elsewhere in this paper.

—Mr. W. P. Walworth, who formerly occupied a house on Walnut terrace, has removed with his family to Boston.

—Messrs. J. C. Fuller & French have rented to A. H. Drown, of Concord, N. H., one of the houses in Kimball terrace.

—The six year old child of Mr. John Carter narrowly escaped being run over by an express wagon Monday afternoon.

—District Deputy Grand Regent H. A. Boynton with Bro. E. W. Bailey, paid an official visit to No. Attleboro Council Royal Arcanum, last week.

—"Should women be represented in the general conference" is the subject of a lecture which will be delivered in the Methodist church this evening.

—Chas. Ward Post will hold an old fashioned campfire next Monday evening, and it is hoped all comrades and associate members will be present.

—The Methodists held their social at the beautiful residence of Mr. A. H. Soden, Washington park, last evening. The usual social and entertainment features were enjoyed.

—The Newton Co-operative Bank held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening. The sum of $3000 was sold—$2000 at 25 cents premium; $500 at 30 cents and $500 at 20 cents.

—The following unclaimed letters remain in the Newtonville postoffice: Mrs. John D. Allen, Miss Sadie Boyle, B. Butler, Mrs. Mary J. George, Mrs. Henry Johnson, Jas. M. Lent.

—Walnut street is being reconstructed between Homer and Beacon streets. The work has progressed a little beyond the Newton Cemetery. The new street of the road will fully come up to the standard.

—Capt. Higgins, T. C. Nickerson, J. Honnamus and L. H. Cranlich, representing the Newtonville truck company, were visitors at the Gloucester fair last week. It was whispered about that Capt. Higgins had won the boodle prize.

—There will be an exhibition of water colors at Tremont Hall, on Thursday and Friday of next week, Nov. 13th and 14th. In this exhibit Mr. W. L. Chaloner has many pictures of his own and of other Newton. The public are cordially invited.

—The Society of Christian Endeavor, connected with the Central Congregational church, held a social at the residence of Mrs. Jones, Central avenue, last evening. Entertainment was provided and the hours were pleasantly and profitably spent.

—Services at the Universalist church next Sunday morning as usual at 10:45. The pastor will preach, topic, The Word of the Lord. Special service in the evening at 7:30. The choir will be assisted by Mr. Wellington, soloist from Dr. Horton's church, Boston.

—Rev. R. A. White hopes to be able to give the second series of special sermons on Sunday evening next in the Universalist church. Mr. Wellington, of Rev. Mr. Horton's church, Copley square, will, it is expected, render several solos, thus enhancing the sacred pleasure of the hour.

—Rev. Charles Conklin of the Shawmut avenue church, Boston, spoke to a large audience in the Universalist church on Sunday evening. The topic chosen was "And Peter followed after." Rev. Mr. Conklin is a speaker of fine presence and voice, and possesses an apparent reserve force and power that attracts his listeners with a wonderful magnetism. His arguments are simple, direct and earnest, and while he has large sympathy for the frailties of humanity, he does not fear to express freely his thoughts as to the duties that lie before his hearers.

—The returns were received by special wire at the Newton Clubhouse Tuesday evening, through the courtesy of President Cobb. There was a large attendance of members representing, of course, both parties and the announcement of the result in various parts of the state were received with gravity and enthusiasm. When it became apparent that Russell had captured the old Bay State a number of wry faces could be seen peering into the light in a "Don't care" sort of manner, while the features of the Simon pure Democrats, sympathetic tariff reform Republicans and Independent Mugwumps were wreathed in smiles. The club is especially indebted to Mr. Cobb for his kindness in making all necessary arrangements for receiving accurate news from all parts of the state.

—Rev. R. A. White once more occupied his pulpit on Sunday morning, much to the gratification of his parish, who have been anxiously waiting for his return to better health, and although not fully recovered he was able to fulfill the duties of the service. His topic was Inferior Hindrances. He spoke of the valuable hours frittered away, when perhaps some sick person, needing made to feel that a ray of sunshine had fallen upon them, and the hours of pain he soothed by the remembrance of the call; how some poor family might be cheered and comforted by the kind words of a personal interest shown, of the people who were simply passively good; who never developed their nature to its highest and best, but lived and died satisfied, even though they had wasted their highest powers; of the price paid, when for political ambition, for physical indulgence, for power and place, a man sacrificed his honor and involved the innocent in the disgrace of the deed. The price paid for these things was too much. The price paid for anything that degraded rather than elevated the moral and spiritual nature was far too great a price.

—The regular meeting of the Goddard Literary Union was held in the Unitarian church parlors on Tuesday evening, and members who were fortunate enough to be present, were treated to one of the most interesting entertainments, both of a literary and musical nature, that it has been their good fortune to listen to, (under these auspices), for some time. The program was under the management of Mrs. H. D. Kingsbury and Mr. J. L. Richards; the piano and vocal solos were ably rendered, and the readings were admirable, commanding the highest praise from the audience. It is the aim of the officers in charge to make this the most prosperous year of the society, and a novel and highly interesting program has been laid out for the coming winter entertainments. An old folks concert is to be given in December, under the able management of H. Y. Pinkham, to which the public will be invited. The following was the program rendered Tuesday evening: Piano solos, Mrs. W. H. Kimball; vocal solos, Mrs. French, Mrs. Cunningham, Miss Lizzie Allen, Mrs. Otis Hall; readings, Mrs. Andrew Wellington, Miss Mary Crawford.

A Colonial High Back Rocking Chair in English Oak, hand carved, finely upholstered in silk plush, with polished brass trimmings, and mounted on fine easy rockers, can be purchased at Palmer's Furniture Warehouses on Canal street, in Boston, at the low price of $4. It is a wonderful bargain.

—Miss Minnie O'Neil of Milwaukee who has been visiting Mrs. W. B. Merrill, left town this week.

—Miss M. Thompson of Kennebunk has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Barry.

—A new double quartet began last Sunday at the Baptist church. It promises to be an interesting feature.

—New shingles are being laid on the roof of the Congregational church. Mr. Milo Lucas is doing the work.

—The Episcopal choir this fall consists of Mr. and Mrs. David Harding, Miss Cousens and Mr. Ayre of the Highlands.

—A Republican caucus will be held in the City Hall, Saturday evening, to make nominations for the city election.

—All lovers of crysanthemums are cordially invited to see the collection at the conservatory of H. A. Gane on Waltham street.

—Frank W. Richardson of Watertown street, returned last Saturday from his home in New Hampshire, much improved in health.

—Rev. Dr. Farnce of the Baptist church will speak to the young people next Sunday morning, subject being, "Message and Messengers."

—Officer John Ryan is receiving a large number of votes in the Globe contest. He is a popular officer, and all Newton people interested should vote for him.

—A Sunday school service will be held at the Congregational church next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Address by the pastor, his topic being, "The Seven Johns."

—The Seventh Club had a supper and dance in Allen's Hall, Wednesday evening, a large number being present. Rice's orchestra furnished music from 8 to 12 o'clock.

—Mr. Lorenzo Gibbs of Washington street and David Conant of Margin street, have been sworn in to the jury. Mr. Gibbs is on a case in Cambridge, and Mr. Conant on one in Lowell.

—A Cent-A-Day-Band was formed at the Congregational church last Sunday evening with 20 members. The object of this band is to enable members to pay a cent a day for missionary purposes.

—Mr. Belcher, electrician on the Newton street railway, has rented E. T. Wiswall's house corner of Cross and Wistwall streets, formerly occupied by Mr. Howard Barker who has removed to New York.

—Miss L. L. Ames' class in literature opened this fall with a membership of over 40. The course of study commences with Emerson, and under her guidance, an instructive and delightful season may be anticipated.

—Miss Bertha Carroll has opened a dancing school for children at the City Hall, Monday afternoon. She has the valuable assistance of Miss Perrin and other instructors, and the class already numbers over 50.

—About twenty ladies belonging to the Ladies Union went on Wednesday afternoon to visit the Prison at Sherborn. A large number of the ladies were present, and the visit was an interesting one, the authorities there doing their best to entertain the ladies.

—Mr. Fred. Lyries of Cambridge, who assisted at the Organ recital last week, Wednesday evening, has been engaged by the society at its regular organist. Mr. Lyries is an accomplished musician and the society is to be congratulated upon securing his services.

—There will be an exhibition and sale of water colors in Tremont Hall, Newtonville, on Thursday and Friday of next week, Nov. 13th and 14th, afternoons and evenings. In this exhibit Mr. W. L. Chaloner has many scenes of local interest and around Newton. The public are cordially invited.

—At the meeting of Loyalty Lodge, I. O. G. T., last Wednesday evening, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: C. F. G. Carlton, Russell, Y. T. Mrs. C. M. Kimball; Sec., Clara Thompson; Treas., Arthur S. Kimball; F. S. W. H. Rand; C. Arthur R. Coe; M. Walter W. Bruce; G. Frank Ellis; S. Mrs. N. B. Rand; S. J. T., Ethlyn Ellis.

—The Newell Y. P. S. C. E. held its anniversary in the chapel of the Congregational church, Wednesday evening. An arch of leaves was neatly arranged over the pulpit. The meeting was in charge of the president of the society, Joseph A. Symond. Excellent music was furnished by the Newton High School orchestra, a male quartet from the Eliot society of Newton, and by Mr. Bert Walker, cornetist. Delegates were present from the surrounding villages and towns. After the meeting all retired to the parlors, where a social was held and a collation served.

—The Ladies Auxiliary Society connected with the Unitarian church, held a reception in the parlors, Thursday p.m. They sent invitations to branch societies in adjoining towns, which were cordially responded to. The society, addressed by Mrs. Andrews, president of the National Alliance and Miss Hooper of Boston. The former gave an interesting account of her visit to the Montana Indian school under the auspices of this demonstration, and testified to the "glorious work" accomplished by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bond. They have been succeeded by Mr. and Mrs. Spencer as superintendents. Mrs. Bond was present giving additional information, which added greatly to the interest of the meeting. Miss Hooper followed with remarks upon the late conference held at Lake Mohonk. She spoke of the excellent school supported by the National Alliance and Episcopalians among the Indians, the former contributing $300,000 to their support. She spoke also of the Industrial school at Roxbury, and made a plea for the Meadville Seminary needing two additional professors. A bountiful collation was served at the close of this most valuable meeting.

—The first formal winter meeting of the West Newton Woman's Educational Club was held in the Unitarian church parlors last Friday afternoon, with an excellent attendance numbering about 125 members. The meeting was of a social character, although $30 was taken as a voluntary contribution toward the scholarship of the Tuskegee Normal school. Between the hours of 4 and 5 o'clock tea was served and a pleasant feature of the social entertainment was pianoforte numbers by Mrs. D. L. Newton. High School orchestra, a male quartet from the Eliot society of Newton, and by Mr. Bert Walker, cornetist. Delegates were present from the surrounding villages and towns. After the meeting all retired to the parlors, where a social was held and a collation served.

—The organ recently built for the Unitarian society was given a formal opening Wednesday evening, with an organ recital by Mr. J. Wallace Goodrich of Newton, assisted by Miss Marie Donovan and Mr. Chas. S. Johnson of Boston. The organ selections played by Mr. Goodrich and Mr. Johnson were happily made with a view to well displaying every quality of the organ, and embraced compositions and arrangements of works by Bach, Spohr, Mendelssohn and Gullmatt. Miss Donovan was heard in an aria from Goun's "Holy City" and in songs by Edvard and De Koven. She is the possessor of a beautiful soprano voice while her singing evidences that thorough musical nature so often lacking, even in professional singers. Miss Donovan is now studying with Miss Munger, and the results she has already achieved under her guidance should encourage her to make good the great promise now shown by her work. The organ is one of exceptionally fine tone, is encased in solid cherry, and contains two manuals with twenty speaking stops.

AUBURNDALE.

—Mrs. B. C. Baker of Middleboro is visiting friends in town.

—A Republican caucus will be held in Auburn Hall, Saturday night.

—Hose 5 answered the alarm from box 5, Wednesday, for fire in a shed belonging to Thos. Kenney, Lower Falls.

—Prof. H. E. Monroe of Boston, is to give a series of lectures on dancing at the Woodland Park Hotel, Tuesday, Nov. 11th, from four to six p.m.

—Rev. Luther Freeman of Wollaston will preach at the Methodist church next Sunday morning. Music by male quartet, and chorals of lady voices from the seminary.

—Mr. H. Beard, secretary of the Foreign Game Club, started this week for South Paris, Me., where the club have a meet and fox hunt. There will be 300 dogs in the hunt.

—Messrs. F. C. Bass and C. G. Tinkham tested the speed of their favorite horses one day this week, driving from S. F. Cate's stable, West Newton, to Nahant and back. Both claim the victory.

—Albert Plummer and Fred Francis of Portsmouth, N. H., formerly clerk for Mr. Alfred Brush, have just returned from an enjoyable trip to Savannah, Ga., visiting on their way Norfolk, Va., and Baltimore, Md.

—There will be an exhibition of water colors in Tremont Hall, Newtonville, next week Thursday and Friday afternoons and evenings. Among the sketches are many scenes of local interest and around Newton. The public are cordially invited.

—Mr. H. W. Robinson and family of Lexington street have just returned from a winter at the Hortholme. Extensive improvements will be made to their residence here, and after this winter they will become permanent residents of Auburndale.

—List of unclaimed letters remaining at the postoffice: Mrs. Miss Jessie de Chasse, A. J. Doyle, E. L. Evans, Mr. Edward Forsyth, Miss Mabel Falley, Miss Mary Gleason, Miss Mary Howard, Mr. Jno. S. Leary, Miss Isabella A. Treadwell, Miss Mabel E. Miller.

—At the memorial service for the late Charles Edward Parker on All Saints Day morning, the floral altar decorations were very beautiful, the flowers being the gift of Mr. Parker's friends; those presented by Mr. John G. Forbes, the florist, were particularly fine.

—The Woodland Park Hotel register shows the following arrivals for the week: Mr. and Mrs. John F. Devlin, New York; Rev. Dr. Doty, Rochester; Mrs. Miller, New York; Misses A. C. Hammond and maid, Middlebury, Vt.; Mrs. Dwight, Miss Dwight, Mrs. H. F. Nevins, Mrs. S. G. Nickerson, Charles M. Eddy, Boston.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Wesley Miller of Wellesley Hills, have issued invitations for a reception of their friends in Boston, on Wednesday, Nov. 13th, which will immediately follow the marriage of their daughter, Isabel Procter, and Mr. A. Lincoln Fowle, that takes place at the Church of the Advent on that day. Mr. Fowle is a well known in social and journalistic circles in Boston and its vicinity that the event is being looked forward to with interest by their many friends.

—A good deal of complaint is rife in the village this week because of the poor lighting system. On Tuesday evening the electric light on Auburn street opposite Lexington, was not lighted at all, and the entire length of Lexington street was shrouded in darkness. Wednesday night all the lights went out before 8 o'clock. It is understood complaint has been made to proper authorities with no satisfaction, and at present the residents on these streets are feeling very warm over it.

—It is due the memory of Charles Edward Parker to say a word regarding his social life. He was a social man, and in his youth in Auburndale, Henry E., the eldest, at whose home his father died, is harbor-master at Newport News, the seaport whose phenomenal growth has recently made it famous all over the country. He is also agent of the Chesapeake & Ohio, and several other railway systems, and of the Brazilian Mail Steamship Company. He is a young man of exceptional business ability, intelligent and successful. During his father's illness, everything that kind hearts could devise, or willing hands execute, was done. A special steamer was placed at his disposal, and the removal of his father's remains, and fifty or more of his employees acted as escort and as pall bearers, rendering every possible kind service. The Rev. Mr. Mayo, rector of St. Paul's church, officiated at the funeral, and in the most kind and delicate manner to the sick and dying man, and afterwards to the bereaved ones, the rich consolations of the most holy faith. It was a great satisfaction to Mr. Parker to spend his last few weeks of his life with the son who had been away from home for twenty years. David L., the second son, is well known in Auburndale, and highly esteemed. He is a member of the enterprising firm of Lamkin Foster & Co., in Boston. John L., the third son, is connected with a prominent business firm in Galveston, Texas, where he is highly respected. The fourth son, Horatio William, is organist and choir master at the Church of the Holy Trinity, New York City; a young musician and composer of considerable reputation. Edward, the youngest son, is a student at home with his two sisters, to be the comfort of his mother. While Mr. Parker's second marriage was a union of unusual tenderness and completeness, lasting thirty-one years, still his three older sons shared his affection equally with the younger children. They are a family in whom their mother may justly take pride and comfort, worthy sons and daughters to cherish as the true treasure the memory of a father who never did a mean or dishonest thing, and never earned the disrespect of anyone.

Lasell Notes.

A very excellent audience listened with the school to the concert of choice music on the violin and piano, by the brothers Geo. and Wm. Nowell, Friday evening, Oct. 31. After the concert a reception was held in the parlors for the musicians and the friends present, and refreshments were served in the dining room. Friday evening there was no opportunity for the pupils to observe the Hallow e'en festival. They comforted themselves by a gay fancy party in the gymnasium, Saturday evening, with music, dancing and refreshments. Letters have arrived from the party which is making the tour of the world. They were mailed at Honolulu, and of course are not so late news as the cablegram from Honolulu of the 29th. These letters tell of the good health of the party and the pleasures of the voyage. The military drill began on Tuesday under charge of Major George Benyon again. The companies are large with a good number of veterans, and the circumstances are all very auspicious.

Also the gymnasium is now open and its exercises have recommenced. The teacher has been very busy taking measurements, supplying suits, shoes, etc., and arranging the order of exercises for pupils and classes.

A party of more than thirty were studying the picture galleries in Boston Monday. The cooking lesson of Oct. 27 was upon twin biscuits, broiled fillet of beef, maitre d'hotel butter, cream toast. Nov. 3 it was First Principles of Cookery, baked fish, Lyonnaise potatoes, baked kidneys.

The Rebecca Pomroy Home Fair.

The fair in aid of the Pomroy Home for Orphan Girls was held at the home on Hovey Street, Wednesday afternoon and evening and was very largely attended, the rooms being filled with ladies during the afternoon and with both ladies and gentlemen during the evening. The tables were well supplied with useful and fancy articles and the refreshment rooms and candy tables were liberally supplied with dainties, and a goodly sum was raised for the benefit of the home, which for 18 years has done such a great charitable work in Newton. It admits girls between 5 and 11 years, and has cared for 52, 18 of whom have completed a full course of training and 19 are now earning comfortable livings. Quite a number of the girls have found good homes in families in Newton and elsewhere. Miss Anna L. Boyden is the present superintendent and she is ably assisted by Miss Elizabeth Robbins, one of the graduates of the home.

The following ladies and gentlemen were in charge of the fair: Mrs. French, Mrs. George Travis, Mrs. Huff, Miss Annie Welch, Miss Clara Shippard, Miss Anna L. Boyden, Miss Lovejoy, Miss Allen, Miss Emery, Mrs. E. R. Barnes, Miss Grace Safford, Miss M. Howland, Miss D. Hyde, Mrs. J. H. Robinson, Miss A. Spear, Miss Lucy E. Cobb, Miss Grace Jones, Miss Fannie Carpenter, Miss Minnie Speare, Miss Bullock, Miss Grace Stevenson, Miss Hastings, Miss Golding, Miss May Kimball, Mr. Kenneth Hardon, Mr. Huff.

Among the active workers in the enterprise were Mrs. J. Sturgis Potter, Mrs. Henry M. Bates, Mrs. Henry C. Hardon, Mrs. Andrew S. March and other prominent society people.

The grossly sum of over $700 was realized, and there are still many articles remaining, which will be for sale at the Home on Hovey street, for the remainder of the week.

The directors and superintendent of the Home, desire to render their warmest thanks to the business firms in Boston and in Newton, who generously aided us to the young ladies who decorated and served at the tables, to all who in any way aided in bringing about this grand result. Further particulars together with the exact sum realized will be given in next week's issue.

MRS. HAWES'S TWINS.

BY MARIE LOUISE POOL.

Mrs. Hawes had returned to her work of looking over old coats and trousers with a view to making them into rugs. She remarked to herself, and to the cat, that it "wasn't no manner of use to waste her breath callin' when folks didn't want to hear."

She stood tearing off a strip from an old-time Sunday coat belonging to her husband, when the door opened quickly, and a girl about sixteen years old walked in with an air as if she had been running. "Here I am, mother!" she said. "What is it you want?"

"Mrs. Hawes called in." "Twas Martha Jane I was givin' her," she said.

"I'm Martha Jane. O mother, when will you know me?"

The girl threw back her head and laughed. Mrs. Hawes dropped the coat-skirt, gazed a moment, and then laughed, too, but with a vexed air.

"That comes of havin' twins to contend with," she remarked. "I thought by the way you broke into the room 'twas Jane Marthy. She's liable to come through a door's as if she had been shot out of a gun. Where've you both been?"

"Down't the brook. The wind blew so't we didn't hear you when you first called. Did you want anything particular?"

The girl tried to speak patiently, though she was longing to go back and resume making a swing between the two cider apple-trees.

"Miss Lawler's jest been here," Mrs. Hawes announced.

Oh, has she?"

Martha Jane clasped her hands as she put this question. Her face flushed, and her eyes sparkled with interest.

Her mother partially ripped a sleeve before she spoke again. Then she continued: "She's decided to have that music-party—musikari, she calls it—next Wednesday even'."

That German, Herr Rickerstruther or something, can come then—sooner'n she expects. She invited both you girls. She said it would be finer'n anything you'd ever heard. Miss Dalrymple from Boston's goin' to sing. I thought you'd like to know right off. That's why I called, though I knew you was havin' a good time at the brook."

Martha Jane turned and walked to the window. From there she asked, "You said we were both invited?"

"To be sure. I'm afraid you'll have a hard time decidin' the mother answered, anxiously.

"There's nothing to decide," said Martha Jane. "It's Jenny's turn. I went to the church fair last month, you know." She came from there with her bills to pay before her mother. She flung out her hands with a quick gesture as she exclaimed, passionately, "I do wish we had more than one dress! It does seem sometimes as if I couldn't bear it."

"You don't wish any more'n I do," said Mrs. Hawes. "You know just how 'tis. We keep havin' doctor's bills to pay for my sick spells, 'n now it don't look as if we could ever afford for you each to have a nice dress. I s'pose we ought to be thankful you c'n have one" 'n so swap 'round 'bout goin' to places, bein' jest of a size, 'n as like to two peas, anyway. I wish 'twas diff'rent, but I can't help it."

She sighed as she ran her knife across the stitches.

Martha Jane was moving restlessly about the room.

"Praps Jane Marthy'd give you her chance," suggested Mrs. Hawes, more to see what this daughter would say than for any other reason.

"I shouldn't wonder," was the response. "She's twice as good as I am, but she wants to hear that music as much as I do. She loves it just as well. No, it's her turn. She must go, and I must stay at home and envy her. It's horrid, horrid, to be so poor."

The girl tried to keep the tears that rushed to her eyes from falling on her cheeks. She saw her mother's lips tremble.

"I'll be good about it after a little," Martha Jane said, in an unsteady voice. "Only give me time to think it over and get the upper hand of myself."

She hurried out of the room, and up the steep stairs to the chamber under the roof which she shared with her sister. She sat down on the bed, crying out in a whisper, "I'd rather hear Miss Dalrymple sing than anything else in the world!"

Then justice compelled her to add, "So would Jenny, and I'm sure of it."

In ten minutes she came down the stairs. She opened the door and tried to speak with brave cheerfulness.

"All right, mother! I don't mean to be a mean wretch this time."

She ran at the top of her speed down to the brook, where her sister was now trying the new swing, dreamily "letting the old cat die" in the soft, sweet air.

Mrs. Hawes left down her work, and watched the young figure as it bounded along. "They couldn't either of 'em be mean wretches to save their lives," she said aloud with a kind of sorrowful pride.

But Martha Jane had not yet fully got "the upper hand of herself." When she told Jane Marthy of the invitation, and said, "It's your turn, you know," she felt rather bitter. It seemed to her that her sister's turn always came at the best things.

There was silence for a moment. Then Jenny said, as if speaking to herself, "Only to think of hearing Miss Dalrymple sing!"

These twin girls were gifted not only with the musical temperament, but with rarely sweet singing voices. Not to be able to improve these gifts under competent instruction had been one of the great trials of their poverty.

Martha did not speak. She felt very hard and disagreeable. She recalled the resolves just made in the little chamber, but the recollection did not do her much good. She knew she was yielding to evil. She felt her eyes burn and snap.

The two girls sat in the broad seat of the swing, which barely moved. A red-shouldered blackbird came into one of the apple-trees over them, and sang out his delicious melody. At the first note Jenny turned toward her sister. She knew instantly all that Martha was feeling. She had a moment's fight with herself, then she said:

"You shall take my turn, and I'll have the next two turns at our own. That'll be fair, won't it?"

Martha had spoken truth when she had said that Jenny was better than she was. She knew in her heart that she had often taken advantage of that self-sacrificing spirit, and she had had many a "crying fit" of remorse because she had done so. Now she was tempted again, and almost ready to yield.

She shrugged her shoulders violently. "No," she said, with emphasis, "it wouldn't be fair. You know as well as I do that this chance is worth all we may have in a year." She made a great effort, and added, "And I won't take your turn, so there!"

She kept bravely to her resolve all through the three days which followed. It was Jenny, the lucky one, who went about her work in a perturbed state of mind. She kept looking furtively at her sister.

It was only on the morning of the Wednesday she appeared to cheer up somewhat. She had a private consultation with her mother, who constantly interrupted her with the exclamations: "The land's sake! It'll never do! It's just a crazy idea!" but she laughed as she uttered these interjections, and finally said, "Well, p'raps there's no harm in it, but don't ask me to help you, 'n if you get into any trouble, don't blame nobody but yourself."

"There's no trouble to get into," responded Jane Marthy, confidently. "Nobody'll ever know anything about it, anyway. I'll go up to the village now and call at Mrs. Hardy's. I know she'll be willing."

It was not half an hour later when Mrs. Hardy, who lived just across the street from the tall verandah house which was Miss Lawler's home, opened her front door to find one of the Hawes twins waiting.

"Come in," she said, cordially. "Of course I don't know which 'tis, but you're welcome all the same."

"It's Martha," replied the girl, stepping into the cool hall.

When she was sitting by the kitchen table, whereon Mrs. Hardy was rolling pie-crust, she hesitated and blushed a good deal before she really announced her errand. When she had done so, however, she went on easily enough, and latched with the good-natured lady who listened to her.

"Mother finally told me I might," she said, "if you were entirely willing."

"Just as willing as I can be," was the answer. "There'll be a great time at the Lawlers' to-night. Very select, too. Only musical people going. I suppose Miss Lawler thought you and Martha Jane are musical, and so you are."

When, at a quarter before eight that evening, Jane Marthy timidly went up the path leading to the great Lawler house, she saw through the windows how brilliant the rooms looked, and how lovely were the flowers in them. She felt very small, but still very eager.

Miss Lawler herself, a tall lady in thin, shimmering silk, was coming through the hall when the servant let in the twin. She smiled at the shrinking child, and Jane Marthy collected her wits.

The first thing the lady said was, "What everybody said when I saw you. Jane was met alone: 'Which is it?' and when the girl had told her, 'I'm sorry you could not both come. I'll put you in a good place where you can see and hear.'"

Jane, in the pretty, light-colored cashmere which she had bought for her sister, was placed in a chair near the door, where she could see the piano and every one who played or sang. She looked at the open door and breathed a sigh of relief. Then she gave herself up to enjoyment.

The German Herr, as she called him, played. She had not known that a piano could sound like that, but still she waited for the singer. She knew that the slender girl in white, who had at her throat a cluster of carnation pinks, must be the one.

Yes, it was she; and at last she sang. It was only in dreams that Jane had ever heard such tones, but she had dreamed of them often, and now it had all come true. The notes penetrated and thrilled Jane's heart until she could bear no more. She had unconsciously pressed her hands to her bosom, and as the last high notes soared and soared in pure sweetness, Jane, still not knowing what she did, rose from her seat and leaned forward.

Miss Dalrymple, turning when her song was done, saw the figure and met the vivid glance of the eyes.

Hardly noticing the applause, she turned to her hostess and said, "That child can sing?"

Miss Lawler looked at Jane, who was now looking back.

"Indeed she can. You shall hear her. She loves music so well, I think she will not even be afraid to sing now."

"Let me ask her."

The next moment Jane Marthy felt a hand on her shoulder. She looked up adoringly into Miss Dalrymple's face, and she felt that she had never given more pleasure.

"Will you sing for me?" she asked.

"Now?" whispered Jane.

"Presently. You shall stand close by me, and I will play for you. You shall sing what you please. Are you willing?"

"Oh, yes; for you?" answered the girl. Miss Dalrymple smiled down upon her and took a small, cold hand in her own.

So it happened that Jane's fresh, unsullied soprano voice, full of suggestions of power, was heard at Miss Lawler's musicale.

Miss Dalrymple listened in admiration. She rose from the piano and said, so that every one could hear, "I could not do more than this, but I was so glad to hear of the age of this child. It would be a shame if such a talent should be lost."

Then there was the bustle of movement and compliment, and "the Herr" was going to play again.

Jane went back to her seat quite dazed by what she had done, and by what Mr. Dalrymple had said. No one noticed her now, and she could listen undisturbed.

It was not until nearly an hour later, after cake and coffee and ices had been handed among the guests, that Miss Dalrymple again remembered the girl. There she was in her corner. She was eating an iced cake. The lady walked toward her.

"I want you to sing once more," she said. "I have a plan in my mind. Perhaps I can give you a couple of hours a week for the next few months. I shall live here with my friend until the winter."

The girl clasped her hands and began to tremble. She seemed bewildered.

"What you are not afraid this time, are you? It was really a treat to hear you before, or I would not ask you when so many are present."

"Yes, I am afraid," said the girl, "but since you want me to try, I must."

Miss Dalrymple was sorry for the child when she had placed her by the piano again. The small face was white and the lips almost stiff.

"Take heart," whispered the lady. "You did so well before. What shall it be?"

When, at last, the song was selected, Miss Dalrymple looked at her companion in surprise.

"Do you know in what key that is written?" she asked.

"Yes."

"But can you sing as low as that?"

"Oh, yes."

The other stood in amazement with the sheet of music in her hand.

"I don't understand it," she said.

There was a sudden discord among the keys of the piano, and Miss Dalrymple wheeled round and stared at the girl beside her, who trembled so that she could hardly stand.

There was entire silence among the people present.

"What does it mean?" cried Miss Dalrymple, looking about her in wonderment. "It cannot be possible that this child has two distinct singing voices, one very high and the other very low. She is a phenomenon."

Judge Lawler, in the doorway, began to chuckle audibly. He had seen a slight figure steal out and soon return, and now he thought he understood.

The girl, at whom everybody was looking, tried twice to speak before she could say a word. Then she burst out shrilly:

"Oh, if you please, I am the other twin!"

"That explains," cried the judge, and he began to roar with laughter. All the company joined in, and the "other twin" stood in the midst, blushing, and finally laughing, to the amusement of all.

"You are not the one who sang first?" she was asked.

"No, ma'am. That was my sister Jenny. It was her turn with the dress."

Martha Jane stammered, then was silent, growing more painfully red than ever.

She had waited across the way at Mrs. Hardy's for her sister to leave the party. Then the two had changed frocks so that both should have a share of the music. This had been Jenny's little plot. In the hurry of changing she had not told that she had been obliged to sing.

"No matter about the dress now," said Miss Dalrymple, with ready tact. "Let us finish the song."

The distressed young face appealed to her deeply.

Afterward, sitting by the child, she heard why the twins were obliged to make turns in everything nice, as Martha Jane expressed it. "But," said the girl, "it did seem as if we could not both give up hearing you. It was Jenny who thought up the plan."

The next morning Miss Dalrymple returned to Boston. As she left the phaeton in which Miss Lawler had driven her to the station, she saw two girls in plain frocks and bare feet, hurrying down the road. They were the twins, and they brought two lavish bunches of roses, which they shyly offered.

It was Martha Jane who spoke for both. But all she was able to say was, "Miss Dalrymple, we could not help coming to see you off—and to thank you."

The singer kissed each young face as she took the flowers. She thought she had never received homage so sweet as that she saw in their eyes.

The train was coming. "I shall remember the lessons I can't give you," she said.—Youth's Companion.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

THE ARENA.

The November Arena's table of contents display a variety of attractive subjects prepared by scholarly minds. Probably the most striking paper is on the Future American Drama, completed by Mr. Boucicault a few days before his death.

A paragraph of Mr. Boucicault's writing penned a few days before his death is reproduced on heavy plate paper, and accompanies the article. The venerable divine, Cyrus A. Bartol, whose strong yet benign face forms the frontispiece of this issue, writes on "Sex in Mind."

Prof. N. S. Shaler contributes an able philosophical paper on the African elephant in America. Professor Shaler is by birth and training a Kentuckian, by education and later residence a New Englander; he therefore views the race problem broadly. Rev. Minot J. Savage in a "Glance at the Good Old Times," gives a striking contrast between the past and the present. Nathan Haskell Dole contributes a paper on Turgenieff as a poet, giving like translations from the great Russian author. A magnificent full-page picture of Turgenieff, with his autograph in Russian, accompanies this paper. "A New Basis of Church Life" is the title of a thoughtful essay by Wilbur Lamoreaux. The heavy papers of this issue are enlivened by a charming paper entitled "Riding His Way," by the late Governor of Massachusetts, Taylor's life, supposed to be given by the governor in the dialect of his early home—East Tennessee. A beautiful poem entitled "Sunset on the Mississippi," by Virginia Frazier Boyle, follows. One of the most valuable and interesting features of this number is a symposium on "Destitution in Boston," by Edward Hamilton, Rev. Edward Everett Hale, Rabbi Solomon Schindler, Rev. O. P. Gifford, Rev. W. D. P. Bliss, editor of the Dawn, contribute to this symposium. The departments on "Notes on Living Problems" contain excellent contributions by Francis E. Wilcox, Gen. Marcus J. Wright, and Rev. Forrest A. March.

The usual interesting editorial notes complete this excellent issue. The Arena has become a popular review among those who think broadly and are brave enough to hear all sides. Its sterling ability, its conspicuous impartiality, and the fearlessness with which it takes all sides of the burning issues that are agitating society, has won for it a host of earnest readers.

WIDE AWAKE.

The Wide Awake for November has many articles which will incite its young readers with a desire and love of heroism, and none more so than autobiographical sketch of Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe by his daughter, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall. Portraits and other illustrations, with a page of engraved print for the blind bound in, add to the rare interest of the article. A story of heroism is "Lucy Perceval," by Margaret Sidney, who enters into the field of dialect writing very successfully. The opening story of the number tells how a little girl of war times was brave. There are many instructive articles and bright poems, and stories, and the whole number is the best sort of reading for young people. Published by D. Lothrop Co.

HARPER'S.

Harper's Magazine is full of attractive articles and represents, especially in the descriptive papers, the enterprise of the publishers in generous investigation of important subjects through special writers. Mr. Charles Dudley Warner opens the number with a glowing description of Southern California, which he calls "Our Italy." "Winter Journey to Japan," by Lafcadio Hearn, is another paper of note, opening a series in the warm impressions for which the author is noted. Mr. Theodore Child's South American series, finely illustrated, have reached "Urban and Commercial" cities, with the conclusion that Chilian civilization is very superficial, and that colonization should be attempted by North American capitalist with prudence.

A sketch of "Der Meistertrunk," the festival play of Rothenburg, by E. W. Mealey, is accompanied by picturesque illustrations and describes a quaint festival which is little known. Professor W. M. Sloane has a scholarly article upon "Princeton University," which in all its peculiar system makes an interesting subject for the consideration of educators. The number is particularly strong in fiction and poetry. Tartarin comes to a sad end after the humorous adventures of "Port Tarascon." A timely Halloween tale is contributed by Black, and others. Among the poems is a daintily illustrated poem by Dr. S. W. Mitchell. The editorial departments are thoughtful. Harper & Bros., publishers.

Mellin's Food is a soluble preparation, containing proper proportions of those nitrogenous and phosphatic matters which are so essential for the healthy growth of a child. It is not a medicine. It is not intended primarily for sick babies; it is the best food for healthy, and also feeble infants.

One of the Kipling Stories.

Of all Rudyard Kipling's tales, perhaps "The Phantom Rickshaw" is the one that will be longest remembered. It will haunt the reader's thoughts as persistently as the rickshaw haunted the steps of Jack Pansy. It is the saddest weirdest story—cruel from beginning to end. It was cruel, to start with, for Jack Pansy to make light love to Mrs. Agnes Keith-Wessington and win all her foolish, undisciplined heart; and then it was cruel—wasn't it?—for him to get over it, and tell her, in so many plain words, that he was 'sick of her presence, tired of her company, and weary of the sound of her voice.' Ninety-nine women out of a hundred would have hated him after that, but alas, Mrs. Keith-Wessington was the hundredth woman, and she was not even angry with him. "Jack, darling!" was her one eternal cuckoo-cry. "I'm sure it's all a mistake, a hideous mistake, and we'll be good friends again some day. Please forgive me, Jack dear!" And, naturally, Jack did not like this any the better, because he knew he had nothing to forgive—that whatever blame there was was on his side. They had fallen in love in the long, idle voyage from Gravesend to Bombay. They reached Bombay in the spring and were parted for three or four months, and then they met again, in Simla, looking each other still, and passed the season together. By the end of that season Jack Pansy had got dead tired of the whole thing; and because Mrs. Keith-Wessington wouldn't get tired of it also, he presently fairly hated her, and when they met again next year at Simla, and he found she was clinging to him still, he actually loathed her. She always said the same thing—that it was all a hideous mistake, and they should be friends again some day. And after this second year Pansy fell in love with little Kitty Manning—really in love this time—and so he hated Mrs. Wessington worse than ever. He did not see her one day, and stopped to tell her of his engagement. But she spoke first: "So I hear you are engaged, Jack dear. I'm sure it's all a mistake. We shall be as good friends some day, Jack, as we ever were." And Pansy's answer cut her like the blow of a whip. Then he hurried off and left her, but he did not get far. He looked back and saw that she had turned her rickshaw with the hope of overtaking him and he thought he heard her call "Jack!" but he did not stop. She died a week later, and then naturally enough, Jack Pansy thought he was done with her forever; and for a time he was really happy. The next week's April Fool at Simla again and Kitty was there, too, and they were to be married in July. On the 15 of April he went into a jeweler's to buy Kitty a sapphire ring, and when he came out he heard some one calling him, as from a distance, by his name "Jack." And then he went farther on and saw the rickshaw of Mrs. Wessington—and the four serving men in magpie livery, who used to pull it. "Kitty," he said to his sweetheart, who was with him, "there are poor Mrs. Wessington's jhampanies turned up again. I wonder who's got them now?" "What? where? Kitty cried. I can't see them anywhere." At that moment Jack Pansy's horse met the advancing rickshaw and went straight through it as if it were thin air. And Kitty galloped on, and somehow Pansy could not follow. He reined in his horse and waited. And he heard the old words: "Jack! Jack, darling! It's some hideous mistake, I am sure. Please forgive me, Jack, and let us be friends again." And the rickshaw hood had fallen back, and inside sat Mrs. Keith-Wessington. And after that the rickshaw haunted Pansy, and folks said he had taken to drink, and in this case Kitty did not want him, and she broke off the whole thing. And Jack? O, Jack, he went on loving who knows whether he went on loving Mrs. Keith-Wessington forever or whether her words came true, and they are friends again now. Anyway, it is the most thrilling ghost story I ever read—the one of which, for want of space, I can only give you the slightest outline—and I found sold to affirm that the Phantom Rickshaw" alone, and with all its scarcely less noteworthy companions, would be sufficient to give Rudyard Kipling the rank of a master among the story-tellers of our own time.—Louise Chandler Moulton in Boston Herald.

Why the Peach Crop Failed.

Henry A. Elbert, a veteran peach grower of Delaware, says that the real cause of the peach failure is that in Delaware, as well as in most of the other peach growing states, the soil has absolutely exhausted itself for peach production. That is really the secret, and the reason why the peach crop, especially of Delaware, has been growing less and less in proportion to the amount of work expended upon it during the last ten years. Peach growers as a general thing in America have made considerable money, and have made it easily.

The care of their trees, once they reach the bearing stages, costs but little, and the conservative old fellows sat down in their farm houses quietly and just let the price of the rich fruit drop into their laps. They starved the soil, and they are now reaping the consequences. They are beginning to find out that the soil of a peach orchard requires fertilizers just as much as the wheat farm does, and until such aids to fruit growing have been properly used the peach crop cannot be expected to be as generous as one as it has been for several years past.—New York Star.

Paupers Buried for Eighty-five Cents.

The bids for city undertaking, which were opened in the health office, show a considerable anxiety on the part of the undertakers to secure the contract. There were only two bidders, August Leffert and Henry Snyder, but the low figures which they quoted leave little room for other bids. August Leffert offered to furnish coffins and bury all paupers or other persons ordered to be buried by the city at $2.50 for children under 13 years of age and $3.50 for adults.

Henry Snyder's bid was even lower. He offered to bury all paupers in the city limits at the rate of seventy cents for children and eighty-five cents for adults. Samples for the proposed coffins to be used were sent up for inspection. They are of pine, stained black, with metal handles. These bids include taking charge of the bodies and digging the graves.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

American Wheelmen's League.

The League of American Wheelmen has experienced a remarkable growth, having increased tenfold since its organization. Before 1891 it will probably reach a membership of 20,000. "Advancement of wheeling" has always been the motto of the league, and the good roads of the country owe their condition to the efforts of this band of "cyclists." In 1880 ninety riders assembled in Newport to form an organization for their protection and for highway improvement. From this seed the league has sprung with mushroomlike growth, until its societies extend into all parts of wheelhood. The practical advantages of membership consist in the assistance of the whole body to secure better roads in neglected localities, legal assistance when road privileges are denied riders, and reduced rates at the league hotels, which are located in all important cities of the country.—New York Telegram.

Sparrow Slaughter.

Tobe Long, township clerk, has paid out $121.50 to the boys this summer for cadavers of the English sparrow, and our foreign friends seem even more numerous than ever. The law authorizes him to pay a bounty of twenty cents per dozen for all these birds killed, and the price paid would indicate that the small bird had been on the warpath to the extent of 7,290 Britishers. Tobe says that an English sparrow will decay inside of two hours after being killed, and that some of the lots brought to him have almost made him throw up his position.—Lima (O.) Gazette.

A Vicious Rooster.

Frank Werren, who lives in Shamokawa, Ore., had a little child almost killed by a rooster the other day. The rooster is of the Leghorn variety and very vicious, and never hesitates to attack any one that comes within its reach. The child, which is about a year and a half old, was out in the yard, when the rooster attacked her, knocking her down and inflicting with his spurs two deep gashes over the left temple and making an ugly wound over the right eyeball. Had the rooster struck her a little lower it would probably have ruined the eyesight of the left eye. The child will recover.—Chicago Times.

A magnificent sword of the Fifteenth century is shortly to be placed in the Louvre museum in Paris. It is ornamented with graceful designs from the hand of the great sword maker Hercules de Pesaro, who did the work for the Borgias, the Gonzagas and the house of Este, and is thought to have belonged to Francisco de Gonzaga, who commanded the Italian army crushed by Charles VIII in 1495.

The cranberry growers of Onset and other towns on Cape Cod do not expect to get over half the usual crop. Insects and drought have made fearful inroads. The towns near Plymouth have not suffered so much, and in southwestern Massachusetts the harvest bids fair to be as good as usual.

A war veteran in Nebraska City, Neb., whose application for a pension was rejected because no trace of the bullet wound could be discovered, died last week, and physicians who made the autopsy found the bullet imbedded in his skull. His widow now intends to apply for a pension.

Some statistician has just figured that the total number of people killed and injured on the railroads of the United States during the past year is almost exactly equal to the total loss of killed and wounded Union and Confederate forces at Gettysburg in the war of the rebellion.

One of the biggest lobsters on record was recently caught at Whitby, England. It measures from snout to extremity of tail, 18 inches; circumference of body, 13 inches; length of crusher claw, 12 inches; length of crusher claw, 12 inches; weight when alive, 9 pounds 5 ounces.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting held last Sunday was held at the usual hour, and though the meeting in the upper hall drew some from the number, a good sized audience was present. Hon. J. F. C. Hyde gave a familiar talk, as he expressed it, but from the attention noted, what he had to say was quite unfamiliar to most present. He illustrated the wonderful skill and system displayed in Nature by stating some of the facts concerning the growth of vegetables and flowers, and in contrast with the finest production made by man by the aid of a microscope, asked if any could believe that there was no God. His remarks were very interesting and instructive, and we wish we might hear more such talks. Next Sunday at 3 o'clock in Eliot Upper Hall, occurs the 13th anniversary. Much time and preparation has been spent in arranging a musical program for the occasion, and this alone should attract many. Rev. D. M. Beach of Cambridge will give an eloquent address, and the meeting promises to be one of unusual interest.

Wheaton Seminary Club.

The next meeting of the New England Wheaton Seminary Club will be held at the Thorndike, Boston, Saturday, Nov. 8, at 12 o'clock. The business meeting will be followed by luncheon, served promptly at 1, and by literary exercises at 3 o'clock p. m. The topic for the last will be "Physical Culture for Women." A short paper on "Gymnastics for Women" will be contributed by Miss D. M. Elliott, instructor in the famous Berkeley Ladies' Gymnasium, in New York city. Miss Elliott, who was of the class of '77 at Wheaton, has made a thorough study of physical culture, having received her training at the well-known Adelphi Academy in Brooklyn in the New York Medical College for Women, and under Dr. Sargent at the Hemenway Gymnasium at Harvard College, where she has been pupil assistant in the summer schools for two years past.

Another short paper on "Vocal Culture" will be given by Mrs. Gertrude Tucker Wilcox of Boston, the well-known singer and teacher, while "Healthful Dress" will be the subject of a paper by Mrs. H. M. Pierce of Brookline. Music will be under the charge of Miss Ellen Louise Hopkins.

The attention of members is called to the change of time for the literary exercises from 2 to 3 o'clock, thus affording two full hours for the luncheon and social time following, an innovation which it is felt sure the club will enjoy.—Boston Globe.

Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb's Tour Through the "New South."

Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb, the well-known excursion managers, announce an entirely new tour—a trip of twenty days through the most interesting and picturesque sections of Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia and Alabama, leaving Boston Monday, December 1. Some of the principal cities and the chief centres of new industrial development will be included in the tour. This is the first excursion of this kind, and it cannot fail to be immensely popular, not only with business people, but with tourists generally. Among the places to be seen are Roanoke, Va., Knoxville and Chattanooga, Tenn., Rome and Atlanta, Ga., Birmingham, Ala., and those new centres of development, Milledgeville, Ga., and Anniston and Fort Payne, in Alabama. There will also be visits to Washington, Harper's Ferry, Luray Caverns, Lookout Mountain, Cincinnati, and Niagara Falls. Full descriptive circulars may be obtained by addressing Raymond & Whitcomb, 200 Washington street, opposite School, street Boston.

The Sunday Question.

Prof. S. E. Warren of Newton has written a book on this topic. It is published by J. H. Earle, Boston, and may be had at the book stores. It is a most valuable contribution to the better understanding of the purposes and obligations of the Lord's Day. Those who favor a proper observance of the Day of Rest should read and circulate Prof. Warren's book.

For scrofula in every form Hood's Sarsaparilla is a radical, reliable remedy. It has an unequalled record of cures.

Accuracy.—Teacher (to new pupil): "What is your last name, my little man?" New pupil: "Tommy." Teacher: "What is your full name?" New pupil: "Tommy Jones." Teacher: "Then Jones is your last name?" Tommy: "No, it isn't. When I was born my name was Jones, and they didn't give me the other for a month afterwards."

The Two Things Don't Balance. Belinda: "I wish, papa, that you would increase of 'doance.'" Mr. Simpson: "Good gracious, Beinda! I should be more apt to decrease it." Belinda: "But, papa, every thing costs so much more, and they all say at the shops that they charge McKinley prices." Mr. Simpson: "That may be, my dear, but I haven't heard of any McKinley incomes yet."

The American Bookseller is authority for the almost incredible statement that a single book, valued at $20,250, was recently exhibited in New York by a London bookseller. It is a copy on vellum of the "Psalterium cum Cantibus," and was printed in 1450 by Fast & Schoeffer, the direct successors of Gutenberg. It is the second book ever printed with a date, and the costliest book ever sold as well as one of the most beautiful. The typography and mechanical execution are remarkable, considering the early date at which it was published, and would compare favorably with the best work of modern printers. Only eight copies are known to be in existence.

Paper tough as wood is said now to be made by mixing chloride of zinc with the pulp in the course of manufacture. It has been found that the greater the degree of concentration of zinc solution, the greater will be the toughness of the paper. It can be used for making gas pipes, boxes, combs, for roofing, and even, it is added, for making boats.

It is dangerous to tamper with irritating liquids and exciting snuffs. Use Ely's Cream Balm, which is safe and pleasant, and is easily applied. It cures the worst cases of catarrh, cold in the head and hay fever, giving relief from the first application. Price 50 cents.

A Spring Medicine.

The druggist claims that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache, discovered by Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells at 50 cents a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

The meeting was held at the house of Mrs. Hanson, Grafton street. It was a typical October day and the parlors were well filled.
—Mr. John A. D. Gross of Institution avenue, died at his home on Saturday morning. He was formerly in business in Boston, as a dry goods merchant, retiring with a competency several years since, notwithstanding severe losses in the great Boston fire. Soon after his retirement he suffered from a paralytic shock and has for years been an invalid. The funeral was held at the house Tuesday afternoon, a large number attending.
—There was very little stir in this ward on election day, not as much as is usual, contrasting strongly with the other large wards which threw an unusual vote early in the day. At one o'clock 360 votes had been cast against 460 at the same time last year. The evening returns showed Ward 6 the strongest in the city for Brackett, and 82 plurality for Chandler. Mr. Dwight Chester received splendid support and Mr. Saltonstall of Ward 6 whom it was thought would get the next best result despite being a Democrat, fell behind Capt. Howard of Ward 3 and was ultimately defeated. Mr. Gilman for representative also received a large vote here.

—The meeting of the Neighbor's Club on Monday evening at Mr. Arthur C. Walworth's beautiful residence was the first event of the season. The club was well represented, the ladies also being present. Prof. Colt read an able essay on the subject of "Our Schools" which was of much interest. Mr. Walworth had invited many interested in the subject, notably, Mr. Goodwin and Mr. Davis and others from the High School. Mr. Spill, one of the ladies from the Mason school. The subject was discussed by the members and guests, after the reading of the paper. Among the other guests were Governor and Mrs. Chadlin, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Holmes, Rev. and Mrs. Lemuel Barnes and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Parker. Before the close of the evening a handsome collection was secured.
—The closing rally of the campaign was held under the auspices of the Newton Tariff Reform Club, in Associates' Hall, Monday evening. It was a rouser, the audience being completely filled, manifesting the great interest of the voters in the presentation of the vital issues involved in the campaign which ended in the great battle of ballots on Tuesday. Mr. C. Howard Wilson presided. He made a short address, told some witty stories, got the audience in good humor and gracefully introduced the speakers—William H. Brewster, of Boston, and Mr. Moorfield Storey of Brookline, who were cordially welcomed and frequently interrupted during the course of their remarks by hearty applause. The musical features were especially enjoyable, the American Watch Company Band of Waltham rendered several fine numbers.

Installation Service.

The Rev. Alexander T. Bowser was installed pastor of the Newton Centre Unitarian Society, Wednesday evening, the exercises taking place in the pretty chapel before a large gathering of the church. Mr. Bowser had been settled in Toronto, Ont., for several years, where he gained the reputation of being an able preacher, but he has now returned to labor among his own people. He is a graduate of the Harvard Divinity school. The exercises opened with an organ voluntary, and an anthem by the choir of the First Baptist church of Boston. The introductory prayer was by the Rev. John W. Day of Hingham, after which the Rev. H. G. Spaulding, secretary of the Unitarian Society, read the Scriptures. The sermon was by the Rev. Charles G. Ames, pastor of the Disciples' Church, Boston. He spoke of truth and love, and said they constituted a spiritual motor power. The genius of true church life are present in every meeting of the people for any good purpose.

—After the singing of a hymn by the congregation, written by the Rev. Samuel Longfellow, and the delivery of the installing prayer by the Rev. J. C. Jaynes of West Newton, the right hand of fellowship was extended by the Rev. Francis B. Hornbrook, pastor of the Channing church, Newton. Mr. Hornbrook said in part: "I think the duties of the minister are twofold. In the first place, he is a pastor. I know it is sometimes said that the day of work for the minister is at an end; but it seems to me that the necessities of human beings are the same now as always. The people need the same consolation, the same sympathy, the same sense of common fellowship, and it is a poor church that is not able to give these. I don't see how it is possible for any minister to preach real sermons if he does not know real people. The real sermon is one that grows out of the minister's sense of the needs of the people. It is not necessary that the pastor should know everything. I would say: Cultivate a wise ignorance. . . . The minister should be a student. No man can come here and preach Sunday after Sunday, simply out of nothing. He needs to be constantly acquiring knowledge and thought. And in the long run there is nothing that will make up for thought. You must have time to study. Preach your own convictions. Preach upon those things that have long been meditated upon. Do not be led into that miserable delusion that in order to get a hearing you must make untrue things. Mr. Hornbrook then extended the welcome, saying in conclusion: "And with the hand goes the heart also."
—W. H. Baldwin, president of the Boston Young Men's Christian Union, was the next speaker, relating the fact that about twenty years ago Mr. Bowser, then a young man, came to him with a letter of introduction from the Rev. James Freeman Clarke. Mr. Baldwin in his interesting address considered the subject of "the pews and the pulpit," and said that the latter must have the cooperation of the former. The new pastor gave the benediction.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lentell have had an addition to their family circle by the birth of a daughter.
—Rev. Dr. Perkins of Newton will exchange with Rev. Mr. Phillips, at the morning service, next Sunday.
—Mrs. Pike of Duncklee street has gone to Hollis, N. H., to visit her daughter, who is a school teacher there.
—Mr. G. R. Fisher has a cellar commenced for a house on Hyde street, on a lot purchased of Hon. J. F. C. Hyde.
—Mr. Burbeck and bride now occupy their new house on Bowdoin street, next adjoining the residence of Deacon Whiting.
—Mrs. Whittemore and her son, Mr. W. F. Whittemore, who have been at Ipswich, Whiting's, have returned to Boston for the winter.
—A delegation of ladies from Mrs. Phillips' Sunday school class were invited to the Harvard church, Brookline, Thursday morning.
—Mrs. Messer, the mother of Mrs. O. J. Kimball, who has been very ill for several days, died on Thursday, at the home of her daughter, at the age of seventy-five years.
—Mr. Davidson of the Newton Tariff Reform Club, gave some very pleasant talks at the Christian Endeavor meeting, held at the Congregational chapel on Tuesday evening.
—Parents are beginning to inquire if their children make necessary progress in their school work when school is in session as little as for the last month, whether it would not be as well to have no school at all.
—Miss Abbie P. Noyes spoke with great acceptance at the Congregational church last Sunday morning and evening, on the educational work among the Mormons.
—List of letters remaining in the post office are as follows: Miss Rosa Gerbet, James J. Gillen, E. P. Kittredge, Clarence McIntyre, Fannie Ogden, I. H. Robinson, Josie Stratton, Martin Secord, George Young.
—The officers of the newly organized Methodist Sewing Circle were: Pres. Mrs. C. Robinson; Vice Pres. C. H. McCain; Sec. Mrs. C. E. Todd; Treas. Mrs. S. Stevenson; Directresses, Mrs. F. Johnson, Mrs. H. G. Park and Mrs. J. A. Brackett.
—St. Paul's parish held a harvest home festival at the church, on Thursday evening of last week, consisting of a musical service. The church was beautifully decorated appropriate to the occasion. After the service the church a sociable was held in Lincoln Hall, which was very fully attended.

—The M. E. Society is to be congratulated upon the success of its first sociable, which was held last week, on Thursday evening. A large number was present to enjoy the attractive program, which consisted of reading and singing, followed by a unique supper served in one part of the hall, while in the other games were played at the other. The affair was a financial as well as a social success.
—A Musical and Literary Entertainment for the benefit of the M. E. church, will be given by the following ladies from the N. E. Conservatory of Music: Soprano, Miss Emily Ellis of Col.; contralto, Miss Della Dennis of Ill.; pianist, Miss Lillie Cole of Mass.; reader, Miss Adelaide Scriber of Oregon; Rev. G. S. Butters of Newtonville, lecturer, Thursday evening, Nov. 13th; concert at 8 o'clock. For particulars see hand-bills.

—Mr. Alfred Spear, whose death occurred on Sunday last, after a short illness, was a native of Quincy, and has resided in Newton upwards of fifty-two years, as he has lived with the Cray family for fifty-two years, and having lived previously a short time with a farmer near the corner of Parker and Boylston streets. His was a notable figure, as he walked the streets on account of his bent form. The interment was in Quincy, in the family tomb.
—A caucus is called for Saturday evening, at Stevens Hall, of those who intend to support the Republican nominees at the next city election. At this caucus two candidates for councilmen from Ward Five are to be nominated; also delegates to be chosen to the city convention, to put in nomination a candidate for mayor; also candidates for seven aldermen, and seven members of the school committee. All those Republicans who have sufficiently recovered from the surprise of the state election are expected to be present.

—The Sewing Circle met at the chapel on Monday. The ladies spent their time in the afternoon sewing for the Bible Women's Home among the Bohemians in Cleveland, Ohio. After a varied and bountiful supper an entertainment was provided, which, if it is an earnest of the future, promises as fine entertainment as the Bohemians in Cleveland. This society has the reputation of giving in the past. This entertainment was wholly musical. Miss Edith Nickerson played delectable two piano solos; Miss Thayer of Cambridge charmed the audience with her pure and sympathetic voice, to which Mrs. Flint played a piano accompaniment; Mr. Walter Flint also accompanied Miss Thayer's singing; and present and spoke words of hope and cheer as well as encouragement for the division. This is one of the most popular divisions in the state and one of the most thrifty. All divisions near and far enjoy a visit to St. Elmo.
—The Fraternal Circle held their regular semi-monthly meeting on Thursday evening in the Lower Hall.
—It is stated that the Nonantum Worsted Co. is about to still further enlarge their plant.
—Mr. Albert Frye of Bridge street is visiting friends and relatives in Boxford, Mass.
—James Eilers has moved from Faxon street across the river to Swett's court.
—Miss Josie Landry, employed at the Nonantum mill, died last Saturday of typhoid fever. The remains were taken by her mother to Waterloo, P. Q., Canada, for interment.

Recitations, singing, games and a collection, consisting of ice cream and cake, made up the program which was apparently carried out to the satisfaction of all.
—The friends of Miss Alice Jewett will be pleased to hear of her marriage to Mr. George Morse. The wedding ceremony occurred in a quiet way at the residence of the bride's parents in Lowell, Tuesday noon, Oct. 30, and was performed by the Rev. St. John Chamber, rector of the St. Anne Episcopal church of that city. The happy couple are to make their future home in Lowell where Mr. Morse is engaged in the grocery business. They will be "at home" to their friends and relatives on Wednesday at No. 15 Eighth street. Mrs. Morse is a sister of Mr. Thomas Jewett of this village.
—Next Sunday morning in the North Evangelical church the pastor, Rev. W. A. Lamb, will deliver an anniversary discourse in observance of the close of his sixth year as pastor of this church.

Hospital Notes.
The new contagious wards are all plastered and the inside finish is being put up. The private ward is ready for plastering. The morgue is boarded up and the roofers are at work. From present intimations it will be a month or two weeks before the new buildings can be ready for occupancy.
Two new pupil nurses were admitted at the meeting of the Executive Committee on Wednesday, and probably others will be received next month. A large number of applications have been placed on file.
The committee on Hospital Sunday are making the most strenuous efforts to bring the needs of the Hospital to the notice of all our citizens. Collection envelopes and pledges will be distributed in the churches on Sunday. The offerings this year on the 23rd ought to be very large.
It is hoped that the endowment funds of the Hospital will in time be largely added to from legacies in wills. Wealthy residents of Newton should remember this institution when they draw up their wills. The corporate title is "The Newton Cottage Hospital."

"No," said Mr. Whitechoker, after the revival, "this curing of sinners is, strange to say, no sinner-cure."
Proof Positive.—"Why are you so sure that the Blodgetts are so wealthy?" "Because I saw Mrs. Blodgett buying pearl shirt buttons the other day."
A Suggestion.—"What did the editor say about that last story of yours, Fred?" "Said it wasn't worth the paper it was written upon." "Why don't you try poorer paper next time?"
No Doubt About It.—Maude: Mrs. Grinby seems to be radiantly happy over Susie's brilliant catch?" Is Mr. Farley such a brilliant catch?" Maude: "Why haven't you heard?" He is a plumber."

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—A Republican caucus will be held in Auburn Hall, Saturday night.
—One of our citizens here won a $200 wager on the result of the election.
—The carding and spinning departments of Dudley Hosiery Mills are running over time this week.
—This precinct last Tuesday sent in a vote of 101, 43 for Brackett, and 58 for Russell. The other nominees on both ballots ran about the same as above.
—Boyd Hall was for the first time used for voting purposes, Tuesday, and will continue to be in future city and state elections. The citizens here are all pleased with the new plan.
—Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Monroe returned home from their wedding tour Friday last, and have taken up their residence on Concord street, the house having been furnished some time.

—The town of Wellesley went Democratic Tuesday by 28, a gain of 27 votes over last year. Much interest was manifested as to the result prior to closing of the polls, as both parties claimed it.

—The premises of Rev. A. P. Sharp were entered while he and wife were absent, and occupied by some miscreants, who, after looking the place for money, devoured catfish to their satisfaction.
—Hose 6 made excellent time to a fire from box 5, Wednesday evening, for the 3rd incendiary fire within two months. There is work for our officers here, who are already doing their best to locate the originator.
—Wm. R. Dimond was elected Warden, Election morning, some 75 voters being present. Mr. E. E. Moody, who was nominated by Mayor Burr, and Mr. Dimond were the candidates and the latter was elected by a vote of 64 to 11.

—Two hawks, accompanied by an officer, were scouring this vicinity, election night, in search of ward officers, who were found, excepting one. Some were awakened from their slumbers and hustled to West Newton on patrol time. The extent of damage was an unsigned ballot return sheet.

NONANTUM.

—St. Elmo Division, Sons of Temperance, of this village, entertained Reliance Division of Malden last Friday evening at the Athenaeum Lower Hall. The program was very interesting and a good program was provided for the good of the order by Sec. Chas. E. Denney who was present and spoke words of hope and cheer as well as encouragement for the division. This is one of the most popular divisions in the state and one of the most thrifty. All divisions near and far enjoy a visit to St. Elmo.

THE GAMEWELL POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM.

It is curious how boldly a writer will make charges over a fictitious signature in a newspaper, which in most cases he would not dare to make over his own name. On this account the attack on the Gamewell police signal system in the Newton Journal last week is of no importance whatever. No paper with any respect for journalism would insert such anonymous attacks even as a paid advertisement. If any citizen of Newton really wrote the article, he should have given his name, for the character of the writer is all that gives such articles any weight.

There have been so many rumors about the working of the Gamewell system, that we have interviewed the company and they have given us the following letters, which explain themselves:

POLICE DEPARTMENT,
BROOKLINE, MASS., Nov. 12, 1890.
The Gamewell Co., Boston, Mass.
Gentlemen: You call my attention to a communication signed "Signal" in the Newton Journal, and ask me to read the same and give my opinion, based on our experience with your signal system. In reply I have to say that a considerable portion of the apparatus here is like that in Newton, and it works very perfectly and completely. As it happens, some of our additional boxes, like those at Newton, were put in about the time the Newton system was introduced. These boxes are in constant use, night and day, here in Brookline, and their work has been very satisfactory. In fact, I know that so far as Chief Richardson of Newton is concerned, he is perfectly satisfied for he told me only a few days ago that the system worked first rate.

In closing, I want to state a fact which accounts for the strong recommendation which our system has given your police telegraph line has now been using your police telegraph apparatus for several years, and so far as I can recall we have never yet had one of our pairs on machinery furnished by the Gamewell Co.

Yours truly,
ALONZO BOWMAN,
Chief of Police.
OFFICE OF CHIEF OF POLICE,
CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 13, 1890.
The Gamewell Co., Boston.
Gentlemen: Replying to your letter enclosing a communication signed "Signal" in the Newton Journal, I have to say that I have always supported the Newton system as like ours, and works very finely. We wonder how we ever did without it. Every one who sees the apparatus admires it and is delighted with its workings. It is so perfect that it almost takes care of itself, and I do not see why it should not work just as well in Newton.

Yours truly,
J. J. CLOVES,
Chief of Police.
If the police officials of Cambridge and Brookline have no trouble with the system, why should there be any trouble in Newton, unless our officials are less competent to manage it? But Chief Richardson and Capt. Davis have said at many different times that the system was working perfectly. There has been some trouble, as at one time it was said that the clock would not work, but when it was levelled up so that it stood on four legs instead of three there was no further trouble. Again the complaint came that the time stamp would not work, but investigation showed that the tape was worn out, and a new one should have been put in. When that was done, the time stamp was all right.

The Journal writer complains that the telephone service is no good, but Chief Richardson has said the telephone service is perfect. In fact it has been proved that with ordinary care and intelligent management the system works perfectly, and these it receives in Cambridge and Brookline. The Gamewell Company were asked to put a special operator in the Newton station, to see that the system received a fair trial, but they said they had perfect confidence in the fairness of the Newton police, and have referred all visiting committees to Chief Richardson and Capt. Davis, who have always given favorable reports. This certainly ought to silence the anonymous critics, unless they claim to know more than the police officials do, about the workings of the system.

CITIZENS' CAUCUSES.
ALL FOR HIBBARD, BUT FAVOR SOME CHANGES IN MINOR OFFICES.

The Citizens' caucuses were held Thursday night in all the wards, and at every one delegates were instructed to vote for Mr. H. E. Hibbard for mayor, at the convention Saturday evening.

The only lively contest was in Ward 5, where the friends of Alderman Pettie rallied, but were outvoted 56 to 28 by the Hibbard men.

In Ward Six, Councilman Geo. F. Richardson, Harbach, and in Ward Four Councilman Crehore was put up against Councilman Porter. As Mr. Crehore also had a large following in the Republican caucus, it is probable that he will be elected, and his nomination is received with great favor in other parts of the city. Mr. Richardson will lead a kind of forlorn hope against Alderman Harbach.

The result of the caucuses is appended:
Ward One, Hosea Hyde, chairman; Bruce R. Ware, secretary. Common council nominations, William F. Grace, Heuben Forknall; city convention delegates, Chester H. Graves, John E. Briston, H. C. Soule, Edward F. Barnes, C. E. Kiley.
Ward Two, E. W. Redpath, chairman; J. L. Richards, secretary. Common council, George A. Mead, George F. Churchill; city convention delegates, Thomas Gilday, O. A. Atkins, J. J. Watson, F. W. Redpath, Charles S. Keene. Delegates favor J. L. Richards for alderman.
Ward Three, Marcus Morton, chairman; George M. Cox, secretary. Common council, Edward S. Merchant, Francis M. Dutch; city convention delegates, Francis F. Cox, Thomas H. Fitz, M. F. H. Wood, Henry H. Hunt, George T. Lincoln. Delegates favor A. F. Luke for alderman.
Ward Four, George F. Richardson, chairman; F. W. Freeman, secretary. Common council, H. T. Knight, George E. Johnson; city convention delegates, John Dolan, George F. Early, D. J. O'Donnell, F. A. McVicar, F. I. Falkenberg. Delegates instructed to vote for F. M. Crehore for alderman.
Ward Five, Samuel Shaw, chairman; H. P. Ayer, secretary. Common council, J. R. Smith, F. W. Turner; city convention delegates, Samuel Shaw, W. H. Burr, W. H. McEwen, C. H. McEwen, Charles E. Clark, Jr.
Ward Six, C. Howard Wilson, chairman; D. H. McWain, secretary. Common council, W. F. Haunnett, A. D. Stephenson, Sidney Harwood. The delegates were instructed to vote for S. A. D. Stepienard for alderman and Rev. F. B. Hornebrook for member of the school board.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

A CONTEST FOR MAYOR, BUT UNITED FOR THE REST OF THE TICKET.

The Republican convention assembled in City Hall Wednesday evening, and Chairman Coffin called the meeting to order. Mr. W. E. Sheldon was elected chairman, and Mr. Avery L. Rand secretary. All the delegates were reported present.

FOR MAYOR.
Dr. Scates of Ward One made the first nominating speech, and said that his ward was instructed and that he was in favor of nominating a man who had always been a Republican, of upright character and great ability, and in whom no law could be found, and he thought the convention should unite in nominating Mr. H. E. Hibbard for our next mayor.

Ex Alderman Grant said he arose to nominate a man who had served the city long and faithfully, who had been a member of the city government for eight years, and had been proved equal to any task placed upon him. He had served with distinguished ability on the important committees, and was a man of nerve and backbone. He had served with the man for four years, and he knew of no one who should be more highly favored by the city than Alderman George Pettie, and he moved his nomination for mayor (applause).

Ex Alderman Fiske seconded the nomination of Alderman Pettie. He had served with him for three years, observed his methods, his painstaking thoroughness, his faithfulness in the discharge of duty, and Mr. Pettie was certainly worthy of any honor the city could confer upon him.

Mr. Andrews of Ward Three seconded the nomination of Mr. Hibbard. He said he had never been a delegate to a convention before and he probably never would be again, but he believed in having a good business man for mayor. He did not wish to see the Republican party divided, as it could be if it did not nominate Mr. Hibbard, and the other side stands ready to take advantage of any mistakes. He hoped the convention would consider a little as he did not want to do anything which would tend to breed muggumps. It only took half an eye to see who was going to be elected, and if the party were divided by any obligations, why not postpone them for a year, and nominate Mr. Hibbard for this year.

After some discussion about the manner of voting, a ballot was taken with the following result:
Geo. Pettie, 24
H. E. Hibbard, 11
A motion was made to make the nomination of Mr. Pettie unanimous. A Ward Six delegate said he had rather be defeated with Pettie than successful with Hibbard, on account of the effect in after years. He agreed that we didn't want to breed muggumps, but he did not want to extend any courtesy to muggumps already born.

Dr. Scates said he was a charter member of the Republican party, but he did not believe in reducing it to a mere corporal's guard. He had rather look to the best interests of the party and choose the best man for mayor, than to believe in such a man should be chosen rather than one who has only been three or four years in the city, and Mr. Pettie would be elected if every delegate would do their part.

Mr. Samuel Farquhar said Mr. Hibbard had been a resident of Newton for twelve or fifteen years, or as long as the great majority of voters. A vote was finally taken and the motion to make Mr. Pettie's nomination unanimous defeated.

It is said that Mr. Hibbard's votes came—Four from Ward 1, 3 from Ward 4, and 4 from Ward 7.
The rest of the ticket was made up without any contest, and was as follows:
ALDERMEN.
Ward 1—Lewis E. Coffin.
Ward 2—John A. Fenno.
Ward 3—Arthur F. Luke.
Ward 4—Dr. F. E. Porter.
Ward 5—Elliott H. Briston.
Ward 6—W. F. Harbach.
Ward 7—S. A. D. Stepienard.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.
Ward 2 (vacancy)—Rev. R. A. White.
Ward 6 "—A. L. Harwood.
Ward 3—Mrs. Abby E. Davis Lawrence Bond.
Ward 4—Rev. H. U. Moore, Colon S. Ober.
Ward 7—Rev. F. B. Hornbrook.

Concerning The Hospital.
To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:
I shall be greatly obliged if you will allow me space for a few words about the Hospital. I do not think that all our Newton people realize what a good work it has done this past year, and how much it needs help. The sick and the injured were brought to its doors, and they could not be turned away. If it had turned any one away the air of generous Newton would have been thick with reproaches.

But the great number of injured and suffering people could not be taken in without the expenditure of large sums of money. The management went on and spent large sums. Now its treasury is growing very empty, and it asks every one to fill it up on Hospital Sunday so that it may receive and welcome others, who will need its care and treatment.

Collection envelopes and pledges have been sent around very freely, and it may be that some persons who have received them may not quite understand why they have received them.

The explanation is that we wanted to enlist the help of as many people as possible as contributors and as agents for spreading information to others.

For example it was hoped that free beds might be considered by different societies and by the operatives in mills, firemen, railroad employees and others.

It was hoped too that persons of means would see that there is a good opportunity for enlarging the endowment fund, and finally it was thought that if some persons knew how to become annual subscribers they would gladly give from $2 to $20 each year, or even $50 or $100 each.

It ought not to be a hard task to raise $500 on Hospital Sunday. In fact it might be made $20,000 if every one helped generously. My motive in writing now is to ask the co-operation of every one who reads this letter. Do all you can yourself and remind others of the collection on Hospital Sunday, Nov. 23.

If you cannot for any reason put your offering in then, hand it to one of the Newton pastors, or send it to the Treasurer, George T. Bullens, 78 Waverly Avenue, Newton.

Indian Meetings.
There will be an interesting series of meetings of the Women's National Indian Association on Wednesday and Thursday Nov. 19 and 20 at the New Old South Church, Boston, including a public meeting Wednesday evening, by Rev. Philip Brooks, Miss Kate Foote of Washington, and Prof. Francis C. Peabody of Harvard University. Morning meetings at 10.30, afternoon meetings at 2, evening at 8 o'clock. Officers and members of the Newton Indian Association are especially invited.

Pomroy Home.
The sum raised by the Pomroy Home fair up to date, amounts to $813.87. This includes the sum received through Mrs. Claffin's sale and "social tea drinking" and gifts in money of various amounts. Other things are on the tapis and it is hoped that the sum received will be considerably augmented.

Some one has said that the Kitchen is the heart of the home, and we all know it plays an important part in the household economy. To make the work easy there is a whole atmosphere of the home, and we therefore with pleasure call attention to the advertisement headed "Kitchen Essentials," in this paper, wherein Hollander, Bradshaw & Folson give extremely low prices for many articles needed in every kitchen.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

The Tariff is a Tax.

The Coming City Election.

There ought not to be any doubt about the matter and we do not think there is, but to make assurance doubly sure the Executive Committee announce that the club has nothing whatever to do with the Municipal Campaign. Examination fails to show any connection between hides and highways, metal schedules and the majority, reciprocity and railways, sulphuric acid and sewerage. The Secretary at my elbow suggests that a priori a Tariff Reformer must have more common sense than a McKinleyite and would therefore naturally, etc., etc., etc. But he, poor fellow, has not been quite right since Tuesday evening when he heard that Newton Centre showed a gain of fifty for Williams.

But let us get back to the Municipal Campaign. Every Tariff Reformer will do just as he pleases, but the TARIFF REFORM CLUB WILL DO NOTHING. THE CLUB IS NOT IN IT.

Let us Eat, Drink, and Be Merry!

The committee are making preparations for a dinner at the Woodland Park Hotel on Friday November 21. It is hoped that Geo. Fred. Williams, Winslow Warren, William Lloyd Garrison, and several others who had a share in the recent surprise party will be present to help the members rejoice. Fuller notice will be sent to every member shortly.

Now, Hip.

Prophets in their own countries, we believe, are without honor; and we are therefore not surprised so much as we should be to find that in 1888 Mr. Candler's majority in Brookline was 285, and in 1890 was 15. But what's the matter in Dedham. That town gave Mr. Candler a majority of 127 in 1888, and in 1890 gave Mr. Williams a majority of 6. It seems that some prophets have honor even in their own countries.

Hip.

An uninstructed political economist (not Benjamin Harrison) called at the door this morning and offered potatoes at $1.00 a bushel. "But," said I, "you let me have them some weeks ago for 85 cents. Why have they gone up?" "It's the McKinley bill," said he; "formerly we paid 15 cents duty, and no duty on rotten ones. Now we pay 25 cents and pay it on rotten and good one alike." A ragged vendor of potatoes, thou speakest wise words!

Hip.

Our esteemed friend, the "Newton Journal," says it was sad to hear of the election of Russell and Williams and Hoar, and finds consolation in the fact that Nevada is still firmly Republican. Some ten years ago Nevada had about 6000 inhabitants; to-day she has less than 5000. Her population and her common sense seems to be rapidly getting away from her. Drowning men cling to straws but such a straw will scarcely keep the Grand Old Party afloat two years longer.

Hurrah!

The Educational Campaign goes on! A couple of little English boys have recently moved into the neighborhood and the Tariff Reformers' youngest boy John has "made friends." Last night John came home in great excitement and recited a long list of things of interest to boys, and gave their prices in England as narrated by his new acquaintances. "Why are prices so much less, there?" he said. "Is it on account of British Free Trade?" "Yes," said the Tariff Reformer, "Free Trade is one cause." "And the other cause," said this young political economist, "I suppose, is Protection in America!! Good for John!

How We Helped Along.

We were only a drop in the bucket—in the bucket?—no, in the deuge. Still some of us wish to know about even the drop. What did the Club do?

First, it sent to two thousand people in this city a report upon the voice and vote of John W. Candler.

Secondly, it printed for distribution outside the city nearly 11000 more copies of the same report.

Thirdly, it added about one hundred and fifty members to its rolls, many of whom voted two years ago for Harrison and Candler.

Fourthly, it contributed towards paying the expenses of the meeting at which Mr. Williams and Mr. Russell spoke in Newton.

Fifthly, it ascertained who of the Tariff Reformers outside the club in this city were not upon the voting list, and took care that those men were registered.

Sixthly, it saw to it that on election day the indifferent were reminded of their duty to the cause.

Seventhly, it held a rally at Newton Centre at which Mr. William Lloyd Garrison and Mr. Moorfield Storey brought the Tariff question before the people in a way that produced lasting effects.

Eighthly, in season and out of season the individual members argued with their neighbors to the end that on Election day the cross might stand opposite the name of Geo. Fred. Williams.

The Club extends hearty thanks to those members of the Democratic party who in almost every part of the city lent generous and sympathetic aid to the Club. The committee also would express gratitude for the very many expressions of interest which came from many of the members. It would be pleasant to name a host of ardent helpers, and without meaning that others did less, the secretary feels bound to personally thank Mr. Frank Clement. To his untiring industry and wise forethought was largely due the magnificent success of the rally at Newton Centre.

Friends of Tariff Reform, Geo. Fred. Williams is elected member of Congress by a majority of 210; his gain in Newton since two years ago is 186. What do those figures show us?

HOSPITAL TRUSTEES.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE IN REGARD TO MALARIA AND DRAINAGE.

The committee beg to report; in the first place they had an interview with the Metropolitan Sewerage Commissioners, Judge Kingman, Hous. R. T. Davis, and Tilly Haynes, and were gratified to find those gentlemen thoroughly alive to the magnitude and importance of the work, and to the need of expediting the same in every practicable way.

The Commissioners are urging forward operations in a manner which will insure the completion of the southern section of the main sewer so that the Newton mains may have connection at the end of 1891 instead of sometime in 1892, as originally planned. The committee also found his honor Mayor Burr, the sewerage committee of the Newton City Government, of which Alderman Harbach is chairman, and our City Engineer, Mr. Noyes, fully sensible of the grave responsibility resting upon them; and so far as it lies in the power of those gentlemen to compass the end in view, it is safe to assume that everything possible will be done to have the Newton Mains ready for connection with the Metropolitan system at the date herein named. That will accomplish one portion of the scheme, the disposal of the usual house drainage. Another branch of the subject of equal weight, and of more pressing importance, as it would seem, in relation to malarial symptoms, demands immediate consideration, and the application of speedy and effectual remedies; we refer to surface drainage, which is partially supplied by the brooks and watercourses.

It is stated on what seems to your committee good authority, that these brooks in various parts of Newton, in addition to being the natural outlet of swamps, are the vehicle for the transmission of a not inconsiderable proportion of equal weight, and of more pressing importance, as it would seem, in relation to malarial symptoms, demands immediate consideration, and the application of speedy and effectual remedies; we refer to surface drainage, which is partially supplied by the brooks and watercourses.

It is stated on what seems to your committee good authority, that these brooks in various parts of Newton, in addition to being the natural outlet of swamps, are the vehicle for the transmission of a not inconsiderable proportion of equal weight, and of more pressing importance, as it would seem, in relation to malarial symptoms, demands immediate consideration, and the application of speedy and effectual remedies; we refer to surface drainage, which is partially supplied by the brooks and watercourses.

It appears highly desirable that energetic measures should presently be taken for deepening the channels of watercourses so as to insure quicker, and more continuous drainage, and the stagnant water from all swamps; and so far as is practicable, the lowering of dams at the outlet of ponds, with the view of securing more regular and rapid flow at all points. As the density of population increases, the necessity for such work will be more and more apparent, while the longer it is delayed, the more difficult and expensive will it become.

We therefore conclude this brief report by again urging the need of immediate steps for a complete and comprehensive system of surface drainage, in conjunction with the plans for the main sewerage service, for which we have no doubt our City Government can be depended upon to make sufficient provision, as plainly required by the best interests of Newton.

NEWTON CLUB, 2335, CASINO, 2252.

There was a large gathering of ladies and gentlemen in the clubhouse of the Newton Club, Newtonville, Wednesday evening, the attraction being a bowling match in the Amateur Interclub series between teams representing the Norfolk House Casino Club and the Newton Club.

The Newtons won after a close contest, defeating their opponents by 83 pins. Brown, for the Newtons, made some big scores, which practically won the game.

Smith, for the Newtons, rolled up a total of 483, and Johnson made a good string. The Casinos bowled apparently in hard luck, and the figures in the individual scores, with the exception of Brown and Smith, fell below the usual average. The score in detail is appended:

Hold it to the Light

The man who tells you confidentially just what will cure your cold is prescribing Kemp's Balsam this year. In the preparation of this remarkable medicine for coughs and colds no expense is spared to combine only the best and purest ingredients. Hold a bottle of Kemp's Balsam to the light and look through it; notice the bright, clear look; then compare with other remedies. Price 50c. and $1.

Oh, stop that toothache! Johnson's Anodyne Liniment will relieve any severe pain promptly.

I Don't Want a Doctor!

I have tried them, and they have only swindled me. I have figured up what they cost me for the last four years, it was just $524.31. If I had it now it would be a fortune for me. This year, for medicine, I have taken Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds, and for which I purchased six bottles of Sulphur Bitters. They cured me of Scrofula after suffering four years.—P. J. Cummings, Troy, N. Y.

That Little Tickling

In your throat, which makes you cough once in a while and keeps you constantly clearing your throat, arises from the fact that you have a constitutional disease the ordinary cough medicines all fail to hit the spot. What you need is a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Many people who have taken the medicine for scrofula, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, and other troubles, have been surprised that it should cure this troublesome cough. But to know the actual cause of the cough is to solve the mystery. Many cases in which the cough can be traced back to the neglect of some such slight affection as this. Consumption can be controlled in its early stages, and the effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla in purifying the blood, building up the general health, and expelling the scrofulous taint which is the cause of catarrh and consumption, has restored to perfect health many persons on whom this dreaded disease seemed to have a firm hold.

The signature A. Johnson is on every genuine bottle label of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

No name can be registered after 10 o'clock P. M., NOVEMBER 22.

All persons whose names are not on the Voting List must appear personally before the Registrars of Voters on either of the days above mentioned, presenting a receipted tax bill of 1889 or 1890.

If the father of an applicant was naturalized before he (the son) became 21 years of age, the son is naturalized thereby, and must present the father's naturalization papers.

The names of all persons not assessed in 1890 are taken from the voting lists, but such persons can be re-registered by applying in person to the Registrars at any session held for registering voters, and presenting a receipted tax bill for 1889, provided they are otherwise qualified.

Every male citizen of 21 years of age and upwards, who has resided in the State one year, and in the City of Newton six months prior to December 2, 1890, and who has paid a State or County tax assessed upon him either in 1889 or 1890, and who shall be able to read and write, shall have the right to vote at the City election to be held December second, eighteen hundred and ninety.

SECT. 5. "Every woman who is a citizen of this Commonwealth, of twenty-one years of age and upwards (except paupers, persons under guardianship, and persons excluded by article twenty of the amendments to the constitution), who has resided within the state one year, and within the city or town in which she claims a right to vote, six months next preceding any election of school committees, and who has paid by herself, her parent, guardian or trustee, a state, county, city or town tax assessed upon her or her trustee in this State within two years next preceding such election, shall have a right to vote in all such elections, for members of school committees.

SECT. 15. Any woman who is a citizen of this Commonwealth, may, on or before the first day of October in any year, give notice in writing accompanied by satisfactory evidence, to the assessors of a city or town, that she was on the first day of May of that year an inhabitant thereof, and that she desires to pay a poll tax, and to furnish under oath a true list of her estate, both real and personal, not exempt from taxation, and shall thereupon be assessed for her poll, not exceeding fifty cents, and for her estate, and the assessors shall, on or before the fifth day of October, return her name to the registrars of voters or board charged with the preparation of the list of voters of the city or town, and he shall collect and pay over the same in the manner specified in his warrant.

SECT. 37. The names of women may be placed upon a separate list, and when the name of any woman has been placed upon the list of voters of a city or town, it shall remain on the list as long as she continues to reside in such city or town and has paid any state, county, city or town tax that has been assessed on her or her trustee in this State within two years next preceding any election.

It is therefore necessary for each woman who desires to retain her name on the list, to inform the Registrars of Voters before the close of registration of her continued residence in this city, and if the taxes upon which her registration is based are paid in any other place in the State than Newton, her receipted tax bill must be shown to the Registrars.

RENEWED TRANSCRIPT HAS BEEN CONSOLIDATED WITH THE GRAPHIC

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The Republican convention was one of the most interesting conventions held in years, both from the nature of the proceedings and the character of the men. To hear delegates get up and say they did not believe that the party would be benefited by certain defeat, if the convention refused to nominate Mr. Hibbard, amused the outsiders, as much as the denunciation of Mugwumps from the Pettee delegates. That Mr. Hibbard should have eleven delegates in a Republican convention after the efforts that have been made, only proved his strength as a candidate, and showed what a great number of Republican votes he will receive.

It was amusing to hear delegates denounce the Hibbard delegates for refusing to make the nomination of Mr. Pettee unanimous. The latter might have caused some embarrassment by asking if there was a delegate present who had always voted a straight ticket in city affairs. Or it would have been especially edifying to have heard the Democratic delegates from Ward 5 get up and join in the denunciation of Mugwumps. The truth is there has always been a good deal of independent voting in city elections, and it is not so very many years ago that a Ward Five delegate in a Republican convention, who was also chairman of the convention, announced that he should bolt with all his friends if a certain candidate was nominated for mayor. It will hardly do for Ward Five men to denounce bolters after they have themselves given such an illustrious example of Mugwumpery in city politics.

The Hibbard delegates had the courage of their convictions, and as they were endorsed by their ward caucuses, after they had announced their sentiments, they had a perfect right to stick to their colors. In fact, the feeling that this is to be a Hibbard year is in the air and independent voting in city affairs has been so long practiced, and especially in Wards Two and Five, and by the men who are supporting Mr. Pettee, that party lines have been very nearly obliterated.

Besides, Mr. Hibbard is just as good a Republican as Mr. Pettee, and there will probably be almost as many Republicans in the Citizens' convention as there were in the Republican convention. No national issues are involved in a Newton city election, any more than they are in the election of the president of the Newton or West Newton Bank. It is a case where the man best fitted for the peculiar exigencies of the time should win, and Mr. Hibbard, as a peculiarly energetic, and successful business man, is just the man Newton should have for mayor. We have not a word to say against Mr. Pettee, and nothing will be said against him in the GRAPHIC, but this year such a man as Mr. Hibbard ought to be elected, and that seems to be the general sentiment of the voters of the city.

AN EXTRAVAGANT BUDGET.

The estimates of the city expenditures for next year were presented to the Common Council Monday night, and that body increased them by some $30,000, making an increase over the current year of about $100,000, or one sixth more. This action is quite unprecedented in the lower branch, for that body is usually a faithful watch dog, and reduces the estimates instead of increasing them. What were the members thinking of Monday, when they allowed such a large increase to go through? Do they not realize that increasing the city expenses by one sixth would mean a similar increase in the tax rate, and would be an almost fatal blow to the prosperity of Newton?

In the past two years the tax rate has been moderate and the city has grown as never before, and to increase the tax rate by so large an amount would not only check the growth but drive away the people who are here. The members of the Common Council were thoughtless, to say the least, and they should have remembered that this is not a time for extravagant expenditures.

The board of aldermen, or some of them, realize this, and they will see to it that the total is cut down so that the taxes will not be increased. If they do not, Mayor Burr will feel called upon to veto the order, and this will give an opportunity for a needed revision and pruning down of the estimates presented.

The budget did not come before the aldermen officially, but before the board met Alderman Johnson was very emphatic in his criticisms of such an increase, and Alderman Fenno said that it would be impossible to find sufficient new property to avoid raising the rate by a large amount if such an estimate should pass. Mayor Burr was also very decided in his criticism of such an enormous increase, and evidently there is a veto in prospect, unless the pruning knife is judiciously used.

A number of the Councilmen are candidates for reelection and their action in the matter will be looked at with interest by the tax-payers. They will be given another chance to retrieve their reputation as wise guardians of the city treasury, when the bill returns to them, but they must remember that no increase in the tax rate will be popular, unless the budget includes something besides the ordinary expenses, and so far as we can discover it does not do this. $900,000 ought to be sufficient for the ordinary expenses of the city, if judiciously expended, and almost any good business man would be willing to take the contract on those terms, but to make it nearly three-quarters of a million is too much, and it is against all the economical principles on which the city has been so wisely conducted the past two years. When the board of aldermen comes to take the matter up there will be some wise reductions, and if not the citizens would sustain Mayor Burr in a decided veto, and fortunately he would not be afraid to take such a step.

AN HONOR DECLINED.

The coming retirement of Alderman Johnson from the city government will cause regret all over the city. He has served the city five years, one in the lower and four years in the upper branch, and the popular opinion of the value of his services is shown by the fact that he could have had this year the nomination from both parties for mayor, had he been willing to accept the honor. This is an open secret now, but Mr. Johnson thought that he had done his duty by the city, and he did not wish further honors. Had he accepted there would have been no contest, and he would have had a unanimous election. It is not many men who would throw away such an honor as this.

Mr. Johnson has always been a conservative member, and has thrown his influence in favor of an economical administration of city affairs. To sum it up in a few words, he has tried to have the city's business conducted on the same principles that he follows in his own business, and it is well known that in Boston his word is never questioned, although on his decision may rest thousands of dollars. What he says stands, and his success is due to the perfect confidence that every one has in his character.

In Newton, Mr. Johnson has saved the city thousands of dollars, as in the street light department, and on every question that comes up he is on the side of a wise and judicious economy. He is a safe adviser, and not the least of his services will be in regard to the estimates just presented to the city council, which must be largely reduced before they are accepted.

Ward Four has been exceptionally fortunate in having such a man to represent her, in the board of aldermen, and it should not be content to let the standard be lowered. It must have other men who are of the same pattern as Mr. Johnson, and for the sake of the rest of the city it should present them. It makes no difference what party nominates them, and the Citizens' nominee, Councilman Crehore, is a young man with an excellent record for work done in the Common Council, in a manly and independent manner, and has fairly earned the honor of succeeding such a man as Alderman Johnson. The people in their voting this year should be very careful not to let the character of the City Council deteriorate, and vote for the best men, no matter what side puts them up, as character counts in a City Council even more than in a state or national legislature.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

The Republican convention made in general excellent nominations for the school board. No one can find any fault with the reelection of such men as Rev. Mr. Hornbrook of Newton, or Mr. A. L. Harwood of Newton Centre, who are ideal members of the board. The nomination of Rev. R. A. White of Newtonville was also a very judicious move, and their seems to be only one opinion concerning it in Newtonville, and that is, that it was the only thing to do. The people of Ward Two seems to be unanimous about the matter, as their delegates said at the convention.

From Ward Three, to the general surprise of the public, Mr. Samuel Barnard, one of the hardest working and most valuable members of the board was dropped, and thereby great injustice done, which the Citizens' Convention will have a chance to correct. Mr. Lawrence Bond is the new member from Ward Three, and this is an admirable selection, as Mr. Bond while president of the Common Council was a valuable member of the board, but he positively declines to accept the nomination against Mr. Barnard.

Ward Four sends entirely new names, Rev. H. U. Monro of Lower Falls, rector of St. Mary's Church, who is a young man of great energy, and scholarly attainments, who has made a very favorable impression since his coming to Newton, and there is no doubt but he will fill satisfactorily the place left vacant by Dr. Baker's removal from the ward. Mr. Colon S. Ober is presented as the member from Auburndale, and very highly endorsed by those who know him. The late Chas. E. Parker was such a wise and judicious member of the board, that his loss will be severely felt on the school board, but Mr. Ober's friends are confident that the people will be satisfied with his services.

There was almost a revolution in the Ward Seven caucus, Saturday night, and the citizens turned out in large numbers, smashed the slate, and decided to conduct the caucus on the same principle on which other caucuses are conducted. The marking list was used, and Messrs. H. E. Bothfeld and Geo. M. Weed were nominated for the Common Council. The present members have served two terms, the usual limit, and were given a unanimous vote of thanks by the caucus for their faithful labors. When the delegates to the Republican convention were chosen the fun began. New members were chosen, Messrs. W. P. Tyler, Geo. S. Bullens, Samuel Farquhar, James W. French and Andrew B. Cobb. Mr. Bullens declined and Mr. Andrew S. March speaking in favor of Mr. Hibbard for mayor, the caucus added him to the delegation in place of Mr. Bullens. Expressions of opinion were called for and Mr. Tyler said he was in favor of Mr. Pettee first and Mr. Hibbard second. Mr. French said that he was in favor of Mr. Hibbard first, last and all the time, and should vote for him on election day. The others agreed with Mr. French. Mr. I. T. Burr thought that delegates should support the nominee of a convention they were sent to, or they should not accept the position. After more discussion the four delegates resigned, but the caucus re-elected them by an overwhelming majority. Altogether it was the largest and most exciting caucus Ward Seven has had in years.

COUNCILMAN Luke, who was nominated by the Republican convention to succeed Alderman Bond, has been one of the most useful members of the lower branch, and one of the strongest members of the city government. On all financial matters he is thoroughly posted, and will do good work in the board of aldermen where a man of his experience and ability is needed. There is general regret that Alderman Bond declined a re-nomination, as he has made an excellent record in both branches as a conservative and faithful servant of the city, but the city is to be congratulated that his place is to be so well filled. Ward Three has always had a strong representation in the board of aldermen and Mr. Luke, although he will be one of the youngest members, will be one of the leading members next year. It is a great point in his favor that he opposed strongly the increase in the estimates in the Common Council Monday night, and pointed out to his fellow members the unwisdom of increasing our expenditures farther than our income would warrant. The Common Council ought to have followed his advice.

THE CAMBRIDGE CHRONICLE will hereafter be known as the Cambridge Journal, and the new proprietor, who bought the paper some six months ago, explains his reasons for the change. He says the former proprietor "guaranteed over his own name to Advertiser's a circulation of 3,500, but when he took hold he could only find a circulation of 913, and so he orders the former owner to take the Chronicle out of the office, and he will start a new paper, losing what he has paid. It is certainly a curious affair, but it illustrates what is meant by some publishers when they guarantee their circulation to be two or three times more than it really is. The GRAPHIC does not guarantee its circulation, but invites any one who desires, to visit the office, see the paper printed and mailed, and in this way can prove that it has a larger paid circulation than any other Newton paper has or ever had.

ONE argument that has weight with a good many people is this: We have taken mayors for a good many years from the city council and the city expenses have gone right along increasing, until this year the estimates are about one-sixth larger than last year. Now, why not make a change, get an entirely new man, who is not tied down by any obligations incurred in past years, or by any ties of any kind, and see if something could not be done towards lessening the total of expenses. A new manager of a business finds sometimes ways of saving that have escaped the notice of those who have fallen into an old established routine, and at the same time secures better returns for the money expended. Mr. Hibbard may not of course be able to do this, but it is worth the trial, and a man who has made such a brilliant success of his own business cannot fail to prove a valuable official for the city.

THE Tariff Reform Club takes no part as a club in the City Election. The tariff has nothing to do with city affairs and the club was unanimous in refusing to take any action in the matter. The members may support Mr. Hibbard or Mr. Pettee, as they see fit, as the club does not pretend to exercise any influence over their individual action, or to take any responsibility therefor. This decision is announced in our Tariff Reform column, and it is a wise one, for neither the tariff nor any other national issues are at all concerned in the question of who shall be Mayor of Newton.

THE committee appointed by the Cottage Hospital trustees have made their report in regard to malaria and drainage, and it will be found in another column. They urge the importance of immediate action in regard to surface drainage, out of consideration for the health of the city, and show the necessity of speedy preparation for work upon the sewerage system of Newton. The committee recognize the work done by the present city government, and their report will be read with interest by all who are interested in the prosperity and healthfulness of the city.

ALDERMAN HAMBLIN refused to be a candidate again and sent a letter to that effect to Alderman Tyler, chairman of the Ward Seven delegation. Mr. Hamblin has been a useful and valuable member of the city government, but his business demands so much of his time that the duties of the office become very onerous. Mr. Hamblin is certainly entitled to the gratitude of his constituents for his services, and he can feel that he has done his share of public service for the city.

THE Somerville Republicans have wisely decided not to make any separate nominations this year but to join the Citizens' movement and have non-partisan nominations. As some of the Republicans said at the Ward Seven caucus, what is the use of putting up a ticket only to get beaten? The people are not voting on party lines this year.

A CORRESPONDENT states that only 48 per cent of the voters of Newton cast their ballots at the late election, and only 60 per cent of the voters are registered. He also figures out that 23 per cent of the voters cast Republican ballots and carried the city. He asks how much better this is than voting at the South, about which so much is said by politicians?

THE public property committee seem to have lost that petition about the High school drill shed. It was sent in last January and it has not been heard from since. Why not report one way or the other, is the question every one is asking.

THE latest dates for filing nomination papers are given in an advertisement in another column. Certificates of nomination must be filed by next week Friday, and nomination papers by Saturday, 22nd, at 12 p.m.

Mr. Gilman lost 35 votes in Waltham, and the recount in other places leaves him with a plurality of 42, which is sufficient to place him in the Senate.

The Right Principle.

A correspondent says us the following: Why not this year in municipal affairs make up your minds to vote for men who are above suspicion, so far as their personal characters go. Men whose record will bear examination in respect to their temperance habits, their honorable business records, and their integrity and manliness of character, and also men whose domestic relations are above suspicion. Is it not time to demand a more virtuous living as a necessary qualification for the man who is to secure our suffrages?

STANDARD CLOTHING COMPANY.

WHAT JIM TARBOX SAYS!

THE KING OF FRIEZE.

FOR DRIVERS AND OTHERS.

Warranted strictly all wool, and snow and water-proof.The Best Ulster ever made for $12.

THE STANDARD CLOTHING CO.,

395 Washington Street, Boston.

To Whom it May Concern:

In February, 1889, the STANDARD CLOTHING Company sent me a Dark Oxford Mix Frieze Ulster, which they called their "King of Friezes," with the request to give it the hardest possible wear during the balance of the winter. Although there was no snow of any amount, it was a very wet season, and I wore the coat daily in my business, and found it exactly as they represented, impervious to water and snow. I have the ulster in use now, and can confidently recommend it as the most desirable, strongest, warmest ulster that I have ever owned.

The price of this "King of Friezes," $12, brings it within the reach of every hack driver, herd driver, car driver, or any one whose business is out of doors, and who needs a coat that will shed water or snow.

JAMES M. TARBOX, Superintendent Herdic-Phaeton Co.

A Long-Felt Want Supplied.

The KING OF FRIEZE.

The President of our Company—an expert in woollens—has been two years perfecting a fabric that would be impervious to snow and rain, and yet that could be sold at a moderate price. In the "King of Frieze" a perfect success has been attained.

STANDARD CLOTHING CO., 395 Washington St.

Overcoats, Ulsters and Cape Coats.

We have manufactured and placed upon our tables for the coming season, the largest and most complete stock of Overcoats ever shown in this country, and at the lowest prices ever named for Reliable Goods. We say this boldly for it is the simple truth. We name a few of the Special Bargains:

West of England Kerseys, in blue, black and brown—all colors warranted fast—for $15; worth $22.
Fine Oxford Kersey, $15.00; worth $20.00.
Drab wide wale Kersey, $15.00; worth $22.00.
Elysians, in Indigo blue and fast black, for $15.00; worth $20.00.

THE STUDENT'S CHARM.

FAITH CURE IN THE SEVENTEENTH CENTURY.

It was late on an autumn evening in 1690, the year of the Restoration. There came riding up to the inn of one of the most straggling Oxfordshire villages a well mounted young gentleman of somewhat distinguished appearance. Calling to the hostler he gave particular instructions as to the treatment of his horse, and ordering the best bed and supper the landlady could provide, retired for a time to his room, desiring to be called when the meal was ready.

In about an hour the supper was on the table, and the stranger sat down to it. He had evidently come from a distance; the state of his horse showed that, and the way he did justice to the landlady's cookery proved that he must have been remarkably hungry. The good woman was in truth rather alarmed at the rapidity with which he disposed of what she set before him.

He was a well built young fellow, of about eighteen or nineteen, with a broad brow and strange forehead, piercing eyes that seemed to follow her about the room, and looking through her to the wall each time she caught his gaze. For about half an hour he was silent, too busy, in fact, to speak, but he was pleasant and likeable; and when she left him to himself the dame had taken rather a fancy to him.

Half she knew how he was situated, her thoughts would have gone another road. For the distinguished stranger was a gentleman commoner of Oriel, who with his choice companions had been trying a little amateur highway robbery, and failing to find a victim had come on here alone without a penny in his pocket, trusting to what might turn up to furnish him with the means of paying his bill.

As soon as he was left alone he left the table and took his chair to the fire. He began to think over his position. His thoughts were not encouraging. He had been living what was a wild college life even in those days; and his family had almost ruined him. His father, a member of Gray's Inn and a country magistrate of influence, was an eccentric man of strong will, never known to go back on his word; and in his last letter he had given him his own clear understanding that his patience was exhausted. As to money he had sent him enough for some time; and as to "acceptance," he would be responsible for none "after the date of this my last letter, unless you amend." He had not amended; he had gone further and failed.

No wonder then that his meditations were unsatisfactory. He knew that he was not a fool, and he knew that his fellow students had taught him that, and fortunately on this occasion his self-conceit came to his rescue.

"My father and mother," he said to himself, at least he said years afterward that he said to himself, for he was not an unknown name, "my father and mother are better fitted than those they meet, and I am very like them. I have the old man's voice and my mother's eyes. I see things as quickly as they do, and mind them as well. And here I have been for two years without the chance of getting me a living if the old people were to throw me overboard and have I done?"

What had he done indeed? He had acquired a thin coat of university varnish. This is not a work of the imagination, and we will not enlarge on the student's recognition of his folly. The conclusion he came to was the ordinary one—"Let me get out of this trouble, and I will never get into another."

But how was he to get out of this? He could not help liking the cheery, brisk little woman whom he had come—disguise it as you might—to swindle. He had eaten his supper; that did not trouble him so much, for it was obvious that if he was to be honest he must eat. But how was he to pay for it? The horse was not his; to leave it would be to rob Peter to pay Paul. He was in the same fix with his clothes. The idea of doing a little wrong to do a little right, on the Bassano principle occurred to him, and was rejected.

"No, I'll be honest and I'll be thorough," he said, and resolving to be very good and very superior to everything and everyone he met, he strode up and down the room.

"I'll go and see mine hostess," said he; "maybe something will happen to me." And something did happen which played havoc with his good resolutions.

Entering the kitchen, he found, seated by the fire, a frail, weary-looking girl of thirteen, whom the landlady introduced as her daughter.

"Sick of bad age; waiting for the fit which will come to her tonight," said the landlady. "Has she been thus for long?" asked the student.

"A year this Michaelmas," said the landlady; "and never a leech can cure her. I have tried them all over the country round, and paid them well, but there sits the poor child, growing worse and worse, and surely sinking to her grave."

"What does her father say? Is there none in London that could tell you what to do?"

"Her father, sir, has been dead these three years. I am a poor widow, and have spent all he left me trying to cure the child, but it is of no avail. Poor Jess! Poor Jess!"

The stranger looked troubled—as he was. To ride away from the inn without paying his bills was bad enough, but to cheat a poor widow in distress, for whose sick child she had sacrificed her means of living, was—well, the act of a scoundrel.

The Oxonian wished he had never left Oriel; he felt thoroughly ashamed of himself. So genuine was his shame that it might be thought he was fairly on the path of reformation, and would thenceforth keep it. But it was not so with him; and there were very many like him.

He was all right until he took another sip at the wine which the hostess had temptingly placed within his reach, and which, at the moment he resolved to rob the poor woman no more, he in pure absent-mindedness, lifted to his lips and unconsciously drank. As he put down the empty flagon he caught sight of the new moon through the window, and as his gaze was returning to the fire, it rested for a moment on the patient, pallid-faced girl.

She was undoubtedly ill, and he sympathized with her. But the low type of face with the narrow, sloping forehead, the furtive eyes, and the weak-willed mouth and chin, told her character so unmistakably that an idea was suggested to him which he welcomed with delight. A fig for his resolves! Here was a way out of his difficulties!

"What is the time of your daughter's attack?"

"The fit will come to her at eleven."

"I will cure her."

"Thou! Art thou a physician?"

"I have studied with the wisest where wisdom dwells. Let your daughter do as I direct and the ague will depart from her."

"Art thou willing, Jess?" asked the mother.

The girl turned her head, but the stranger's eyes were not on her, and she whispered "Yes."

"Then I will come back in a brief space. I go to seek some potent herbs under the rays of the young moon."

The student went out laughing to himself at his new device, and thinking over the part he was to play. He walked down the garden, jumped the palings, crossed the meadow, and followed for a time the bank of the stream whose ripples gleamed with the silver sparkles from the moon.

A leaf of herb Robert he took, then a sprig of dox's mercury, then a small colt's-foot and juck saucy-by-the-edge, then some scorpion grass, then a four-leaved paris and a twig of broom. Then he returned to the kitchen, "looting unutterable things," and laid his leaves on the table, the colt's foot at one end, the herb Robert at the other, the scorpion grass, and the dox's mercury in the middle, with the broom next the paris. Then he put the leaves in a cup, and rubbed them together for a time, whispering to himself so as to be heard by the invalid:

"Etta, zeta, theta, phi; kappa, delta, lambda, pi; sigma, gamma, beta, mu; alpha, tau, epsilon, nu; psi, chi, upsilon, rho; kyklopedeia, may the ague go!"

Then he opened the window that the moon might shine on the cup, and he took out some of the leaves, and rolled them in a strip of parchment which he cut from his pocket-book. Then he tied the roll with a silken string and sealed it, but he did not use his own seal, for he pressed on the wax the leaf of scorpion grass which he accidentally dropped on the floor.

"A piece of riband," he said to the hostess, the first words he had addressed to her since he entered with the leaves; "and pen and ink," and while she was gone he emptied the cup on the fire.

To each end of his tiny cylinder he tied a piece of riband, and with the pen and ink he scrawled on the parchment the Greek letters in his remarkable charm, repeating the words as he did so.

"Now give me thy wrist," he said to the girl; and he knotted the riband half an inch above her wrist, and seemed to look through them down every nerve in her body.

"Wear that," he said as he finished the knot. "And the sickness will never return to you. Rest and fear not. Farewell till the dawn!"

And in great grandeur he stalked off to bed. A thing it is not worth doing at all if it is not worth doing well, and this our student knew. To have stayed and watched for the result of his audacious piece of folly would have been too severe a trial for him. So he went to bed and laughed; and then, somehow the next morning he awoke with a headache, and began to reproach himself when he dropped off to sleep.

In the morning there came a knocking at the door.

"Who's there?"

"It is long past dawn," said the hostess.

"What do you want?"

"My daughter had never a fit last night."

"Nor will she have again. 'Tis well," said the stranger as impressively as he could manage.

When he came down he found the hostess, "fast," he said. "I cannot pay you."

"Pay me!" said the hostess. "You have given me my daughter's life, and it is that I should pay you. You are welcome to all you have had and all you can take now."

The charm had its effect. The girl's nervous nature yielded to the man's stronger will, and the ague had been defeated. And what is more, the sickness did not return to her. The student miracle-worker therefore finished his breakfast, and with profuse thanks from the mother and child, rode away. He was not a fool, and he was not a scoundrel. But the moment he caught a last glimpse of her out in the road at the end of the avenue of elms, whose limpy, hanging leaves were trembling to fall, he dated a new life. He returned to college to work. In February, 1693, he was called to the bar, and rose quickly into notice as a first rate lawyer and successful advocate. He became recorder of London, and was removed from his office by James II., for his opposition to the court measures, and when William III. sought the fittest man to purify the bench and make the law respected, he chose for the lord chief justiceship of England, the cur of the landlady's daughter, Sir John Holt.

How he fulfilled his duties during the 21 years he held his position, we can leave to Macaulay and the other historians to tell. He stood up for the law against the encroachments of monarch and Parliament, and he was the champion of the example of that spirit and temper which has distinguished our judges ever since. When Lord Somers left the chancellorship it was offered to Sir John, but he declined it. He felt that he had the post for which he was most fitted. This year, 1709, was a memorable one for him for another reason. As he was trying prisoners at the assizes, a woman was brought before him charged with witchcraft. Old and haggard and miserable she stood in the dock, literally hunted down. The charge against her of curing cures and horses and women and men, by throwing a spell over them seemed to be thoroughly proved. The evidence could not be shaken, and the woman herself admitted that she had exercised an influence as described. She was found guilty but before the Lord Chief Justice passed sentence he asked if she had anything to say in defence of herself.

"Only that it is true, your lordship. They asked me to lend them my charm, and I lent it to them, and they turned against me."

"What is this charm?"

"It is this, my lord," said she, slipping off her wrist a tiny roll of parchment.

It was given to me forty years ago by a stranger who cured me of the ague. He told me it would thenceforth cure anything, and so it has done."

And up to the judge, who was about to sentence her to death, was given the packet he himself had made at the inn. This was the end of his adventure. There was the "eta, zeta," that he had scrawled; and he was the tempter and originator of the charm, for using which he was to hand over this poor traster in his honesty to the executioner. For forty years his thoughtless folly had been working round, and now it had reached him as he sat on the judgment seat.

"We will make inquiry into this. The woman was removed. As speedily as possible she was pardoned. The student's freak in the little Oxfordshire village had had important consequences. Sir John had had enough of trials for witchcraft, and henceforth he discouraged it in every way. When he died, in 1710, the laws had practically become obsolete, and soon afterwards they were repealed.

Republican Incurables.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

The courteous and argumentative letter of Mr. Fiske in your last number hardly requires a reply after the stunning rebuke administered last Tuesday to the Republican leaders, not only by the old Bay State but by the entire country. But there is so much genuine "freshness" permeating the whole letter that a brief reply may not seem out of place, even after the people's battle has been fought and won.

The opprobrious title of deserter, so flippantly applied by Mr. F., may seem crushing to hide-bound partisans, but it has no weight with men of principle who have survived being called renegades and traitors for daring to talk and to vote in accordance with the dictates of their own judgment and conscience.

The spirit which uses such weapons, would use the bludgeon and pistol, if the sentiment of the community would allow it. In view of the late election we presume Mr. F. will postpone for a short time the renewal of the Civil War which he so feelingly threatened in his allusion to the infamous "Force Bill." But he certainly ought to have learned long ago that hard names, unless truthfully applied, hurt nobody—or the glorious founders of the Republican party would have filled early graves. Mr. Fiske in his glowing eulogium well describes the Republican party as it was, before it fell under the control of its present leaders, who stand up unblushingly under direct charges of bribery, peculation and embezzlement and ask whose business it is. This week the people have passed their judgment upon the party leaders and it is to be hoped that the grand old party may take the rebuke home and relocate the Blaines, Quays, Wanamakers, Clarksons and Dudleys to the obscurity which they deserve. The writer begs to apologize for alluding to his personal experience, but as Mr. Fiske alludes to him as a "recent deserter," he feels called upon to explain that he has not voted the Republican National ticket since 1880. He voted against the Republican National ticket for the first time in 1884, when the convention placed in nomination the most disreputable candidate ever nominated by any party since the organization of the government.

Well pleased with the wisdom, honesty and patriotism of Mr. Cleveland's administration, he voted for him a second time in 1888. But aside from his desire to manifest his hearty approval of such an admirable administration, the writer was influenced by the platform, adopted by the Republicans, in denouncing as utterly at variance with the entire previous record of the party. Mr. Fiske evidently does not remember that all the earliest champions of the Republican party (which had its national birth in 1856 and not in 1860 as Mr. F. supposes) were as practically free traders as the present day Republicans.

On the first complaint the court found him guilty. He was discharged on the complaint charging him with the larceny of a shovel. For stealing the articles from Wade's barn, he was sentenced to six months in the house of correction. He was also sentenced to three months in the house of correction for the larceny of the watch and other articles from the house of Mrs. T. Kienan.

On the complaint charging him with the larceny of tools and harnesses, the property of W. F. Gannon, was held in the sum of $500 for his appearance before the grand jury.

He was also held in $500 for his appearance before the grand jury to answer to a complaint charging him with the larceny of tools and a 25 pound can of powder from the chest of T. D. Sullivan on Dedham street, Newton Highlands.

The elder Fredericks was sent to the house of correction in East Cambridge at the conclusion of the trial, and his son Ridgway Alexander accompanied him, the latter being unable to furnish bonds.

B. C. JONES, Alma, Lincoln County, Me.

A REPUBLICAN OF 1856. Newton, Nov. 7, 1890.

THREE OF A THIEVING FAMILY. NEWTON AND NEEDHAM OFFICERS BREAK UP A GANG.

The Fredericks of Needham were given a surprise Saturday, when the elder representative of the family and his two sons, Ridgway Alexander and George H. Fredericks were arrested by Officer Geo. Wragg of Needham and Officers Purcell, Leonard, Mitchell and Moulton of the Newton force.

In the southeastern portion of Needham, in a secluded place, one summer about 15 years ago, Mr. Henry Fredericks, the elder, put up a shanty, into which he moved with his wife, his boy and his baby, and there, 14 years ago, another little one opened its eyes to the world. It was a crude cabin where squalor and discomfort were shared equally by the inmates. The old house, however, might tell quite a story of crimes and revels if it were duly blessed with the gift of speech. It is thought to have been the rendezvous of a gang of crooks who have been practicing of late on locks and windows in the Newtons, Brookline and vicinity.

The Fredericks have long been suspected of criminal work, but so crafty have been their movements, and so carefully arranged their plans, that the officers found it difficult to connect a case with them.

The gang might have kept on indefinitely, but for the growth of their ranks. The original cause was probably dissatisfaction with the division of the spoils. A fellow named Daniel Burke was hard up last Tuesday. He knew that old man Fredericks had a pocket book containing $22 under a pillow on one of the beds, and also that a leather jacket, a gold mounted pen and several handkerchiefs, which never had been paid for were in the house.

He took $10 of the cash and other articles and went to Boston. The old man and Alexander went after him and caught him. He returned everything but the $10, and promised to return that. Then, when his captors were not watching him, he ran away.

Thursday the father complained to Judge Grover of the theft, and a warrant was issued for Burke's arrest. Friday afternoon Officer Wragg found him in Boston. Burke was greatly excited when told that Fredericks had complained against him, and declared he would get even with the old man for it.

He offered to conduct the officer to the house and aid him in his search, telling him of several breaks of which he knew, some of which had occurred in Newton.

Officer Wragg knew that Officer Purcell of this city had been looking for the thieves working here for the past three months, and went over and told him what Burke had said. Officer Purcell secured the services of his brother officers, called on Judge Grover of Needham, Saturday morning, and was granted a warrant to search Fredericks's premises.

The officers found two watches, a pair of bracelets, a musket stolen in Brookline, gold and numerous articles, which have since been claimed by owners in Newton.

The cases against the elder Fredericks and his two boys came up before Judge Kennedy in the police court at West Newton, Monday morning.

George H. Fredericks, the younger of the two boys, was utilized by the government as a witness. There was no evidence connecting him with the Newton breaks, and he was therefore discharged.

Henry C. Fredericks, the father of the boys, was arraigned on a complaint charging him with receiving stolen property.

The government evidence showed that he had in his possession two harnesses, some tools, articles of clothing, a pair of gold plated bracelets, a pocket book, and other articles stolen from the barn of Levi C. Wade at Oak Hill, from the house of Mrs. T. Kienan, Kenrick street, Newton, and from the barn of William F. Gannon at Newton Centre. Nearly all of this property was recovered by the Newton police and identified by the owners in court.

Fredericks was found guilty and was sentenced to five months in the house of correction.

Ridgway Alexander Fredericks, the eldest boy, aged 19, pleaded guilty to the larceny of a silver watch and other articles from the house of Mrs. Kienan; and also to the larceny of a harness and some tools, the property of W. F. Gannon of Newton Centre.

He pleaded not guilty to complaints charging him with stealing two leather jackets, a pair of boots and a pair of mittens, from the barn of Hon. Levi C. Wade at Oak Hill, and the larceny of a shovel, the property of Arthur Muldoon of Newton Centre.

On the first complaint the court found him guilty. He was discharged on the complaint charging him with the larceny of a shovel. For stealing the articles from Wade's barn, he was sentenced to six months in the house of correction. He was also sentenced to three months in the house of correction for the larceny of the watch and other articles from the house of Mrs. T. Kienan.

On the complaint charging him with the larceny of tools and harnesses, the property of W. F. Gannon, was held in the sum of $500 for his appearance before the grand jury.

He was also held in $500 for his appearance before the grand jury to answer to a complaint charging him with the larceny of tools and a 25 pound can of powder from the chest of T. D. Sullivan on Dedham street, Newton Highlands.

The elder Fredericks was sent to the house of correction in East Cambridge at the conclusion of the trial, and his son Ridgway Alexander accompanied him, the latter being unable to furnish bonds.

—Cards have been issued for a private exhibition of decorated china to be given next week at the City Hall, by Miss Anna R. Bassett in her studio on Parker street.

—It has been said that we are a nation of grumblers. Sometimes there may be no good reason, and sometimes there may be very good reasons for grumbling. Here is a case in point: On account of a defective flue to one of the furnaces in the Hyde school house, notice of which was given to some member of the committee of the city government having the care of school houses, as early as June last, and up to this time nothing has been done to remedy the trouble. The consequence is, there have been no sessions of school in some of the rooms for several days during the past month. The salaries of teachers go on, and the precious time of the scholars squandered away. We submit such a state of things ought not to exist.

—The Newton Highlands branch of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle observed its tenth anniversary in Lincoln hall on Monday evening. Previous to the literary exercises a season of social intercourse and banquet was enjoyed in Stevens hall, at which the president and delegates from all the educational clubs of Newton were present. A large company, comprising the literary societies of Newton, and invited guests nearly filled the hall. The platform was beautifully decorated with pot plants, and the Germania Band was in attendance, and rendered choice selections of music. The distinguished guests, presiding the pulpit were Hon. J. C. Hyde, Rev. Alvah Hovey, Rev. H. D. Ward, Mrs. G. E. Phipps, Rev. Wm. Hall Williams, Rev. C. E. Todd, Mr. E. J. Hyde, Mrs. E. J. Hyde, president of the circle, conducted the exercises. The class history was read by Mrs. A. W. Heckman, giving a very full report of the work of the circle; address by Miss M. A. Beecher, eulogizing the great benefit to be derived by women in becoming members of literary clubs; address by Rev. Wm. C. Winslow, who spoke of the high state of civilization which existed in Egypt as far back as the time of Moses; address by G. M. Towle on the growth of the "Democratic Idea" among the nations of Europe and Asia, followed by Bishop J. H. Vincent, the originator of the Chautauqua Idea, who spoke of its object and aims, and in glowing terms prophesied of its future benefits to the race, after which the Chautauqua hymn to the tune of America was sung by the audience. Many thanks are due to the circle for their being able to carry out their design of making this a most successful and delightful occasion.

—The first grand social of the Young Men's Association was held at Associates' Hall, Wednesday evening. Music by Knowlton & Allen's orchestra, J. L. Robinson, prompter. There was a full attendance.

—At the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday morning, Bishop Stephen M. Merrill, D. D., will preach. In the evening at 7 o'clock the lecture by the pastor will be on the Ninth Commandment. The public are cordially invited to be present.

—Mr. A. D. S. Bell is seriously ill and threatened with congestion of the brain, but his physician has hopes that he will recover, and his excellent constitution is in his favor. One hears on all sides sympathy for Mr. Bell, and expressions of the high esteem in which he is held.

—The Newton Centre Catholic church have arranged for a coffee party to be given in Associates' Hall, Thanksgiving evening, Nov. 26. After the coffee and refreshments the first of the evening, dancing will be indulged in. Wiggins' orchestra of Boston furnishing music.

—The King's Daughters connected with the Unitarian society, are to have a sale in Associates' Small Hall, next Tuesday, continuing through the afternoon and evening. Useful and fancy articles, confectionery and refreshments will be on sale, and from 5 to 6 o'clock the children will be amused with games.

—List of letters remaining unclaimed at the post office: P. M. Beath, 2; Miss Grace Blanchard, Miss Katie Beaton, "The Ellen Gifford Home," Mrs. M. M. Allen, Mrs. J. B. Martin, Edward McHugh, Miss Mary Ann McDonald, Miss Cecilia McLaughlin, 2; Lilla Mosher, Mrs. H. G. Page, Mr. Patrick Pendergast, Miss Hattie Porter, William D. Rice, Mr. L. J. Thompson.

—The Republican caucus in Associates' Small Hall, Saturday evening, was well attended, and the delegates with one exception were strongly in favor of Mr. George Pettie for mayor. Alderman Harbach was chosen by the caucus to represent them the coming year, and for school committee Mr. A. L. Harwood was unanimously favored to fill the unexpired term of Mr. A. D. S. Bell.

—The singing at the Baptist church has recently undergone considerable change. The first of the fall the music was furnished by a chorus choir. This has changed in favor of a quartet, and it is composed of Messrs. D. A. White, soprano; Miss Alice Warren, contralto; Mr. Daniels of Boston, tenor; Mr. Geo. E. Barrows, basso; supported by four additional voices, all under the direction of Mr. Bradbury. Mr. Daniels, the tenor, formerly sang with the Howard M. Down quartet of the 2d Unitarian church of Boston.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—Mr. Amasa Craft, after a short illness, is now much better.
—Rev. Mr. Phipps is spending the week with relatives in Conn.
—Madam Manson, who has been a long time ill, is now much better.
—Mrs. Phipps' Sunday school class visited the fair in Boston this week.

—The Chautauqua circle will meet next Monday with Mrs. Hayward, at 2 o'clock.
—Rev. N. H. Harriman preached at the Congregational church last Sunday evening.

—The next meeting of the Monday Club will be with Mrs. E. Moulton, Walnut street.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. B. King have an addition to their family circle by the birth of a daughter.

—The West End Literary Club will meet with Miss Barber next Thursday afternoon at two o'clock.

—Mrs. Blood has rented one of the tenements in Blood's block to a Mr. Morse and family of Somerville.

—Rev. Dr. Calkins of the Eliot church, Newton, preached at the Congregational church here last Sunday.

—This week the ladies of the Congregational church sent a library to a destitute Sunday school in Dakota.

—Mrs. Frank Dorman, who has been visiting here, returned on Thursday to her home in Montclair, N. J.

—Rev. and Mrs. Todd received a surprise and donation party on Tuesday evening. A very jolly evening was passed.

—Prof. Cheney of the Boston school of Elocution has rented the house lately occupied by Dr. Hill on Hartford street.

—Mr. Towle will meet the class in English Literature, Nov. 25th, at Mrs. Charles Reed's on Hyde street. The subject will be "Sir Francis Bacon" continued. There will be no meeting on the 18th.

—Mrs. H. D. Estabrook, the dressmaker, moved from Winchester street, and has taken a tenement in the house of Mr. G. E. Leonard on Walnut street, where she would be happy to receive her patrons.

—List of letters remaining in the post office—Miss Lydia Beaumont, Mr. N. H. Clark, Mr. Carlo, Mrs. M. J. Mannion, Jas. H. McAdams, Mr. John Pentony, Zacharias Swenson, Miss Maggie Shanks.

—Mr. A. F. Hayward is to have a fine house, with all the modern conveniences, built for him on land of his on Cushing street, near the residence of Mr. Herbert Moseley, architect, the cellar for which has been commenced.

—Mr. A. H. Fawkes is a very enthusiastic propagator of the new very popular chrysanthemum, and at his greenhouses on Hyde street may be seen a most magnificent display. He has contributed quite freely to the chrysanthemum show held in Boston this week, and competed for some of the prizes.

—The funeral of Mrs. Almira Messer, Mrs. Kimball's mother, was held at Mr. O. J. Kimball's residence on Sunday, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Geo. Gardner Phipps officiated. Mrs. Messer was very much beloved by all who knew her, and her loss is deeply mourned by her afflicted family.

—The Warren Dramatic Club of Newtonville, in which our people seem to be taking considerable interest, is to be given a play in our hall some time during the winter for the benefit of the Cottage Hospital. It is somewhat doubtful if they will come, as they are a strictly private club, but if they do favor us, we will be sure of a treat, and should turn out in such numbers as to make them want to come again.

—Messrs. E. Moulton and E. L. Collins received the nomination for communion for the annual meeting without any opposition at the caucus, held last Saturday evening, in Stevens Hall. The five delegates that were chosen to attend the city convention held at City Hall on Wednesday evening, were all in favor of Alderman George Pettie for mayor, and Mr. E. J. Hyde, president of the council, for alderman.

Winslow, who spoke of the high state of civilization which existed in Egypt as far back as the time of Moses; address by G. M. Towle on the growth of the "Democratic Idea" among the nations of Europe and Asia, followed by Bishop J. H. Vincent, the originator of the Chautauqua Idea, who spoke of its object and aims, and in glowing terms prophesied of its future benefits to the race, after which the Chautauqua hymn to the tune of America was sung by the audience. Many thanks are due to the circle for their being able to carry out their design of making this a most successful and delightful occasion.

—The Newton Highlands branch of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle observed its tenth anniversary in Lincoln hall on Monday evening. Previous to the literary exercises a season of social intercourse and banquet was enjoyed in Stevens hall, at which the president and delegates from all the educational clubs of Newton were present. A large company, comprising the literary societies of Newton, and invited guests nearly filled the hall. The platform was beautifully decorated with pot plants, and the Germania Band was in attendance, and rendered choice selections of music. The distinguished guests, presiding the pulpit were Hon. J. C. Hyde, Rev. Alvah Hovey, Rev. H. D. Ward, Mrs. G. E. Phipps, Rev. Wm. Hall Williams, Rev. C. E. Todd, Mr. E. J. Hyde, Mrs. E. J. Hyde, president of the circle, conducted the exercises. The class history was read by Mrs. A. W. Heckman, giving a very full report of the work of the circle; address by Miss M. A. Beecher, eulogizing the great benefit to be derived by women in becoming members of literary clubs; address by Rev. Wm. C. Winslow, who spoke of the high state of civilization which existed in Egypt as far back as the time of Moses; address by G. M. Towle on the growth of the "Democratic Idea" among the nations of Europe and Asia, followed by Bishop J. H. Vincent, the originator of the Chautauqua Idea, who spoke of its object and aims, and in glowing terms prophesied of its future benefits to the race, after which the Chautauqua hymn to the tune of America was sung by the audience. Many thanks are due to the circle for their being able to carry out their design of making this a most successful and delightful occasion.

Sardinian. It is cut from solid block of wood, is three feet long, has two stacks, eight life boats, deck railing contains twenty-five pins, and the rigging over 2000 knots. In fact it is a perfect miniature, and was cut out by jackknife. The maker knows nothing of navigation. Mr. Henry Ward owns the ship which he values at $500. It will be placed on exhibition at the post office next week.

—Mr. Geo. H. Chambers recovered his 12 year old son Walter, last Tuesday forenoon at Hopkinton. It seems he was noticed away by Peter Clark whom he went with. They first went to Boston and then to Ashland, where they went to a relative of the latter's and told the story of being out of work for a while and on a vacation. Mr. Chambers got wind of their whereabouts from officers there and went there Tuesday morning. He was unsuccessful in locating them and was waiting for his train home from Hopkinton when Walter walked up to the depot, having got disgusted with his companion and started for home on foot. Mrs. Clark went to Ashland to find her son Peter, but he heard of her coming and left town, and is still at large.

—Rev. Martin O'Brien, pastor of St. Mary's church, died Monday afternoon. He had just returned from Europe where he spent the summer in the interest of his health but the skill of eminent physicians at home and abroad was of no avail against the inroads of a complication of diseases, and the end has been rapidly approaching since his arrival home a week ago. Father O'Brien was one of the most beloved priests in the archdiocese of Boston. He was 42 years of age, born at Nenagh, County Tipperary, Ire., 1848. His preparatory studies were at Ennis College, County Clare, after which he entered the seminary of Thurles. He completed his theological course in 1875, and was ordained priest May 24 of that year at Carlo College. His first mission was at Lowell, Mass., where he came Aug. 8, 1875. In February 1877, Father O'Brien went to fill a temporary vacancy in the parish of the Immaculate Conception, Salem, but later was stationed permanently at the above church. After nine years' faithful service in Salem, Archbishop Williams appointed Father O'Brien to take charge of the parish of St. Mary's, Upper Falls, with its adjoining congregations at Lower Falls, the Central, Newton Highlands and Needham. He was one of the youngest pastors in the archdiocese. His five-years' regime at Newton has been marked by many important church improvements and a world of charitable acts. Father O'Brien was the personification of gentleness and kindness. Arrangements were made whereby Boston friends could go to Newton, from Boston & Albany station on 9:32 train by way of Riverside to attend the funeral, and Lower Falls friends were also taken on this train, which was met at Newton Highlands by a New England special for the funeral train. The train was taken to the church Wednesday afternoon, where it lay in state until Thursday morning under a guard of honor from the Holy Name and other church societies.

—The funeral took place at St. Mary's church yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. It began at 10:30 o'clock, and at that hour the church was completely filled. A solemn high mass was celebrated, Rev. Michael O'Brien of Lowell, assisted by Rev. Lawrence Morris of Groveland, and Rev. Robert Stuart of Watertown, sub-deacon; Rev. Thomas Tobin of Rockland, master of ceremonies, and Rev. Daniel Gleason of Lowell, assistant master of ceremonies. The mass was said before Archbishop Williams; the eulogy was delivered by Rev. Wm. Hall of Church of Immaculate Conception, Salem. At the conclusion of the mass, Archbishop Williams performed the funeral rites, and the remains were then taken from the church, followed by the clergy and relatives and friends of the deceased. The body was interred in St. Mary's churchyard, the services in connection with the interment being performed by Archbishop Williams. The pallbearers were James Haggerty, Thomas Connelin, Jacob King, William Connelin, James Patrick, Thomas Belger, John Dolan, and Daniel W. Ward. 100 clergymen were present at the services.

—The funeral took place at St. Mary's church yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. It began at 10:3

chusetts Emergency and Hygiene Association, have made the following tentative arrangements for the delivery of the Emergency Course to the Firemen of Newton: Newton and Newton Centre, Dr.
Udley; Newtonville and West Newton, Dr.
Talbot; Auburndale and Lower Falls, Dr.
Porter; Newton Highlands and Upper Falls, Dr. Eaton. The time suggested by Chief Bixby is the evening. There will be four lectures and demonstrations in each place and both call and regular members will be invited to receive this instruction as to "What to do in time of danger." Lectures to other groups will be announced later.

—Rev. Geo. S. Merrill is the author of a very interesting book, "Crusaders and Captives," which has just been added to the Baptist Sunday school library. It deals with that strange outbreak of the Middle Ages, when a crusade of the children to save the Holy Land was preached throughout Europe, which resulted in filling the slave markets of Northern Africa and the East with the flower of European youth of both sexes.
The book deals with some of the young leaders of this strange movement, and tells of their wonderful adventures, and older people will find it quite as absorbing as any of the younger readers.

—In his sermon on Sunday morning, Dr.
Shinn alluded to the pernicious influence of many of the plays now brought out in the theatres. He did not condemn the stage in itself. He claimed that when kept it was a means of helpful recreation, but if it were not clean it was a degradation.
The point was made that no topic should be developed on the stage, in dialogue or by action, that was not fitted for consideration in a respectable home, and that no immodest spectacle or suggestion should ever be permitted. The people's amusement should not become the people's degradation. The sermon will be printed in full in next week's issue.

—The Unitarian Club of Newton met in the Channing Church Parlors last evening.
Thirty-six members were present and participated in the proceedings. At the business meeting held immediately after the supper the membership committee reported 65 names on the list as members, that invitations to join had been sent to every gentleman belonging to the parish and if anyone had been overlooked the committee would with pleasure receive his name. Any gentleman of the parish of 18 years of age or over, can become a member.
The assessment is $3 per year. After the business meeting the president read a witty and interesting address, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hornbroke and Rev. Mr. Savage of Watertown made some appropriate remarks.

To the Voters of Ward Seven.

Having been dropped from the list of candidates for the common council, by the managers of the caucus, I appeal to the voters of the ward to decide for themselves whether or not I am a fit man to receive the usual courtesy of a second year in the city council. As to the quality of the service I have rendered the city, I refer to my associates on the various committees:—
Highways, ordinances, memorial hall, Cottage Hospital, bath houses, Read Fund.
Whatever your verdict may be I shall be content, but I prefer to have the matter decided by the voters, rather than by the half dozen men who have made the nomination; and I have therefore filed nomination papers, and my name will appear on the ballots as a candidate for the common council.

Very respectfully,
WILLIAM C. BATES.

ALDERMAN GEO. PETTEE

HERMON E. HIBBARD

Should be elected Mayor.

Should be elected Mayor.

1. He was born in Newton, educated in the Newton schools, trained for business in a Newton factory, and equipped for managing the business interests of the city by a long and honorable business career.

Because he wants it.

2. Because he knows the working of every municipal department so thoroughly that he is perfectly competent to be Chief of Police, Chief of the Fire Department, Superintendent of Streets and of Water Works, City Treasurer, City
Auditor and City Clerk.

3. Because, in superintending the outlay of the City's money, he will display that intelligent economy and wise liberality which has secured success for him in his private business.

4. Because, having often been acting Mayor, he has proved that he is thoroughly equipped for the position and will not have to spend his first year in making a bowing acquaintance with the city's business.

5. Because his nomination is not due to the machinations of politicians, but to the widespread feeling that by approved faithful services in which he has risen from the lowest position to that of acting chief magistrate, he has earned this final triumphant endorsement of his past career.

5.

6. Because the system of sewerage has already been planned by the present City Government and must go forward, and his part in its adoption renders him peculiarly fitted to hasten and superintend its execution.

7. Because every man in Newton who has been convicted of liquor selling is opposed to his election.

7.

8. Because the only cry that diligent and ambitious politicians have been able to raise against him is that it is "partisan" to nominate for Mayor a man who has seven times been nominated and elected to office by all parties; among others by the very party that now stultifies itself by opposing the promotion of a faithful public servant who has, until the party's exigencies required the contrary, received their unanimous support.

9. Because the people of Newton believe in every possible application of the principles of civil service reform to public business, and believe there is no principle of reform that does not loudly demand the promotion of a man in the public service who has acquired his knowledge of public affairs by long, faithful, honest and unrewarded labor in the ranks before aspiring to the highest office.

10. Because the people of Newton have never yet refused to stand steadfastly by a faithful public servant.

H. E. HIBBARD FOR MAYOR.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE OF THE CITIZENS' CONVENTION DELEGATES.

The delegates chosen to attend the Citizens' convention met in the City Hall, West Newton, Saturday evening, for the purpose of nominating candidates for mayor, for the board of aldermen and for the school board.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Samuel Shaw, chairman of the citizens' ward and city committee, who read the call and made a brief address. He said that the citizens' movement was a movement in the interests of non-partisan politics, the object being to secure in municipal affairs, the administration of honest government, based on business principles. [Applause.] It is not a movement, he added, in the interests of the advancement of individuals or any political party. It has no pledges to make and no political trades to carry out. It is a movement solely for the purpose of promoting good government by selecting the best men for the management of city affairs and not for the selfish purpose of advancing the political career of any ambitious men who have not the best interests of the city at heart. [Applause.]

The convention organized by the choice of Mr. Sydney Harwood as chairman; Mr. Charles S. Keene, secretary. Upon assuming the chair, Mr. Harwood made a brief address. He said that he appreciated the honor conferred upon him by the convention in electing him to the office of chairman. I have always been a Republican ticket, he added, until a year ago, when I voted for Mr. H. E. Hibbard for mayor. [Applause.] I voted for him because I believed in the election of practical business men to administer the affairs of the city. I was made aware of his nomination by the Citizens' party after returning home from a business trip and soon as possible thereafter, I notified the representatives of the Citizens' party that I was desirous of aiding in every way possible the election of Mr. Hibbard. [Applause.] I have not changed my views I hope and, I may add, that I feel assured that the will of the approaching municipal election will elect Hibbard for mayor. [Applause.] With me, it is not a question of politics and I can stand with the Citizens' movement in its efforts for the nomination and election of the best men, without regard to party. We want the best men to represent us in the city government from every ward and section of the city. [Applause.]

At the conclusion of Chairman Harwood's speech a committee on credentials was appointed, consisting of Messrs. W. J. Follett, T. B. Fitz and Charles P. Clark, Jr. The committee reported 33 delegates present and called for a vote. A second report of the committee was made soon after announcing the presence of the entire delegation of 35.

The convention then gave its attention to the nomination of a municipal ticket in accordance with the call.

Mr. Thomas B. Fitz, one of Newton's respected and honored citizens, stepped to the chair and presented the name of Mr. Hermon E. Hibbard for mayor. It is the duty of this convention and it is the duty of the citizens of this city, said Mr. Fitz, to place in nomination the best men. I believe, he added, that the best men will be nominated by this convention to night. The gentlemen whose name I have presented will faithfully and intelligently administer the duties of the office of mayor of this city. [Applause.] He has the respect and confidence of the people, continued Mr. Fitz, and it is for the interests of the citizens and tax payers to elect him to the office of mayor of this city. [Applause.]

Mr. C. Howard Wilson said that he was much pleased in listening to the remarks of the several speakers who had preceded him. The Citizens' movement, continued Mr. Wilson, is in the interests of a large part of the city, and it is his belief that the question of municipal affairs should be considered apart and entirely separated from all questions of national politics. The Democratic party, encouraged by its recent victory, is entitled to praise on account of its refusal to take advantage in city politics, and it has wisely entered into an attempt to separate these local issues from state and national questions. I am glad that the Democratic party in Newton has given us such evidence of good sense and sobriety, especially as this position has not been taken by the Democrats in other cities around us. In the interests, therefore, of non-partisan politics in our city affairs, it gives me great pleasure to second the nomination of Mr. Hermon E. Hibbard for mayor. [Applause.]

At the conclusion of the speech making, the ballot for mayor was proceeded with. The whole number of votes cast was 35, all for Mr. Hermon E. Hibbard, and that gentleman was declared the unanimous choice of the convention, the announcement being received with prolonged applause.

The following gentlemen were nominated for the board of aldermen, the ticket as made up being the same, with two exceptions as that presented to the voters by the Republican convention:

FOR ALDERMEN.

- Ward 1. Lewis E. Coffin.
- Ward 2. John A. Fenno.
- Ward 3. Arthur F. Luke.
- Ward 4. *Frederick M. Crehore.
- Ward 5. *Eben Thompson.
- Ward 6. W. F. Harbord.
- Ward 7. S. A. D. Sheppard.

*Messrs. Frederick and Eben Thompson, nominated in opposition to Messrs. F. E. Porter and Elliott J. Hyde, the candidates on the Republican ticket.

The nominations for the school board are appended:

FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD.

- Ward 2. Rev. R. A. White for 1 year.
- Ward 3. Lawrence Bond for 3 years.
- Ward 4. Rev. H. Usher Monroe for 3 years.
- Ward 5. Colin S. Ober for 3 years.
- Ward 6. A. L. Harwood for 2 years.
- Ward 7. Rev. F. B. Hornbrook for 3 years.

*Mr. Samuel Barnard nominated in opposition to Mrs. Abby E. Davis, the Republican candidate. The convention organized the ward delegations, on motion of Mr. W. J. Follett, to fill vacancies. The organization of a ward and city committee was then effected by the choice of the following:

Ward 1. J. E. Briston, Hosea Hyde, J. W. Hahn, W. F. Grace, Bruce H. Ware, Ward 2. T. F. Gilday, L. P. Watson, W. O. Tuttle, F. P. Hall, J. H. Williams, O. A. Atkins, Ward 3. Edward S. Merchant, C. P. Hall, Charles W. Shepard, E. E. Burdon, George F. Lincoln, Ward 4. James H. Doliver, E. H. Kenny, Fred Fuller, P. A. McVicar, F. J. Falkenbury, Ward 5. Henry Durant, Charles McAleer, C. P. Clark, Jr., J. H. Smith, John Glover, Ward 6. Gustav Ulmer, D. C. Scott, C. Howard Wilson, (two vacancies); Ward 7. George B. Jones, Walter Stearns, Sydney Harwood, Edward A. Hills, William J. Follett.

At the conclusion of the transaction of all business under the call, on motion of Mr. J. E. Briston, a vote of thanks was passed to the officers for the intelligent and impartial performance of the duties which devolved upon them, after which the convention adjourned.

Christian Socialism.

At the Newtonville Universalist church last Sunday, Rev. R. A. White preached on the subject of Christian Socialism. The following is an abstract: The text was from Galatians V, 14. Socialism is a word of bad flavor because it has so often been found in bad company. But there is Socialism, and Socialism. Christian Socialism is a specific form of Socialism. First: negatively, it is not, Looking Backwardism. Bellamy's book hastened, but did not originate Christian Socialism. Kingsley and Maurice antedated Bellamy's dream by many years. Second: it is not Communism. Christian Socialism believes in private property. Third: it is not an attack upon any class of individuals. It recognizes that the man who gets rich by illegitimate means is no whit wiser than the poor man who would be rich by the same means if he could. Fourth: it does not believe that society can be renovated in a year, or a decade of years. The better social conditions must be grown, not made. Fifth: it is not Scientific Socialism. This aims to bring in the Millennium by the mechanical reconstruction of social systems on purely economic grounds. It is in the main atheistic. It looks for the ideal society in changed systems. Christian Socialism is religious. It believes in spiritual and moral forces more than in economic forces.

Positively, Christian Socialism in its most fundamental aim seeks to apply to modern social and industrial problems the spirit and the ethics of Christ. It is therefore applied Christianity. It proceeds upon the avowed principle that "All rights and powers are gifts of God, not for the receivers use only, but for the benefit of all." "We hold," so runs the first article of their declaration of principles, "that God is the source and guide of all human progress and we believe that all social, political, and industrial relations should be based on the Fatherhood of God, and the Brotherhood of man, in the spirit, and according to the teachings of Jesus Christ." Its main aim may be crowded into the Second Commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Christian Socialism supplies therefore in its system what every other form of Socialism has persistently ignored, the moral and spiritual renewal of the individual as the practical and permanent of external changes in social and industrial systems. It believes in mechanical changes, but only as they are penetrated by the ethics and spirit of Christ. It is really no more than Apostolic Christianity applied to modern problems, with directness, and a consistency which, since the first and second centuries, the church has feared, or failed to do.

One of the main applications of this idea would be the infusion into our present social and industrial systems of a new spirit. Business is a fight. The sharpest and shrewdest man winning. Men no longer wage a physical warfare, but still despise; each other by sharp competitions, adulterations, manipulations of the stock market, and the necessities of life, and the many other contrivances of present economic methods. In the midst of a century unsurpassed for its practical philanthropy and Christian selflessness, business and industrial systems remain practically unchanged in their spirit. Beginning with the purchaser and running through the entire system of industrial distribution back to the producer, so Christian Socialism claims, the prevailing motive is self-interest. The motto: "Every man for himself." Whatever people may be in the ordinary affairs of life, in business as sharp shoppers, and shrewd dealers they must look out for number one. This selfish struggle by competitive methods for the lion share, fills our filthy cities with half starved sewing women, our stores with poorly paid help. The law of Christian love is submerged in the prevailing forces of selfishness. There are exceptions, but in the main business as a system, and industry as a system is founded in self interest, and carried on in the spirit of selfishness.

For this spirit of selfishness, Christian Socialism aims to substitute the spirit of Christian unselfishness. Business must be ruled by the ethics and spirit of Christ. Instead of the present swinish scramble of every man for himself, it pleads for the mutual and kindly consideration of each for the interests of all, and all for each. Instead of the motto: "Every man for himself," it would write over every doorway of business, above the desk of every employer of labor, and over the bench of every laborer, the well known motto of the Apostle, "For we are members one for another."

But Christian Socialism believes in external, as well as internal reforms. In social rearrangements, as well as in individual reformation.

It claims that our present competitive systems of business and industry, foster inevitably the spirit of self interest. Men do not but be strictly unselfish if they would. They must in business conform to present business methods or go out of business. Whatever a man might want to do, unless specially favored in his trade, he is not allowed to do in business as now organized and carried on.

Men must be strictly unselfish if they would. Hence Christian Socialism as soon and fast as practicable would change our competitive system into co-operative system, where instead of every man for himself it would be, each for all and all for each. Co-operation instead of individual competition is the change proposed by Christian Socialism in such ways as are practicable and as fast as possible. Hence it believes that many industries now carried on by individual competition for the benefit of the few, should be assumed by the State and carried on for the greatest benefit of all. Railroads, and telegraphs it would put at once under government control. It would tax land values instead of personal property. This assumption of certain forms of industry by the State, should be gradual. This change from competitive to co-operative systems should be brought about largely by the growth of the Christian spirit of Brotherhood. Christian Socialism in thus advocating co-operation instead of competition, falls in with a well known tendency of the times. All industry tends to co-operation. But its benefits are for the few. It should be co-operation, but democratic co-operation. Co-operation, as in the great trusts, is simply gigantic individualism, making itself more powerful by combinations. Socialism is not such a novelty. In a hundred ways we are already committed to the socialistic idea. Every enterprise, benevolent or economic, undertaken by the State, or by co-operation of individuals for the greatest benefit of the greatest number, is Socialism in its pure. Our postal system is purely socialistic. Our public school system is socialistic. Hospitals, asylums, our proposed postal telegraph are all socialistic. It is no longer Socialism, or no Socialism, it is merely a question of how far the socialistic idea shall, or can be profitably applied. This then is the general aim of Christian Socialism, a divine, democratic brotherhood, where the ethics and spirit of Christ shall prevail over the forces of self interest. This aim is to be realized by the reformation of the individual life, along the line of Christian teachers, and by social readjustments along the lines laid down by scientific Socialism.

S. C. Chickering & Co.

WAREHOUSES,

No. 158 Tremont Street.

It believes in the saying of Henry George, that, "The salvation of society, the hope of the free, full development of humanity, is in the gospel of Brotherhood, the gospel of Christ."

I Don't Want a Doctor!
I have tried them, and they have only swindled me. I have figured up what they cost me for the last four years, it was just $24.31. If I had it now it would be a fortune for me. This year my bill for medicine was only five dollars, while I purchased six bottles of Sulphur Bitters. They cured me of Scrofula after suffering four years.—P. J. Cummings, Troy, N. Y.

What Is The Use
Of buying worthless medicines, and spending money on quack doctors whose only idea is to gull the public. Is it not better to buy reliable medicine like Sulphur Bitters? I think so, as they cured me of Catarrh after suffering three years.—F. P. Clark, Manchester.

REGISTRARS OF VOTERS, 1890.

City Election, Dec. 2d, 1890.

REGISTRATION OF WOMEN.

Notice is hereby given to all persons to present themselves for registration and that the Registrars of Voters will hold sessions for the registration of voters, including women duly qualified, on the following dates and at the places herein named:

Newton Centre—Associates' Hall, Pleasant street, 3 to 5 o'clock, and from 7 to 8:30 o'clock, P. M., WEDNESDAY, NOV. 12.
At City Hall, from 2 to 5 o'clock, P. M., THURSDAY, NOV. 13; FRIDAY, NOV. 14; WEDNESDAY, NOV. 19; FRIDAY, NOV. 21; and SATURDAY, NOV. 22; from 9 A. M. to 12 M., from 2 to 5 o'clock, and 7:30 to 10 o'clock, P. M.

No name can be registered after 10 o'clock P. M., NOVEMBER 22.
All persons whose names are not on the Voting List must appear personally before the Registrars of Voters on either of the days above mentioned, presenting a receipted tax bill of 1889 or 1890.

If the father of an applicant was naturalized before he (the son) became 21 years of age, the son is naturalized thereby, and must present the father's naturalization papers.

The names of all persons not assessed in 1890 are taken from the voting lists, but such persons can be re-registered by applying in person to the Registrars at any session held for registering voters, and presenting a receipted tax bill for 1889, provided they are otherwise qualified.
Every male citizen of 21 years of age and upwards, who has resided in the State one year, and in the City of Newton six months prior to December 2, 1890, and who has paid a State or County tax assessed upon him either in 1889 or 1890, and who shall be able to read and write, shall have the right to vote at the City election to be held December second, eighteen hundred and ninety.

EXTRACT FROM STATUTES CONCERNING VOTING BY WOMEN, CHAP. 423, ACTS 1890.

SECTION 5. "Every woman who is a citizen of this Commonwealth, of twenty-one years of age and upwards (except paupers, persons under guardianship, and persons excluded by article twenty of the amendments to the constitution), who has resided within the state one year, and within the city or town in which she claims the right to vote, six months next preceding any election of school committee, and who has paid by herself, her parent, guardian or trustee, a state, county, city or town tax assessed upon her or her trustee in this State within two years next preceding such election, shall have a right to vote in all such elections, for members of school committees."

SECTION 15. Any woman who is a citizen of this Commonwealth, may, on or before the first day of October in any year, give notice in writing accompanied by satisfactory evidence, to the assessors of a city or town, that she was on the first day of May of that year an inhabitant thereof, and that she desires to pay a poll tax and to furnish under oath a true list of her estate, both real and personal, not exempt from taxation, and shall thereupon be assessed for her poll, not exceeding fifty cents, and for her estate, and the assessors shall, on or before the fifth day of October, return her name to the registrars of voters or board charged with the preparation of the list of voters of the city or town, and he shall collect and pay over the same in the manner specified in his warrant.

SECTION 37. The names of women may be placed upon a separate list; and when the name of any woman has been placed upon the list of voters of a city or town, it shall remain on the list as long as she continues to reside in such city or town and has paid any state, county, city or town tax that has been assessed on her or her trustee in this State within two years next preceding any election.

It is therefore necessary for each woman who desires to retain her name on the list, to inform the Registrars of Voters before the close of registration of her continued residence in this city, and if the taxes upon which her registration is based are paid in any other place in the State than Newton, her receipted tax bill must be shown to the Registrars.

HIBBARD VS. PETTEE.

The chief interest in this municipal campaign centers in these two men, as the rest of the tickets are mainly identical, and the contest promises to be fully as exciting as our municipal contests usually are.

The only thing that can be said against Mr. Hibbard is that he has not had experience in city affairs. But to a large portion of the voters of Newton, this is in the nature of a recommendation. We have gone on for years promoting members of the City Council to the mayorality, and many think that it is time to make a change in this policy, at least for one year, and select a new man, free from any party ties, from any obligations incurred during his stay in the City Council, free from any prejudices in favor of former methods, and see if the change will not be of benefit to the city.

We know how the old methods work, the same general policy is continued, the city government jogs along in the same old ruts, the expenses grow larger every year, until this year the estimates reach nearly three quarters of a million.

The tax-payers are asking why not make a change in our ancient methods, select a new man, as is done in other cities, and see what the result would be. The experiment is worth trying, and therefore Mr. Hibbard is the favorite of so many of those most interested in the prosperity of Newton. He is a practical business man, in the first place, who has made a brilliant success of his own business by hard work, forethought and the most untiring energy. Secondly, he is a man of ideas; he has followed the course of our city government carefully, and on city matters he is unusually well posted. He has travelled extensively, and has studied how other cities conduct their affairs; and lastly, he has a large stake in the city and is deeply interested as a large tax-payer, in having the city affairs wisely and economically conducted and the tax rate kept down to a reasonable figure.

When a man of Mr. Hibbard's character and attainments is willing to accept such a position, the city would make a great mistake if it did not avail itself of his services. If a large corporation could obtain the services of such a man for practically nothing, does any one think the directors of the corporation would hesitate for an instant, when there was nothing to lose and everything to gain. The experiment is worth trying certainly, and Newton, which has some of the smartest business men of Boston among its residents, ought to have the benefit of their services in its highest offices. Mr. Hibbard would enter upon the duties of this office free from obligations of any kind, and would be able to give a fair and impartial consideration to all questions that came before him.

Perhaps the greatest argument in favor of Mr. Hibbard is that he has not sought the nomination, has never asked a man for his support, and has resorted to none of the arts of the political "hustler." The nomination has been forced upon him by his fellow-citizens of all parties, who want to see such an upright and downright man at the head of city affairs.

THE ALDERMANIC TICKETS.

Both parties have placed their tickets in the field and the decks are being cleared for action. Each has a separate candidate for mayor, but for aldermen the Citizens have shown their non-partisanship by endorsing the Republican nominations in Wards One, Two, Three, Six and Seven. In regard to these men all seem to be agreed that they are the best available men to care for the interests of Newton.

In Ward Four the Citizens have nominated Councilman Crehore for alderman, and he has also a Republican endorsement in the shape of a renomination for the common council. That makes him a stronger candidate than Councilman Porter, who has only the Republican nomination for alderman, gained in a caucus which gave a large vote for Mr. Crehore for the same position, and many Republicans think Mr. Crehore was entitled to the office, both from his excellent record and his location in Lower Falls, which has never had an alderman.

In Ward Five the Republicans nominated Councilman Elliott J. Hyde, who has made such an acceptable president of the lower branch, and has fairly earned the promotion. Mr. Hyde is a good business man, is active, energetic, and understands city affairs. Dr. Thompson is an excellent man, and had been nominated for the common council we should have endorsed him. But if after faithful service in the lower branch a man is to be turned out without even a thank you, we shall soon have hard work in securing good men. Mr. Hyde is a man who is always found "under his own hat," and it is to be hoped he will be elected.

As the GRAPHIC is not an organ of any party it believes in endorsing the best men, whoever nominates them, and in recognizing faithful service, whether the service is done by Mugwumps, Democrats, Prohibitionists or Republicans, and although it is perfectly willing to give advice, it recommends all voters to have honest convictions and to follow them.

ECONOMY NECESSARY.

The Board of Aldermen succeeded in reducing the total of the appropriations by nearly $50,000, and it was only by the most careful study of the items that this was brought about. Perhaps, however, if they study further, they can put the pruning knife in a little deeper, for the total will make the tax rate over $15, and that will be unwise. The rate must be kept below $15, and we can better afford to go without many improvements than to drive people away by too high taxes. Let the people who are here, and who want so much done, have a little patience. Keep the tax rate down and the people with property will come to Newton, the valuation will be increased, and all these improvements will come about of themselves. A moderate amount can be done every year without raising the taxes, and this is the most judicious course to be followed if we wish Newton to prosper.

In the Austin street hearing, Mr. Powers hinted at the policy that should be followed in the street department, and that is to keep the main thoroughfares of the city in good condition and allow the side streets to wait. With well kept thoroughfares the wants of the greatest number will be met, and the interests of the city would not suffer.

The Common Council will have a chance to again wrestle with the appropriations next Monday evening, and as many of the members are candidates for re-election, their attitude will be watched with interest. They should find ways of cutting them down by some $25,000 more, if they are at all anxious to prove that they are the right men for the positions they hold.

A CORRESPONDENT who is evidently suffering from malaria, wants to know how the candidates stand on the sewerage question, and who of them think that Newton has population enough already, and who think that an increase is desirable. We cannot say in regard to this matter, but as Mr. Hibbard is building two new houses on the Silsby land, and contemplates building a half dozen more, we presume he is in favor of an increase of population, and especially of good-paying tenants who want all the modern improvements. Our correspondent is in error in speaking of the "deserted houses" of Newton, as he would discover if he tried to find a house to rent in Newton Corner. A hundred more houses could have been rented here this fall if that number had been built. But in regard to sewerage, no candidate should be elected who is not in favor of it as soon as possible, and Mr. Hibbard's position as an earnest advocate of sewerage is well known.

The Australian ballot was framed and passed to allow men to vote without fear of intimidation, and everything which interferes with this should be condemned. On this account we discredit a report that a paper is being circulated among city employees for their signatures, pledging themselves to vote for a candidate for mayor, with the intimation that if they do not, they may find themselves out of a job, as he is sure to be elected. We do not believe that any such work is being done by any party, and if it is, it should be fatal to the success of any party who employs it. The laborer has just as much right to cast his ballot freely and fearlessly as the millionaire, and the whole intent of the Australian ballot law is to prevent any intimidation at the polls, and it is such an excellent law that any attempt to frustrate it should be frowned upon. Men who are made to sign such a paper would be perfectly justified in repudiating any such agreement when they get into the polling booth.

The absurd charge is being circulated in some of the wards of the city that Mr. Hibbard is loaded up with real estate, and wants to be mayor so as to get his property developed. The absurdity of the charge makes it unnecessary to answer it, but lest the unthinking may be deceived, it can be said that Mr. Hibbard's property is on developed streets, and no action of the city council would benefit him. Besides, Mr. Hibbard is not that kind of a man. His character is too straightforward to make it possible for him to work in any such devious manner, as all men who know him can testify.

REV. R. A. WHITE of Newtonville preached last Sunday a very interesting sermon on "Christian Socialism," an abstract of which is given on another page, and will be found to be worth reading by all who are interested in the elevation of humanity. Competition as now developed in business, is pure selfishness, and the motto in too many cases is "every man for himself" while the most selfishly conducted business stands the best chance of succeeding. In Christian Socialism the remedy for this is co-operation, where all work for each, and each works for all, and the introduction of such a system. Mr. White shows to be merely a carrying out of the principles of the Christian religion. Socialism in such a guise has a very attractive appearance.

If the committee who are investigating the Gamewell police signal system would also look up the sources of the complaints, they will add to the interest of their report. The GRAPHIC was approached some weeks ago and told that it could make a nice thing by "showing up the Gamewell system," but we declined, and the writer of the article in the Journal is said to be in the pay of a rival company. Electrical apparatus needs to be carefully looked after, as all know from their experience with telephones.

A LETTER in another column from Alderman Pettee, effectually disproves the charge that Mr. Pettee was induced to stand for Mayor because Councilman Hyde wanted the position of alderman. Mr. Pettee puts the case very plainly and relieves Mr. Hyde from this unjust charge. Mr. Pettee had refused to accept a nomination, and it was only natural, therefore, for the voters of Ward Five to put in his place a gentleman who had served the ward and the city so faithfully in the lower branch as Mr. Hyde has done.

A WRITER in the Saturday Evening Gazette claims that "Walter Besant" whose novels are so popular, is no other than Rev. Edward Everett Hale, and presents some strong arguments in support of the claim. It is asked what Dr. Hale has done with Besant's partner, Rice, whose name used to appear on the books, but who has mysteriously disappeared.

An Auburndale Republican has a letter on another page, endorsing Councilman Crehore for Alderman and saying that as Lower Falls has never had an alderman, it is time that Auburndale was disposed to be fair in the division of the honors. All that our correspondent says in favor of Mr. Crehore will be endorsed by every member of the city government.

Obituary.

In the last issue of the GRAPHIC there appeared a brief notice of the funeral services of Mrs. Kate Frelsen Page, wife of Mr. Edward Page of Newtonville. The departure from us of one whose life was so unselfish and useful deserves a more extended notice. She was born in Copenhagen, Louisiana, Jan. 12th, 1841. Her early life was spent in New Orleans. After her mother's death, she was sent to New York to be educated. She became the wife of Mr. Page in Paris in 1864. The first eleven years of her married life were spent in New Orleans, and the last fifteen years in Newtonville. Mrs. Page's kindly spirit and unflinching cheerfulness won her many friends, while her noble qualities as wife and mother compelled the admiration of all who knew her.

Her special sphere of influence was her own home where she became the center of a devoted circle whose desolation today without her is almost indescribable, while it attests most forcibly how much she was to each one of that now broken circle. She tried to make herself a true wife and mother and those who knew her best know how well she succeeded. As a member of the Grace church she took the deepest interest in the success of that parish, and delighted to be in her place whenever it was possible—at the public services.

Her death, notwithstanding the premonitory symptoms of a year or two ago, was after all a shock to the many friends who hoped she might be among them again in her accustomed cheerful health.

It is hard to realize that this generous, sunny spirit has gone away from those who so greatly loved her and who needed her so sorely, but we have the assurance that although she is no longer with them she still lives. She has entered upon her true life in the Paradise of God.

IN MEMORIAM.

"Forded the River"—Sunday afternoon, Nov. 9th, Mrs. Edward Page (nee Kate Frelsen), formerly of New Orleans. We meet now and then marked characters—such was Mrs. Page. Reared in luxury there was no compromise of principle or superiority over those less fortunate. Of exquisite taste—utilized to make "home" attractive to husband, children and friends—sadly will she be missed as wife, mother, friend, always giving to the worthy poor in gifts and words of good cheer. These lines are by one to whom she was a true friend in trouble and adversity.

Father Ignatius this Evening.

The regular Friday evening meeting of Eliot church will be held tonight, Nov. 21st, in the main auditorium, and Rev. Joseph C. Lyne of the Church of England, will preach the gospel, as it is commonly believed by all evangelical churches, without union to any controversial questions. The collection will be applied exclusively to the rent of halls for his services in Boston. A cordial invitation is extended to all who desire to hear him. The service will begin promptly at 7:30 with the hymn, "When I survey the wondrous cross."

An Important Correction.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC: In my letter to the GRAPHIC last week about the Hospital, the types made me say that we might easily raise $500 next Sunday. I certainly intended to say $5000. I wish our task were to raise only $500, but it is ten times that amount. The Hospital needs it, and should have it. 20,000 generous people who have pride in an institution that reflects such credit on their city should not hesitate about giving even a great deal more than $5000. The Cottage Hospital.

It would be very strange if any one in Newton did not know when Hospital Sunday comes this year for the most active efforts have been made to bring the date, Nov. 23, to everybody's notice. What is to be feared, however, is that some who know the time, may not understand that their help is needed. People have a way of turning things over to others, and concluding that somehow or other there will be money enough. The right plan is to do the best each one can. If the people of Newton will all take hold and do their best for the Hospital there will be a good sum in the treasury after the 23rd.

Negro and Indian Education.

Following is the program of the meeting to be held at Eliot chapel, Monday evening, Dec. 1, at 7:30, in behalf of negro and Indian education: Slave songs of the South, Hampton Quartet; What We are Doing and Thinking, Robert E. Morton, class of '90; Life on the Reservation, Placidus High Eagle, Sioux student from Dakota; Looking Backward and Forward, W. H. Dagges, class of '78; Help us to Help Ourselves, John Block, Cheyenne student from Indian Territory; remarks by Gen. S. C. Armstrong, Rev. H. B. Frisvold, and the importance of the cause is such that it is hoped all interested will be present to learn something of this important work.

STANDARD CLOTHING COMPANY.

WHAT JIM TARBOX SAYS!

THE KING OF FRIEZE.

FOR DRIVERS AND OTHERS.

Warranted strictly all wool, and snow and water-proof.

The Best Ulster ever made for $12.

THE STANDARD CLOTHING CO., 395 Washington Street, Boston.

To Whom it May Concern:

In February, 1889, the STANDARD CLOTHING Company sent me a Dark Oxford Mix Frieze Ulster, which they called their "King of Friezes," with the request to give it the hardest possible wear during the balance of the winter. Although there was no snow of any amount, it was a very wet season, and I wore the coat daily in my business, and found it exactly as they represented, impervious to water and snow. I have the ulster in use now, and can confidently recommend it as the most desirable, strongest, warmest ulster that I have ever owned.

The price of this "King of Friezes," $12, brings it within the reach of every hack driver, herdick driver, car driver, or any one whose business is out of doors, and who needs a coat that will shed water or snow.

JAMES M. TARBOX, Superintendent Herdic-Phaeton Co.

A Long-Felt Want Supplied.

A Warm, Durable, All-Wool, Water and Snow-proof Ulster, at the moderate price of $12.00.

The KING OF FRIEZE.

The President of our Company—an expert in woollens—has been two years perfecting a fabric that would be impervious to snow and rain, and yet that could be sold at a moderate price. In the "King of Frieze" a perfect success has been attained.

STANDARD CLOTHING CO., 395 Washington St.

Overcoats, Ulsters and Cape Coats.

We have manufactured and placed upon our tables for the coming season, the largest and most complete stock of Overcoats ever shown in this country, and at the Lowest Prices ever named for Reliable Goods. We say this boldly for it is the simple truth. We name a few of the Special Bargains:

West of England Kerseys, in blue, black and brown—all colors warranted fast—for $15; worth $22.

Fine Oxford Kersey, $15.00; worth $20.00.

Drab wide wale Kersey, $15.00; worth $22.00.

Elysians, in Indigo blue and fast black, for $15.00; worth $20.00.

Black and blue Moscow Beavers, all wool, $10.00; worth $15.00.

Also Kerseys, Meltons, Chinchillas, Elysians, Montagnacs and Scotchies, all tailor-made, and trimmed equal to the best custom work, for $20.00, $22.00, $25.00, $28.00, $30.00.

Ulsters, in all grades fabrics and prices, from the durable weaves for $8.50 up through all grades to the natty swell garment for $30.00.

BOYS AND CHILDREN.

In Boys' and Children's we have a bewildering array of Bargains. Special bargain No. 1. 1000 Boys' Suits, all wool double and twist cloth, age 4 to 14 years, for $3.50 per suit; reduced from $6 and $5. One of our greatest bargains. Special bargain No. 2. 1000 Boys' Suits, fancy Scotchies and Chevots, carried from last season, for $6.50; reduced from $12 and $10. Come quick if you want one. Special bargain No. 3. 500 Plaid and Scotch Mixed Cape Overcoats for Boys, age 4 to 14 years, for $5.00; reduced from $7.50. Make no mistake—you will never buy this garment so cheap again.

In conclusion, the STANDARD announces that it intends to make this a phenomenal Bargain Season, and to that end it has named prices never approached in the history of the trade. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

—Mr. R. D. Hall has rented a new house on Clyde street.

—Mr. Sanderson and family have rented the Pulisier house on Murray street.
—Miss Addie Brooks will have charge of Mr. Carr's new store in Associates' Block.

—Mr. C. E. Adams and family of Grove Hill, have removed to their winter residence in Boston.

—Mr. Alexander Chisholm is out again, having nearly recovered from the effects of his recent accident.

—Quite a number of Newtonville ladies and gentlemen attended the bowling match at the Woodland Park Hotel, Wednesday evening.

—The Warren Club met on Wednesday evening with Miss Susie Bigelow as waiter, where a rehearsal of the play the club has in hand took place.

—The social in the Congregational church, Tuesday evening, was a very pleasant affair, a supper being among agreeable features. It was largely attended.

—Mrs. Kateannett Wells gave a very interesting lecture before the Guild on the "History of the Red Cross Work," a report of which will be given next week.

—The Newton Club bowlers were defeated by the Woodland Park Wednesday evening. The former team can hustle, however, and it has a clear eye fixed on the championship.

—At the last meeting of Norumbega tribe, Red Men, a committee was appointed to see about having a fair, and it was decided to have one beginning Feb. 23 and last three days.

—Mr. J. W. Stover was in town last week. Among his selections at the Art exhibition were "Pearl Lake," "Evening on the Charles," "Echo Lake," and "A Gray Day at the Shore."

—The Ladies' West Newton Auxiliary Club have the pleasure of announcing to those interested that Rev. Edward Everett Hale will read for them on Dec. 2nd, his famous story "My Double and How He Undid Me."

—The next meeting of the Woman's Guild will be held, Dec. 2nd, when Mrs. Thorpe of Newton Centre will describe her work in correcting defective speech, and the talk will be interspersed with readings by Mrs. Thorpe.

—Representatives of the Citizens' movement give Mr. Hubbard a plurality of 100 in this ward. The Republicans claim the ward for Alderman Pettie. The vote will be neither side feel very sure, and figures quoted may be regarded as figurative.

—The next lecture in the Read fund course will treat of the Telephone, especially the Long Distance Telephone, wires will run direct to Eliot hall from Albany, New York, Baltimore, and other distant places. Speech, music, etc., will be heard by the whole audience.

—A special meeting of the Newton Club will be held at the club house on Saturday, the 29th inst., at eight o'clock p. m., for the following purposes: To hear the report of the committee appointed at the last meeting to nominate a building committee, and take action thereon; to transact any other business that may legally come before the meeting.

—Services at the Universalist church as usual next Sunday morning at 10.45. The pastor will preach, subject, "Religious Education." The evening service will be a union Thanksgiving service. The pastors are led to believe that a service on Sunday evening would be preferable to the usual sparsely attended week day meeting. Services begin promptly at 7.30.

—Charles H. Ward post 62 was inspected last evening by Past Commander J. Payson Bradley of post 2, South Boston, and entertained two delegations from post 186, Cambridgeport and post 2, South Boston. After the inspection the comrades adjourned to the banquet hall, where an excellent collation was partaken of, followed by the usual after-dinner remarks.

—Rev. D. H. Taylor will give three lectures under the auspices of the Howe Y. M. C. E., at the Central Congregational church, for the benefit of the building fund. The tickets are fifty cents for the lecture, and 25 cents for single lectures. The dates are Nov. 26, "Over the Top," Dec. 3, "In and About London," Dec. 17, "From Bethlehem to Bethany." The lectures will be illustrated by the stereopticon.

—The exhibition of water colors in Tremont hall last week was a decided success. The hall was decorated with palms and chrysanthemums, and there was a graceful arrangement of sketches upon easels, besides those upon the walls. A large number of Newton people attended, and the friends from a distance. The number of pictures sold was very gratifying, and Mr. Chaloner is warmly congratulated upon inaugurating a new feature of interest in the Newtons.

—The annual fair of the Universalist society, to be held Dec. 1st to 3rd inclusive, was one of the principal topics of discussion at a meeting held at the house of Rev. R. A. White, last Monday evening. The committee having the fair in charge are very hopeful in regard to its efforts to make this one of the best and most successful fairs the society has ever held. The prospects are that the sum of one thousand dollars will be raised, for which the auxiliary societies of the church stand pledged. The committee hold its final meeting in the Ladies' Parlor next Monday evening.

—The Goddard Literary Union met in the Universalist parlors on Tuesday evening, and at the business meeting before the program the following committees were appointed for the public Goddards for the winter: Mr. N. Boyden, Mr. H. D. Kingsbury and Mr. Bradshaw, have in charge of "A Mock Trial" for January. For an evening with Will Carleton in February, Mr. W. L. Chaloner, Mrs. J. L. Richards and Mrs. B. S. Grant. In March, Mrs. E. N. Boyden and Mrs. G. N. Pope have the care of a drama for March. Thus the work for each month will be well in hand with ample time for happy results. A very pleasing program was then given, the participants deserving special thanks as it was expected until Monday that Rev. Dr. Rexford would lecture on "Literature and Life," and the hasty change of base and the pleasant outcome only proves the ability and versatility of the Goddard. Program, song, Miss Emma Sibley; reading, Mr. E. Bradshaw, Co. H., 39th Regiment, full of genuine wit and clean fun as Bradshaw always is; piano solo, Miss Holt; reading, Mr. H. P. Dearborn, Tennyson's "Dora," with that appreciation of character and sentiment, for which Mr. Dearborn is so well known; vocal solo, Miss Metcalf; talk on the Adirondacks, Mr. J. L. Richards, a graphic description of life in the woods, with its varied methods of camping, its deer, its balsam and pine, and its exciting deer hunts; piano duet, Mrs. W. H. Kimball and Mrs. J. L. Richards; recitation, Miss Maud Lewis, "The Minuet." Miss Lewis' witchery and grace were more apparent as she described the long stately dance and dignity of movement and manner belonging to grandma's young days.

—The Kroeger & Sons pianos, of New York, have always received from artists and connoisseurs instantaneous acceptance and indorsement. They not only possess a wonderful singing quality of tone and perfect action, but they have also that inexpressible something which delights the performer as well as the listener, and can only be found in instruments of the very highest grade. Mr. Henry Kroeger's long experience as superintendent of Steinway & Son's factory and his years of study of acoustic vibrations enable him to produce an instrument as perfect in every detail as any that has yet been manufactured. The Geo. W. Beardsley Piano Company, 176 Tremont street, Tremont Theatre building, are the selling agents in Boston for these instruments.

—Souls & Nichols are about to commence work on a house on Prince street, for Bertha Hutchins of Somerville.

—A foot ball game will take place on the old common, Thanksgiving morning, between the up and down town boys.

—The Newell Y. P. S. C. E. gave an entertainment in the chapel of the Second Congregational church last evening.

—Mr. E. Soules of Margin street has moved from this village and is now occupying a house on Richardson street, Newton.

—Rev. E. E. Hale of Boston will early in December read one of his stories before the Ladies' Auxiliary Society of the Unitarian church.

—Frank A. Mallon of this village will take a prominent part in an entertainment to be given at Upper Falls early next month.

—The electric light which was suspended over Washington street at the railroad crossing, has been put on a pole near the same place.

—A lady will be at the City Hall on Saturday afternoon to wait upon any who would wish her services in the matter of registration.

—At the meeting of branch 426 carpenters Union in Good Templars Hall, Tuesday evening, several applications for membership were received.

—Many from this village attended the lecture given by H. M. Stanley, the famous African explorer on "The Relief of Emin Pasha," at Music Hall, Boston, Tuesday evening.

—At the meeting of the Veteran Fireman's Association in the court room last Friday evening, new uniforms were adopted, consisting of a regulation cap, red shirts and black belts, with Roman letters.

—Officer Ryan has a specimen of a cotton plant in full bloom, which was sent to him from Memphis, Tenn., and which is on exhibition at the police station. He has also a fine specimen of the cotton plant which was sent to him by Mrs. Custer.

—A reading will be given by Dr. Edward Everett Hale on "My Double and How He Undid Me," on the afternoon of Tuesday, December 2nd, at 3 o'clock, in the Unitarian church parlor, under the auspices of the Women's Association.

—The Christmas sale and supper at Nickerson's Hall, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 3 and 4, promises to be very attractive, and gives a good opportunity to gather together some gifts to present our friends in the coming happy Christmas tide. Every child young or old, can put in his thumb and pull out a plum, from the big plum pudding. It is hoped that a liberal patronage will be accorded, as the ladies will do their best to please the public, and the proceeds of the sale will be wisely and benevolently bestowed.

—Considerable excitement was caused Saturday evening at about 7 o'clock, when one of the telephone wires crossing Washington street near the intersection of Chestnut street, sagged and bore down the guard wires over the trolley of the Newton Electric Street Railway until it burnt off. This let the telephone wire on to the trolley wire, and the electricity flashed along the wire, burning out Mr. F. M. Dutton's telephone in his provision store, and several coils in the Central office in Nickerson's block. The electricians were delayed for some little time. The damage in the Central office did not interfere with the service, fortunately.

—Allen defeated the Lynns in a foot ball game, Wednesday afternoon, in two halves of 20 minutes and 10 minutes, by a score of 16-0. Allen played his best blocking game of the season, and played with more vim than usual. In the first half Lynn had the lead and started with the wedge, gaining considerable ground, and soon was well on to Allen on four downs, and the ball was advanced rapidly by the backs to the 25 yard line, where Eddy took the ball and by a long run secured the first touch down for Allen, no goal, score 4-0. Healy made a good rush of 20 yards, but Allen again got the ball on four downs, and Duane made a touch down. Knight kicked the goal and the score stood 10-0. Time was called before Lynn could gain any ground. The last half lasted only 10 minutes. Lomax rushed the ball from the middle of the field for a touch down. Knight kicked the goal. No more scoring was done so the score stood 16-0 in favor of Allen. The teams were about the same weight. Most of the Lynns are Harvard men.

—An entertainment under the Woman's Educational Club, in the interests of the Tuskegee Normal school, was given in the parlors of the Unitarian church, Saturday evening, and attracted a large and notable gathering of ladies and gentlemen interested in progressive educational work. The program, so far as the entertainment features were concerned, consisted of selections by a quartet of Tuskegee students, the native plantation melodies being finely rendered. The formal exercises were preceded by prayer by Rev. J. C. Jaynes, followed by singing and the customary speech making. Mr. Cullen Jenkins, a graduate of the Tuskegee school, gave his experiences as a teacher in the south. Mr. Booker T. Washington, principal of the Tuskegee school, outlined in an eloquent address its present needs; also discussing at some length the relation between the colored and white people of the south. He said that the colored people must make themselves independent through study and industry, and that the race problem could only be solved by education. Rev. H. J. Patrick and Mr. E. B. Haskell agreed with Principal Washington's views relative to the race problem, and the latter gentleman stated that he would in the future support a scholarship in the Tuskegee school. The meeting was a social and financial success and closed with singing by the quartet.

—The case against Mrs. Seth Davis to recover balance of a note given by the late Seth Davis to Silas Stone 29 years ago, has been decided in favor of the plaintiffs, Mrs. Sally Stone and Julius L. Clarke. The defendant claimed that the note had been paid and took exceptions to recent indorsements. In a diary of the late Seth Davis an entry was made in effect that some years ago a note had been paid to Silas Stone. In the inventory of the late Silas Stone's estate no reference is made to the claim against Mrs. Davis by virtue of a note. There was no positive evidence, however, to show that the note had been paid, and its possession by Mrs. Stone was held by the court to be good evidence that the claim had not been discharged. A witness, summoned by the plaintiffs, made a statement in court to the effect that Mr. Davis in his later days had been hard pushed for money, and that he was unable to pay his taxes. The city treasurer, however, said that Mr. Davis always paid his taxes, and that in the last years of his life he generally paid up promptly, being only once during that time three months behind. The indorsement that he did not pay his taxes and general bills is not based upon facts, and is an unwarranted reflection upon the integrity of a man who was, at least, an honest and respected citizen.

—Don't you need something for the Dining Room before Thanksgiving? How about our new Dinner Table? This is the best time to buy, as great bargains are offered in Dining Room furniture for the next ten days, at Palmer's Furniture Warerooms, 48 Canal street, Boston.

—The Kroeger Piano is the result of a lifetime of thorough experience in scientific piano construction, and this instrument has been brought to the present state of perfection by constant endeavor, combined with great skill.

—The annual meeting of the Congregational church was held Tuesday evening, when the usual elections took place. It was voted to change the order of Sunday service by having prayer instead of a hymn following the sermon, as was the former order of service.

—The marriage of Miss Isabel Procter Miller, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Miller of Wellesley Hills, and Mr. A. Lincoln Fowle, son of ex-Mayor Fowle of this city, took place at the church of the Advent, Boston, Wednesday, the ceremony being performed before the chapel altar at high noon by Rev. William B. Frisby, rector of the church, in the presence of the immediate families of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Fowle, held a very delightful reception from 1 till 3 o'clock at the Victoria. TWO SCHEMERS.

"Oh, what a tangled web we weave
When first we practice to deceive."

The Widow Smith sat up late, reading the county paper; usually the Weekly Budget did not interest her, but on this occasion she read and re-read a certain part of its columns and laid it down at last with a sigh.

"Wants a wife, does he? she mused aloud; 'tired of living alone. It's a peach chance for some one to get a good husband if he's what he advertises.'"

Then she resumed the paper and studied it carefully.

"A good provider. That's the pint. 'Middle-aged and well-to-do.' Laws! if it wasn't for the—"

The widow stopped abruptly, and looked around with a startled expression.

"It must have been the cat," she said to herself. "I'm as nervous as a mouse. I'm sure there ain't any harm in it. I dare say he'll be glad if when he finds out. If he hadn't been so particular that he wanted a widow without any—"

Then she broke off abruptly and sat thinking.

"I've heard tell," she mused, "that a man who amounted to anything wouldn't have to advertise for a wife. 'All alone in the world.' Poor man! I feel uncommonly drawn toward him. 'Likes peace and quiet.' So do I. We're of a mind there. 'I'd answer if it wasn't for the—'"

The clock striking startled her. After a long fit of thinking she went to the clock shelf and took down a pen and a bottle of ink; then she looked in the family Bible and found some writing paper.

It took the Widow Smith a long time to compose that letter. When she finally had it to her mind, she copied it, after which she read it a great many times.

"I hope I haven't done wrong," she said to her conscience. "But I can almost see the hand of Providence pitting the way. 'A widower an' well-to-do, alone in the world.' It would be almost wicked not to try."

Then she wound up the clock, put the cat out, and was soon dreaming of a new admirer.

Joshua Brown, a comfortable farmer, who lived in the next township, was the man whose advertisement for a wife had enlisted the sympathy of the Widow Smith. He had been in the lonely and forlorn state of a widower about a year, and was tired of a single life. He cast his eye, figuratively speaking, upon all the widows in the neighborhood, but they found no favor in his sight; so he advertised in the Weekly Budget and had half a bushel of letters in answer to his demand. All the letters had some attractions, but there was only one that seemed to fulfill his expectations. It was a tiny little missive and signed "Widow Smith."

"She don't hum and haw an' beat round the bush, but comes right to the point like a man," he said to himself. So he wrote to her, and in due time a letter came. It pleased him more than the first.

"She's Mrs. Brown, No. 2," he chuckled. "She says she's small—I like little women—has a farm an' a good house, an' of course is all alone in the world or she wouldn't have answered at all. Says her friends call her a good housekeeper. She's a master hand to write—begins every word with a capital letter and she appointed a meeting at Gabriel Simpson's. She's I've known Gabe since we was boys together. I wonder if he'll help me out about this—"

The good man choked abruptly, and seemed flurried.

"She won't mind arter we're joined. I'll appoint it Thursday. I'll meet Friday an' lucky, and Saturday's too near Sunday. I'll tell Simpson to keep dark till I come there. Wonder if the widder is good lookin'. Wonder if she'll be disappointed."

The widow was the first at Simpson's, and held his best ear for a private audience.

Then she was all smiles, talking over pickling and preserving recipes with Mrs. Simpson, who was an old acquaintance. When Joshua Brown drove up with his span of grays, best Sunday coat on, best foot foremost, the widow was observing him from behind the curtains of the sitting-room window.

"We-e-l!" she said with a long breath, "he ain't to say han'um. He's a leetle bow-legged an' has a cast in one eye. I dunno as I'd have him if it wasn't for the—"

Before she had finished Mr. Simpson was presenting Mr. Brown, and then all hands sat down to a "biled" dinner.

"I like good vittles," said the widow with a knowing glance at his vis-avis, the widow, and he passed his plate for the third time.

"So do I," responded the lady with a vivid blush. "Mr. Smith used to say he couldn't bear to eat away from home, 'cause he had such good meals.'"

Mr. Brown beamed at her.

After dinner he took Mr. Simpson to one side. "Pretty as a picture an' plump as a partridge; looks like she could keep house for me and the—ugh! ugh! ugh!"

A severe fit of coughing interrupted Mr. Brown's recital. Simpson smiled knowingly.

"You're in luck if you get the widder," he said. "But I can't say it's quite fair not to tell her about the—"

"H-u-s-h!" whispered Brown, nervously. "It'll be all right. I'll make her a good husband and she won't mind the—"

Another fit of coughing, which nearly strangled the good man, nipped his discourse in the bud.

"I say, Simpson," he enquired, presently, "has the widow any—"

"None in the land of the living," interrupted Mr. Simpson, hurriedly.

Mr. Brown rubbed his hands with satisfaction. Then the two joined the ladies, and the courtship proceeded with such alacrity that the day was set, and as a neutral ground, Simpson's house was tendered for the occasion.

But Mr. Brown visited the widow at her lonely house several times, and the widow in company with Mrs. Simpson spent a day at the Brown homestead and was much impressed with its "peace and quiet." She whispered to Mrs. Simpson:

"I'm so thankful I am going to marry into a family where there ain't any—"

"H-u-s-h!" he looking at us," cautioned her friend.

Then both ladies laughed heartily, as if they knew something that pleased them immensely.

While Mr. Brown was showing off his roomy house he hazarded a remark—

"It's kind of lonesome in a house where there are nobody but grown ups. I believe you told me you hadn't any—"

"They are in the graveyard! Every one of 'em, poor things!" sobbed the widow, with the handkerchief to her eyes.

It took some time for Mr. Brown to undo the mischief. He was compelled to support the clinging form and dry the tears which had drawn forth by his careless remark.

"She's a tender-hearted little thing!" he said to Simpson; "she'll come around all right when she sees the—"

Here he sneezed.

"You old fraud!" thought Simpson. But he only said, politely, "Of course she will."

They were married quietly, only the immediate friends of the family being present at the ceremony, and they went to a town, where nobody knew them, and spent their honeymoon prowling around in each other's company, and were as soon as old folks in the usual way.

Not that either of them was old. No, indeed.

When they went back they first located at the Brown homestead. As they couldn't live in two places at once, the widow had decided to sell and invest her money in more land in the next township.

Not a new home, a plan highly approved by her new partner.

The first cloud on the horizon of their new lives appeared when they reached home. It was no larger than a man's hand—or a boy's hand—in fact, but it was just the shape it took on the white walls.

Mr. Brown looked frightened; but he asked boldly: "My dear, don't you think it's kinder lonesome in here where there isn't any—"

A curious interruption happened. A troop of half-grown boys rushed in at that moment to welcome the bride. They did not go through the ceremony of the wedding, but seemed very much at home.

They could have sung, "We are seven," exactly as to numbers.

"Who are they?" gasped the new Mrs. Brown.

"I—I don't know," faltered Mr. Brown, his legs shaking like castanets.

"Run home, boys, run home," he called.

"Where'll we go, pa?" inquired the youngest, a cherub of five.

"Oh," gasped the bride faintly. "I thought you wanted a quiet home! I have been basely deceived! You said you hadn't any—"

Boys, don't make any noise," asserted Mr. Brown. "An' I thought, as long as you hadn't any—"

"Oh, good heavens! Who are they? What do you want?"

"We've come, ma! We're all here!" shouted a chorus of voices as a whole schoolful of girls rushed in; "pleased to introduce us to our new pa."

But "new pa" had fainted, and hung limp and speechless over the arm of a chair.

The noise brought him to. He asked if the earthquake had done much damage, and seemed in a dazed condition for some time. Indeed, the shock of finding himself the pivot-point of seven daughters was too much.

When Simpson had been sent for all were present, Mr. Brown looked feebly at his distressed wife, and said:

"You told me you hadn't any—"

"No, dear. I said they were all in the graveyard. So they were, boarding with the seven. They are real sweet girls, seven of them. You must love them for my sake."

"Seven and seven makes fourteen," figured the eldest male cherubim. "It's a good thing the house is large enough to hold us all."

A heave of sighs was patched up—several pecks, in fact, and after awhile the new couple found that what can't be cured must be endured.

Mr. Brown took the longest to come around, but when he did he gave in fully. In a moment of confidence his wife told him that she knew beforehand all about the boys, and had taken her own cue from that bit of design.

Mrs. Simpson had told her.

"Just like a woman—never can keep a secret," said Mr. Brown, severely.

"Oh, no, dear!" answered his wife, "because, though she told me all about your little scheme, she never said a word about this—"

And Mr. Brown was obliged to admit that he was fairly beaten at his own little game.

THE CONGREGATIONAL CLUB.

THE LATTY ABLY DISCUSS THE PRAYER MEETING.

The November meeting of the Newton Congregational Club was held in the chapel of the West Newton Congregational church, Monday evening.

Following the collation, prayer was offered by Rev. D. M. Taylor of Newtonville.

Seven names for members were reported by the nominating committee, and the outlook committee reported that the church in Auburndale had recently observed its fortieth anniversary.

Forty years ago it was organized with thirty-four members. Last Friday a social hour was spent, followed by a supper and a roll call, to which 197 responded, and letters were received from absent members in India, Africa, Turkey, and other places.

A very interesting historical paper was read by the pastor, with addresses by Revs. Dr. Clark, Strong and others. The North Village church observed the sixth anniversary of Rev. Mr. Lomb's coming among them, which was a very enjoyable occasion.

Rev. Mr. Lomb thought one of the most satisfactory results which had been attained was that they had developed a permanency of membership in church and congregation. One of the greatest troubles in the work there had been the constantly changing nature of the population. The growth in spirituality was also very marked.

The topic, "The weekly prayer meeting," was then considered from five points by as many laymen, as follows:

Duty as to attendance, by Mr. Austin G. Sherman of the Central church. It was a duty to attend the prayer meeting because it was an ordinance of the church; it was the place to come into communion with God, where He abides and His presence is peculiarly felt; we get acquainted with each other, know each other by the working of the mind in the relation of experiences and of communion with God. Mere attendance is not all. Religion is more than mere form. The form is only a help to better living.

Leadership was discussed by Mr. A. L. Harwood of Newton Centre. The prayer meeting should be directed in the work there had been the constantly changing nature of the population. The growth in spirituality was also very marked.

Call the younger members of the church into work, they will be strengthened in so doing. It is a blessing to give work to as many in the church as possible.

Who should take part in the meeting was assigned to Mr. F. W. Gaffield of Eliot church. All should cultivate the habit of taking part. The young should be encouraged to take part. Women should take part. Many times they have shown a peculiar aptness in taking part in such service.

Subject and preparation brought out Hon. J. F. C. Hyde of the Highlands church, who thought there were advantages in having the subject known beforehand, that the brethren should study the subject, whether they go or not.

There is no more profitable meeting for the Christian, except the Lord's supper, than the prayer meeting.

The aim of the prayer meeting was assigned to Mr. Putnam of the West Newton church. Its aim is the conversion of sinners, a place where the pastor can speak more familiarly than at any other service, a place for the relation of experience, not those made to order, but the "victorious" battling with sin.

It should be made a harvest field. The gospel is preached powerfully by song in the prayer meeting. The prayer meeting has been compared to the middle pier of a bridge, necessary between the Sabbath, to a thermometer which registers the spiritual condition of the church.

Remarks were made by Rev. Mr. Lamb, Rev. Mr. Patrick, Rev. Mr. C. R. Rev. Mr. Phipps and Mr. G. D. Gilman.

Republican Deserters and Incorrigibles.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

Pardon me for trespassing further upon your space, but a few words in reply to my ex-Republican friend. In the first place I wish to say that I did not use the word "deserter" in any opprobrious sense, and if my friend is sincere in his arraignment of the Republican party I should think he would have considered it a compliment. I used the term Mugwumps, not in contempt, but because it is the name by which a certain class of voters are known. They cannot honestly be called "Independents," for most of them have already become the bitterest and blindest of partisans. I have many personal friends among the Mugwumps, men whom I respect for their sterling traits and character. I cannot, however, commend their political judgment.

As to the "Infamous Force Bill," as my friend calls it, he will find my utterance a prophesy not a threat. His adopted party is maintaining its power in the South, and in Congress, by intimidation, fraud and murder. This is no mere statement of mine, the proofs are at hand.

The Force bill may not be the best way to handle the evil, but some remedy must be found. The fundamental principles which underlie our form of government cannot be trampled upon, and openly defied, with impunity. I ask my friend why force should not be applied to a political criminal as well as to any other, even if he be a Democrat?

This great question cannot be so flippantly dismissed as our Democratic friends would like, and my friend's statement uttered with such amusing confidence, that "Dr. Wm. Everett has settled that question," only shows how narrow is his view of the subject.

They are real sweet girls, seven of them. You must love them for my sake.

"Seven and seven makes fourteen," figured the eldest male cherubim. "It's a good thing the house is large enough to hold us all."

A heave of sighs was patched up—several pecks, in fact, and after awhile the new couple found that what can't be cured must be endured.

Mr. Brown took the longest to come around, but when he did he gave in fully. In a moment of confidence his wife told him that she knew beforehand all about the boys, and had taken her own cue from that bit of design.

Mrs. Simpson had told her.

"Just like a woman—never can keep a secret," said Mr. Brown, severely.

"Oh, no, dear!" answered his wife, "because, though she told me all about your little scheme, she never said a word about this—"

And Mr. Brown was obliged to admit that he was fairly beaten at his own little game.

THE CONGREGATIONAL CLUB.

THE LATTY ABLY DISCUSS THE PRAYER MEETING.

The November meeting of the Newton Congregational Club was held in the chapel of the West Newton Congregational church, Monday evening.

Following the collation, prayer was offered by Rev. D. M. Taylor of Newtonville.

Seven names for members were reported by the nominating committee, and the outlook committee reported that the church in Auburndale had recently observed its fortieth anniversary.

Forty years ago it was organized with thirty-four members. Last Friday a social hour was spent, followed by a supper and a roll call, to which 197 responded, and letters were received from absent members in India, Africa, Turkey, and other places.

A very interesting historical paper was read by the pastor, with addresses by Revs. Dr. Clark, Strong and others. The North Village church observed the sixth anniversary of Rev. Mr. Lomb's coming among them, which was a very enjoyable occasion.

Rev. Mr. Lomb thought one of the most satisfactory results which had been attained was that they had developed a permanency of membership in church and congregation. One of the greatest troubles in the work there had been the constantly changing nature of the population. The growth in spirituality was also very marked.

The topic, "The weekly prayer meeting," was then considered from five points by as many laymen, as follows:

Duty as to attendance, by Mr. Austin G. Sherman of the Central church. It was a duty to attend the prayer meeting because it was an ordinance of the church; it was the place to come into communion with God, where He abides and His presence is peculiarly felt; we get acquainted with each other, know each other by the working of the mind in the relation of experiences and of communion with God. Mere attendance is not all. Religion is more than mere form. The form is only a help to better living.

Leadership was discussed by Mr. A. L. Harwood of Newton Centre. The prayer meeting should be directed in the work there had been the constantly changing nature of the population. The growth in spirituality was also very marked.

Call the younger members of the church into work, they will be strengthened in so doing. It is a blessing to give work to as many in the church as possible.

Who should take part in the meeting was assigned to Mr. F. W. Gaffield of Eliot church. All should cultivate the habit of taking part. The young should be encouraged to take part. Women should take part. Many times they have shown a peculiar aptness in taking part in such service.

Consistency.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

Ward Four is one of the large wards of our city in territory, including in its bounds both Auburndale and Newton Lower Falls.

Since the city had its charter Auburndale has always monopolized the seat of the ward in the board of aldermen. This year the Lower Falls voters had the temerity to suggest that they had a candidate whom they would like to have represent them in the aldermanic board and presented, at the caucus held on Saturday evening November eighth, the name of their present efficient Common Councilman, Frederic M. Crehore.

Mr. Crehore is a paper manufacturer in Lower Falls and has been a useful and conscientious member of the lower board during the present year, serving upon the water board and other important committees and deserving of promotion.

When his name was presented, it was argued against him that he was an independent voter and, that as the caucus was a Republican one, only a Republican should be elected. After deciding that Mr. Crehore was not good enough a Republican to represent them in the board of aldermen, the same caucus immediately voted unanimously to make him their nominee to the Common Council.

It is fully true that the Lower Falls should have an opportunity to be represented in the board of aldermen and it is just to that section of our city that the voters of the city should give them their long deferred rights, by electing Mr. Crehore.

The straight Republican caucus endorsed him by unanimously nominating him to the Common Council, and the Citizens have further endorsed him by nominating him to the board of aldermen. As Mr. Crehore has received such flattering recommendations from both parties in our city there seems to be no reason why he should not be elected to represent Ward Four in the board of aldermen.

AN AUBURNDALE REPUBLICAN.

Wheaton Seminary Club.

The New England Wheaton Seminary Club, a social and literary organization made up of former students, principals and teachers of the honored institution which was one of the pioneer efforts to wards the higher education of women, is now one of the largest clubs for women among the many which have their headquarters in Boston. Its membership is drawn from all New England, and though many interested come long distances to attend the meetings held at the Thorndike, on the second Saturday of each month during the season, yet it must be a stormy day indeed when less than a hundred and twenty-five are present.

A business meeting, luncheon, social hour and literary exercises make up the program for these meetings, and the topics discussed range through art, literature and music to topics of the time and domestic economy.

From the little year-book of the club which has just been received, we learn that Mrs. Estelle M. Merrill "Jean Kincaid" of the Boston Globe, is president of this club, while among the members are Lucy Lacombe, the poet, a former teacher in the school and the founder of the "Rushlight," the clever school paper and organ of this and the New York Wheaton Seminary Association. Miss Heloise A. Hersey, the well known critic and writer, now the lecturer on literature at the Seminary, is also a member; with Mrs. D. A. Lincoln of the cooking school fame and others as well known.

Newton is numerously represented in this club. Mrs. Henry R. Turner of Auburndale is one of the vice-presidents, and Mrs. Wm. E. Bates of Newton is chairman of the program committee. Among other members are Mrs. J. E. Bacon and Mrs. Edwin Pierce of West Newton; Miss Jeannie Eastman of Newtonville; Miss Annie Gilman of Baldwin street, Mrs. Samuel L. Powers and Mrs. C. O. Tucker of Newton; Mrs. Frank F. Davidson and Miss Della T. Smith, Principle of the school in Auburndale; Mrs. J. E. Harlow and Miss Harriet Paul of Newton Centre.

The passage of the McKinley bill on the eve of a Congressional election, was a political mistake on the part of the Republicans. Their opponents were quick to take advantage of it, and the history of American politics does not present a more interesting feature than the sudden and energetic movement by which the Democrats tripped the Republicans and laid them upon their backs. The "great game" was a success, but it is only a temporary one. I offer my friend four propositions. First, the people of the United States believe in the protection of American industries against the pauper and down-trodden labor of foreign lands. Second, they believe in a free ballot and a fair count, and the quality of all men under the law. Third, they believe in honest money, and in such financial legislation as shall best insure the permanent prosperity of the nation. Fourth, they believe in the subjection of the liquor saloon to law and order.

Now then, because they believe in protection of American industries, and because they believe in a free ballot and a fair count, and because they believe in honest money and in the subjection of saloons they will again call the Republican party to power, for that party has been and is to-day the champion of their "great game" success, but it is only a temporary one.

The indictment against my friend's adopted party, susceptible, as I honestly believe, of proof, is this: It contains to-day as it always has the great bulk of the ignorant and vicious classes. It contains the great bulk of that class of voters and politicians who are in politics for "what they can make out of it." Its strongholds and its only hope are those sections of our great cities, which most abound in vice and crime. It is maintaining its power at the south and in Congress, by open intimidation, fraud and murder. It contains many good men and true, but they are in a hopeless minority, and while a few of them are occasionally allowed to come to the front, that the party may profit by their success, they can by no means control the party, or prevent the backward steps in the "great and irrepressible conflict," which is sure to follow Democratic supremacy.

It contains every Free Trader in the land, hardly one of whom has the courage, or the honesty, openly to declare their real position before the people, but under the disguise of "Tariff Reform" are working for absolute Free Trade, and who would to-day if they could open our markets to the world.

—List of letters remaining in the post office are—Rev. E. B. Barry, Mrs. Laura P. Boyden, Jacob W. King, Mrs. L. A. Moore, Miss M. A. Pennington, Maria Weiss.

—Mr. H. E. Durgin will have a house built on his lot, lately purchased from the Wm. Hyde estate, fronting on Hyde street, the cellar for which is now being excavated.

—Postmaster Nash has found a sum of money, and he would like the loser to have the same, so that it may be kept in circulation to help relieve the stringency in the money market.

—At the non-partisan caucus held on Thursday evening of last week, in Stevens Hall, Mr. J. R. Smith and Mr. F. W. Turner were nominated as candidates for councilmen for Ward Five.

—There is a rumor that the estate on Bowdoin street belonging to Mr. B. Putney has been sold to a syndicate, and that the newly organized Lincoln Club will lease the same for a club house.

—Mr. W. D. Rice, who was the builder of the Moseley house on Cushing street, and with his wife, has been boarding at Keller's, have on account of her illness removed to Cambridge among relatives.

—Mr. Albert B. Putney has sold the estate next adjoining his residence, which was formerly owned and occupied for many years by Mr. H. N. Sheldon. Mr. Putney has enlarged the grounds about his home estate by adding a portion of the lot which was formerly a part of the Sheldon estate.

—Rev. G. W. Butters gave a lecture of much interest as a portion of the entertainment at Lincoln Hall, on Thursday evening of last week, under the auspices of our Methodist friends, and as a token of appreciation of his services a beautiful collection of blooms of the now popular chrysanthemums was presented him by friends.

—The funeral of Mrs. A. W. Ware was held at her late residence, Forest street, on Wednesday. Rev. A. S. Seabury of Dedham, and Rev. G. G. Phipps of this place conducted the service. Mrs. Ware was at the time of her death president of the Fatherless and Widow's Society of Boston, and had lived a useful and devoted Christian life. Her loss will be deeply felt by her many friends.

—The great progress which Kroeger & Sons have made in piano building has enabled this firm to place on the market an instrument that has received the highest indorsement from the most critical authorities.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Mr. Miles Cusick has returned from Nova Scotia.

—Mr. Walter Chesley is confined to the home by illness.

—Miss Mary L. Grover is visiting friends in Mansfield, Mass.

—Mrs. J. Holah returned this week to her home in the west.

—Rev. Geo. S. Butters will preach at the Methodist church next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Seats for all invited. Union services will be held at the Methodist Church Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27 at 10.30 A. M.

—An interesting entertainment was given last evening in Prospect Hill, under the auspices of Echo Bridge Council, R. A. Councilman Collins gave entertaining readings, and an orchestra furnished music during the evening. A number of prominent officers of the order were present and addressed the meeting. The attendance was large.

—Mr. Chas. Gould, who is night switchman in the Boston yard of the Boston and Albany, jumped against a switch in getting off the train in Boston Monday night and sustained severe injuries. The train usually slows up for him to get off before reaching the depot. He was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital, and brought home Tuesday.

—A petition has been presented to the City Government this week for a permanent driver for the horse carriage in this place. The petition was signed by Reuben, N. Y., on Saturday. Her son, Mr. Charles P. Clark, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, until his removal holders are aware of the result, should a fire break out in any of these large mills and the fire department be tardy in responding.

—A pleasant ceremony was that enacted in St. Mary's church Wednesday morning, when Miss Katie Grady of Elliot street, and Mr. James Daly, head clerk at A. R. Pitts store, were united in marriage by the nuptial mass wedding ceremony, performed by Rev. Father Flaherty. The bride was charmingly attired in cream cashmere with lace and orange blossoms and a long tulle veil crowned with a wreath of the orange flowers. She was attended by her sister Miss Maggie Grady as bridesmaid, dressed in white and pink, and the best man was Mr. James Daly of Newton Centre. Immediately after the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, followed by the reception, to which only intimate friends and relatives were invited. The presents which were numerous and costly, including a handsome parlor suite, chamber set, banquet and table lamps, handsome steel engravings, and silver and glass were in abundance. Among the many present at the wedding ceremony and reception were friends from Brockton, Edgewater, Frampton, Boston, and the suburbs. Mr. and Mrs. Daly will at once commence housekeeping on High street, where their many well wishers will receive cordial welcome.

The position which the great house Lyon & Healy have deeded the Kroeger Piano is evidence of the acknowledged standing and reputation of this instrument.

While visiting the Mechanic's Fair we were struck with the beautiful exhibit of the H. M. Bigelow Co. They show novelties in the old Bay State, and we are not surprised at the very large increase in their business.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—The engine house has had its appearance benefited by being painted.

—A dog was killed on the crossing near short bridge, Monday evening, by the 5.15 train.

—The houses of Hobson Swallow and James Early on Concord street are approaching completion rapidly, the finishing work now going on.

—The C. F. Crehore house, until recently occupied by Dr. D. E. Baker, has received a thorough repainting, both inside and out, and will make a very desirable residence for a tenant.

—The last street to be put through Waban was started on Monday. This street connects with Waban avenue here going on a parallel with the Charles river and making a direct route to Upper Falls.

—Rev. H. U. Monro and wife held a reception, Monday evening, which was largely attended by the parishioners of St. Mary's and their friends. They returned from their wedding journey last Friday and Rev. Mr. Monro officiated at the service on Sunday.

—The city has commenced on the work of raising one side of Washington street near Crehore's house, and considering the prevailing storm. Recitations and readings of a humorous nature made up the greater part of the program. The evening was very good, and the crowd seemed to diminish the delay in the church, which will be cleared.

—It is stated that the parish of St. John's church is planning a new church building, and that the present connections. A meeting among its members Sunday last showed strongly that all agreed to support a new church building. A committee was appointed to be before the proper authorities, and shortly after this pastor will become a resident here.

ELIOT.

—Mr. H. M. Beal sold one of his horses this week.

—Mr. Benj. Dickerman is putting in sash for a new hot bed.

—The highway committee visited our "little city" last week.

—Our residents are getting in their winter supply of coal.

—The broken glass in the station ticket office was repaired Tuesday.

—Mr. Benjamin Dickerman was in New Hampshire this week on business.

—Mr. Samuel Shaw is grading his lots between Bradford and Plymouth roads and Woodward and Bellingham street.

—The N. & W. Gas Light Co. are to place one incandescent electric light on Harrison street, and one additional on Lincoln street.

—Wm. Geyer, who has been filling the position of baggage master at the Newton Centre station, is now brakeman on the Lower Falls branch.

—Mr. F. W. Turner, who was nominated for the Common Council by the Citizens party is a resident of Eliot, and if he is elected our interests will doubtless be well looked after.

—It is learned the fire in Mr. Ashley's house last week was burning for something like two hours before being discovered, notwithstanding the fact that the room in which it was discovered was littered with shavings and refuse, and that a few pails of water extinguished it. It was discovered by children and they and Mr. Dunn put it out.

Newton Associated Charities.

The regular monthly meeting of the directors of the N. A. C. was held in Newtonville yesterday afternoon. The directors present were Rev. F. B. Hulse, Mr. F. B. Hulse, Mr. M. E. Bates, Mr. D. Rev. W. A. Lamb, Rev. R. A. White, Mrs. N. W. Farley, Dr. D. E. Baker, Mrs. G. F. Kinch, Mr. N. T. Allen and Miss M. C. Worcester. Many important items of business were discussed. Among others a plan was submitted by the directors of meeting in different portions of the city of Newton beginning sometime in January. These meetings to be addressed by leading thinkers and workers in distress, and to be held in the city of Newton, and modern charities in and about Boston, a plan for finding opportunity for worthy persons was also discussed and adopted. A committee was appointed to report on the feasibility of sewing and cooking schools for those who might be benefited thereby.

FOR MAYOR, HERMON E. HIBBARD.

Newton, Mass., November 17, 1890.

Hermon E. Hibbard, Esq.,
Newton, Mass.

Dear Sir,—It affords us great pleasure to notify you officially, of your nomination for Mayor of the City of Newton, by a convention of Citizens held at City Hall, West Newton, Saturday evening, 15th inst.

In sending you our best wishes for your success at the polls, we not only voice the sentiment of the convention, but as we believe the majority of the voters of our beloved city.

Very respectfully yours,

SYDNEY HARWOOD, Chairman,

C. S. KEENE, Sec'y Citizens' Com.

Newton, Mass., November 19, 1890.

Sydney Harwood, Esq., Chairman, and
C. S. Keene, Esq., Sec'y of Citizens' Convention, Newton, Mass.

Gentlemen,—Your official notification of my nomination for Mayor of Newton by the Citizens' caucus, held November 15th, has been received.

My position in Municipal affairs I think is generally understood. I will say however, that I have not made, and will not make any promise or pledge to any person or party other than to assure the citizens of Newton that if elected I will administer the affairs of the city conscientiously, and enforce and execute the laws of the Commonwealth and ordinances of the city without fear or favor.

Thanking you for the honor conferred, I am,

Respectfully yours,

HERMON E. HIBBARD.

The Citizens' Committee in presenting claims for the election of Mr. Hibbard as Mayor of our City, do not wish to enter into any "Deadly Parallel Column" controversies, preferring to accept at the Polls the unbiased verdict of the intelligent citizens of Newton and abide cheerfully by the result. Many prominent citizens in the different wards desiring that no misunderstanding of their position shall exist regarding the Mayoralty question, have signified their intentions as follows:

The undersigned Republican voters of NEWTON believe that the best interests of the City of Newton will be most efficiently served by the election of Mr. HERMON E. HIBBARD to the Mayoralty and pledge our vote and influence to that end. When such important matters are coming up for our consideration, we deem it especially desirable that an independent, able business man should be in the Mayor's chair—such a man we believe Mr. Hibbard to be and we feel that we, as citizens, would be derelict to our duty if we failed to do all we could to secure his services.

SOME OFFICIAL PAPERS

FOR THE CONSIDERATION OF ALL CON-SCIENTIOUS VOTERS.

NEWTON, MASS., Nov. 26, 1890.

To the Citizens' Committee:

Gentlemen:—The fact having come to the notice of the undersigned members of the Executive Committee of the Newton Independents, that Mr. Geo. Pettie, Republican Candidate for Mayor of Newton, has filed a Nomination Paper as an Independent, we send you herewith a copy of said Nomination Paper with signatures attached thereto, and assure you that as members of the Newton "Independents," we do not approve of, or endorse this act. At the same time we would not seem to monopolize the title of "Independent" but, as a fact, our organization is generally known as "The Newton Independents."

Inasmuch as many might be deceived by the word "Independent" if appearing on the Ballots, we ask that you take the proper action to make our disapproval public.

To the Executive Committee of the Newton Independents:

Gentlemen: Thanking you for your favor of 26th inst., would say in reply that we will insert copy of your letter and said Nomination Paper in the Newton weekly papers, and trust that no further action in the matter will be necessary.

Yours Respectfully,
CITIZENS' COMMITTEE.

Newton, Nov. 26, 1890.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.

To the Voters of Newton:

Certain gentlemen, prominent in the Democratic party of Newton and at present connected with the "Citizens Movement," are urging that you ought not to vote for Alderman George Pettie for Mayor because he is the nominee of the Republican party, and partisan nominations in municipal affairs should be discountenanced. In other words, you are urged to deprive Newton of the services of an experienced chief magistrate because by so doing you can resent a partisan nomination.

These gentlemen frankly admit that Mr. Pettie has had more experience in our city affairs than any other gentleman that was ever nominated for the office of Mayor, and that the candidate for the same office presented by the "Citizens" party has never in his life held a municipal office of any kind; yet you are urged to place in office a man without experience rather than one who is eminently fitted for the position because by so doing you express your disapproval of party politics in city affairs.

Alderman Pettie is entitled to your support, not because he is a Republican, not because he is the nominee of the Republican party, but because he is the best man for the place.

Would he be any better fitted for the office had he been nominated by the "Citizens" party, or would Mr. Hibbard be less suitable for the office had he been nominated by the Republicans?

The leaders of the "Citizens" movement talk about partisanship in municipal affairs; has there ever been a more flagrant exhibition of partisanship than their attempt to deprive our city of the services of an experienced official in the office of Mayor by appealing to party prejudices? They do not give a single reason for voting against Mr. Pettie except that he has a party nomination.

During the past seven years the "Citizens" party have nominated Mr. Pettie seven times as a candidate for alderman and he has been elected without any opposition. Two years ago the leaders of that party begged him to accept their nomination for the office of Mayor. This year the Republican party nominated him as a candidate for the Mayoralty and this very "Citizens" party whose candidate for alderman he has been for so many years, and whose candidate for Mayor he would once have been had it not been for his refusal to accept the nomination, violently opposes his election for "partisan reasons only."

There is but one fair conclusion to be drawn and that is that the leaders of the "Citizens" movement are so influenced by partisan motives that they entirely lose sight of the real welfare of our city.

Civil Service in the Campaign.

The people of Newton, whether Republicans, Democrats or Independents, believe in the principles of Civil Service Reform and in applying them in every possible instance to the management of the public business. Are these principles in any degree involved in the question which you will decide at the polls next Tuesday? It is believed that they are and for the following reasons:

The underlying and the main principles of the reform are that appointments in the public service should be entirely free from political influence and that promotions in the same should be due solely to such faithful, honest work in a lower position as demonstrates beyond a doubt the candidate's fitness for the higher office. It is this latter principle that has earned for the reform the name by which most of its advocates prefer to call it, that of the "merit system." Of course no one pretends that it is possible to extend by law this system to elective offices, but ought not its principles to govern the intelligent voter in selecting his candidate for such an office, just as, under legal sanction, they control the action of heads of departments in selecting their administrative subordinates. If in America mayors were appointed by the central government, as they are in France, would not the people of Newton, firm believers in the "merit system," demand its application in the selection of their chief executive officer. Why, then, should not the voters themselves, who, under our system of government select their own chief magistrates, respect in their selection principles which they would never without strong protest allow others to disregard? Ought they not firmly to stand upon the ground that long-continued, painstaking, honest and intelligent labor in almost every department of their public service must weigh more with them than any other consideration in selecting their chief executive officer?

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF SEVENTY,
ROBERT H. GARDINER, Chairman,

AVERY L. RAND, Secretary.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

MIDNIGHT SESSION OVER THE APPROPRIATION BILL.

Both branches of the city government met Monday evening, all the members being present.

In the board of alderman the resignation of Messrs. Taylor and Jordan, election officers in Wards Four and Seven were accepted.

Alfred Dearborn was appointed hose-man of No. 1 Engine Co.

A resolution from the board of health in regard to the drainage of Magne Meadow, and the necessity of doing the work next year was received.

S. W. Tucker petitioned for concrete sidewalk on Church street, and Walter U. Lawson and others for two street lamps on Nonantum street.

The Silver Lake Company asked for an electric light on corner of Watertown and Nevada streets.

Mr. Hutchings gave notice of intention to build a house on Berkeley street, 26 by 44.

W. J. Adams asked for license for three horse power boiler and engine on Washington street, Ward Two, and was granted a hearing for Dec. 15th.

Mr. Martin Nagle was appointed a policeman for the probationary time of six months.

Alderman Hamble presented a petition for the removal of a house from the corner of Park and Elmwood streets to corner of St. James street and Hunnewell terrace, and said it was guaranteed and signed by Alderman L. E. Coffin.

Mr. Coffin said it would only necessitate the removal of two trees and he had agreed to plant other in their places.

Alderman Hamble said he did not want to be understood as endorsing it as the removing of buildings was a troublesome matter in that locality.

Mr. Coffin replied that as he had bought the land of Mr. Hibbard he would not object, and no one else would have objection.

Alderman Fenno reported an order for two street lamps on Clyde street, which was passed.

On motion of Alderman Fenno the free use of City Hall was granted for a concert for the benefit of the Williston Home, on Monday evening Dec. 15th.

W. S. Wave, Stephen Keyes and Chas. E. Burr were appointed election officers to fill vacancies and the appointments laid over to Friday morning under the rule.

An order was passed for the laying of 100 feet of 6 in. water main on Hyde street, Ward Five and 120 feet on Hunnewell avenue, at the cost of $402.

An ordinance relating to public carriages was presented by Alderman Bond, and passed to be enrolled.

It was moved that when the board adjourn it would be to Friday morning, at 8:20 o'clock.

A petition was reserved for an electric light on corner of Beacon and Woodward streets, and for 4 lamps on Wendow road Waban.

THE DRILL SHED.

An order came from the common council appropriating $400 for plans and specifications for a drill shed.

Alderman Harbach said he did not believe in passing that order, and he also did not believe in a drill shed or in military drill.

Alderman Coffin said he had felt the same way, but during the past week he had talked with a good many people, especially from Ward 6, who were in favor of such a drill hall, and had seen the need of it. The order was merely to get drawings, and the matter of building the hall would come up another year.

Alderman Pettie said the name of drill hall did not embody all the uses to which the proposed building would be put. It would furnish needed conveniences in a great many ways, which were needed to make complete the courses at the High School. The building itself would not come up until another year.

Alderman Harbach voted No, and all the others voted Yes, and the order was passed.

An order giving $200 to the Social Science Club for the industrial school at Nonantum was referred to the next city government.

The order providing for a note for the $17,000 need for draining the Magne meadow was passed.

Alderman Fenno reported an order for one street lamp on Brookside avenue passed.

THE APPROPRIATION BILL.

Came from the common council, with several changes, the first raising the amount for fire alarm stations.

Alderman Johnson said that one of the councilmen had said something about old junk shops, but he didn't think he knew what he was talking about. As many of the common councilmen were present he would give some information. He had received an offer from Mr. Stevens to furnish fire alarm boxes and strikers at reduced rates. He would furnish the boxes for $75, and they were paying $125. Boston is only paying $50 and he thought there was a great profit even at that price. Mr. Stevens said he had many boxes in use and he guaranteed them to work on the Gemwell system. Mr. Stevens had an office at 15 Quaham street, Boston. He thought it was unnecessary for Newton to pay such high prices, when it could get them at a less price. He read a letter from the chief of the fire department of Woburn, who said that the Stevens boxes were entirely satisfactory. Also a letter from the chief of Quincy, who said that they had three makes, the Utica, Stevens and Gemwell boxes, and all were perfectly satisfactory. The department of Worcester is as good as any in the state, and the chief of that city says he has 20 Stevens boxes and is to buy 8 more, and they have given good satisfaction. He thought if the board wanted to cut down all expenses they should cut down in this case, and he moved that the board non-concur.

Alderman Pettie asked how long Mr. Stevens had been in the business.

Alderman Johnson said he did not know, but he had heard that he formerly was in partnership with Mr. Crane.

The board then voted to non-concur.

The board also non-concurred in the public library appropriation, making it $11,250.

The appropriation for schools then came up, and Alderman Harbach moved to non-concur.

Alderman Bond said he hoped the board would concur with the lower board, as the appropriation had been carefully made up, and did not allow of any reduction without reducing wages, as it was impossible to cut down on fuel. If any reductions were made we should lose our best teachers, and would have to have poorer ones. When the board had voted to increase salaries in other departments, he hoped it would not reduce the wages of teachers.

Alderman Fenno called attention to the fact that last year the school board had carried $1,000 from the general appropriation to incidentals.

Alderman Bond explained that this had been brought about by the resignation of the higher grade of teachers, and the substitution of new ones. Besides the dog tax was $500 larger than was expected.

Alderman Harbach said this seemed to be the year of economy, the highway committee had been cut some $15,000, the police department and the public library had been cut down, and why should not the schools be cut down with the rest.

The board then voted to adhere to this reduction.

The board at 10:15 then took a recess to allow the action of the common council.

Common Council.

In the Common Council after concurrent business, and routine matters were disposed of, Councilman Mead called attention to a statement of Alderman Johnson's, in the report of last week's city government in the GRAPHIC, saying that he had voted from the doorway.

This was not the truth, he had stood just behind his chair to vote, and was given permission to so vote by the President.

THE DRILL HALL.

Councilman Estabrooke reported an order that the public property committee obtain detailed plans for a gymnasium and exhibition hall, near the High School, and appropriating $400 for such plans and specifications.

Councilman Roffe said it would be little use to spend the money this year, and it ought to be referred to the next city government.

Councilman Collins said it was only the initial step, and should be taken now. The need of a hall of this kind was urgent.

Councilman Luke moved to suspend the rules and hear Major Tyler of the High School Battalion.

Major Tyler said it was not wholly a question of drill but of physical culture at the High School. There was no place to have exercises in. The young ladies had to meet in corners and corridors and between the aisles, to have their calisthenic drill, where any satisfactory work was impossible. The drill suffered expressly from the lack of accommodations, 38 per cent of the time had been lost this fall by stormy days, and when the drill was given at the Armory, almost half of the drill hour was spent in getting there, and then they were cramped for room and it was impossible to form a battalion line, or to carry out the drill satisfactorily. Brookline, Wakefield and other places have drill halls, and why should Newton not keep up with the spirit of the age.

Councilman Collins endorsed what Major Tyler had said and that the interest of the drill hall was now about to be in paying fares to Armory Hall. He also read a letter written by Mr. A. C. Walworth a year ago in favor of the drill hall.

Councilman Luke said it was difficult to figure on the expense, but as physical culture was part of the present course of study, facilities for it should be furnished. He asked how the school committee stood.

President Hyde said the school board had passed an order asking for the drill hall.

Councilman Porter asked why the old Central School building could not be used.

Councilman Hall said the building was used for school rooms.

Mr. A. C. Walworth, who had come in, was invited to give his opinion and spoke warmly in favor of the drill hall.

The order was then passed.

THE APPROPRIATIONS.

The aldermen had reduced the figures on the appropriation bill and thrown out altogether that for draining the Magne meadow. The council concurred in the amended bill, except in the three items of fire alarm signal boxes, Free Library and general expense for schools.

In the former Councilman Ferkau thought it better to secure such boxes, as they knew were reliable than to take up something which was uncertain or to hunt around old junk shops for something that might be bought cheaper.

Councilman Bates strongly urged the necessity of an appropriation for the library sufficient to print the contemplated catalogue, some $3,000. The library could not be used to the best advantage without such catalogue. The trustees would save $500 toward this expense by spending that amount less for books than usual. They would also forego the expense of electric lights, $750, and this would make the full amount $12,500, instead of $14,150, as first passed by the council; these figures were adopted.

The urgent necessity of the full appropriation for general school expenses was urged by President Hyde and others, and the council voted to adhere to its former figures.

A MIDNIGHT SESSION.

Then ensued one of the most interesting struggles in the history of the city government. The Common Council adhered to their action. A committee of conference was called for and the Common Council finally agreed to the increase of $3,000 on schools and $1,500 on public library provided the board of aldermen would agree to the increase of $250 on Fire Alarm stations. The aldermen refused, and a new conference committee was called, the aldermen having one member of the old committee and the Common Council all new men, but when the action of the aldermen was learned, one of the men resigned and one of the former committee appointed.

The conference committee was rather stony from all accounts, and finally owing to what is alleged to have been the calling of names on the part of one of the aldermen to one of the councilmen, the common councilmen left in a body, and returning to their chamber, the Common Council went into executive session.

The aldermen waited the result, expecting some message, but to their surprise were soon informed that the lower branch had adjourned and gone home.

The news created some excitement, but the board of mayor and aldermen had nothing to do but to adjourn also, which they did at 2:30 a. m. Tuesday morning.

The DEAD LOCK WAS BROKEN by the Common Council meeting Tuesday evening in special session, and cutting out the item of fire alarm stations from the appropriation bill, which they then passed, the total being some $358,000.

They then passed an order adding to the appropriation bill an appropriation of $900 for fire alarm stations, and adjourned.

MAY RUN AS AN INDEPENDENT.

DECISION OF NEWTON REGISTRARS IN THE CASE OF MR. PETTEE.

The board of registrars of voters was in session in the City Hall, Tuesday evening, for the purpose of considering the legality of nomination papers signed by 50 citizens, for the purpose of securing the nomination of George Pettie as an independent candidate for mayor.

Mr. Pettie is the Republican candidate for mayor, and the citizens' movement, with Mr. H. E. Hibbard as its candidate for mayor, interposed objections, on the ground that it was a scheme calculated to deceive voters who might be led to believe that Mr. Pettie was the candidate of the independents, termed mugsumps by their Republican opponents.

The signers of the nomination papers are generally Democrats, although the names of a few independents also appear. The Republican and Citizens' parties were both represented by counsel, H. N. Sheldon appearing for the former, and Mr. Horace G. Allen, president of the Boston board of aldermen, for the latter. The city solicitor of Newton, W. S. Stocum, was also present.

After lengthy arguments by counsel, the board decided that the independent nomination papers were legal, and that there was no real ground for objection.

The hearing was private, practically, although it was announced that citizens who desired might attend in the capacity of spectators. The board of registrars is made up of three Republicans and two Democrats, and the decision is very unfavorable to the Hibbard movement, and its representatives declare that the names on the nomination papers in dispute include a number of Democratic ward politicians and heelers who were never identified in any way with the independent movement.

Bowling.

The team bowling matches under the auspices of the Newton Club were inaugurated Monday evening, when teams 1 and 2 played the most exciting game since the advent of bowling in this city.

The game first resulted in a tie, each side scoring 1297 pins. One frame was rolled according to tournament rules, resulting in a second tie and a second frame was then rolled, giving the match to team 2 by 1 pin. The score in detail is appended:

THE DUTY OF THE REFORMER.

POLITICAL ISSUES DISCUSSED BY THE NEWTON TARIFF CLUB.

The Newton Tariff Reform Club gave a dinner at the Woodland Park Hotel, Auburndale, last Friday evening, and had as its guests Hon. J. S. Coolidge, congressman-elect from the 11th district; Mr. William Lloyd Garrison, Mr. Edward Atkinson, Mr. Moorfield Storey and Mr. Osborne Howes, Jr. The member of the club turned out in large numbers, and about 70 gentlemen found seats at the tables, tastefully arranged in the large dining hall.

Mr. E. B. Haskell, president of the club, presided, the guests occupying the seats of honor on the right and left.

Among those present, with the invited guests, were noticed:

Charles A. Fitzgerald, George T. Lincoln, Andrew Wetherbee, Charles P. Hall, Edward S. Merchant, George A. Mead, Ellis W. Redpath, Charles Hunt, Edward P. Boud, Charles W. Shepard, John F. Brown, James P. Tolman, Joseph A. Allen, Nathaniel T. Allen, H. L. Whittlesey, J. V. Fitzgerald, P. A. McVicar, Bernard Early, Abbott Bassett, H. E. Bothfield, John T. Wells, J. B. William J. Follett, C. M. Ransom, T. B. Lindsay, Severance Burrage, Edward P. Caldwell, Walter H. Thorpe, F. H. Tucker, H. T. Knight, William M. Pettigrew, Moses Quimby, Asahel Wheeler, William G. Soule, T. Walter Proctor, Fred A. Hubbard, A. D. Stephenson, E. J. Whiton, M. C. Soule, R. H. McClashan, F. F. Raymond, 2d, N. P. Gilman, George L. Chandler, R. L. Bridgman, W. A. Spinney, D. H. McVain, Samuel Shaw, William H. Burr, F. W. Barbour, Horace W. Taylor, C. C. Briggs, Jr., G. E. Gilbert, J. D. Greene, H. I. Ordway, G. W. Langford, Harold Hutchinson, John F. Crosby, Winfield S. Hutchinson, George W. Crosby, Dr. Lincoln R. Stone, Robert P. Loring, C. Howard Wilson, George Sawin, Rev. F. D. Hornbrook, Stephen Thacher.

After the material festivities, President Haskell rapped to order and made a brief introductory address. He said:

When, at the annual meeting of the Tariff Reform Club early in October, I took a hopeful view of the situation, and remarked that the majority in Congress had been doing great work for us, I did not dare to hope for such a revolt by the people as came a month later in the congressional elections.

But now that it has come, I wonder why I ever doubted.

The simple fact is that, when the Republicans in 1888 claimed the right of revising the tariff themselves—a revision by their friends—not one voter in a thousand doubted that they meant a revision down and not a revision up. Not one in a hundred, even of extreme protectionists, expected higher protection. All they asked or expected was to keep the substance of what they had.

It was soon evident that they could not redeem their pledges without increasing the protective wall, and the sops they threw to the unprotected public were only a too thin disguise of their purpose. The result we have seen. It now seems to have been inevitable.

It would be amusing if it were not rather pitiful to see the desperate attempts the high protectionists are making to explain their overwhelming defeat. It is not the tariff, they say, but false impressions of it, that killed Cock Robin. Why didn't they disabuse the popular mind? They tried hard enough. The trouble was that they were the deceivers, but the people could no longer be deceived. Their sophistry did not cover the question, but left both sides exposed.

Our business as tariff reformers, who believe in the theory of free trade, and, at the same time, are the best protectionist because we would remove from our manufacturers the burden of taxes on crude materials, and give them a chance to compete with their rivals, is to keep pressing on, with a critical eye on both parties, ready to accept what we can get, but not satisfied until American ingenuity, enterprise and industry, and America's resources, are redeemed from the shackles of a false system; until this greatest, freest and best of countries again leads the procession of the nations toward a higher and richer civilization and the glorious vision of universal brotherhood.

When Mr. Haskell had concluded his address, he pleasantly introduced Mr. Edward Atkinson of Brookline, who was greeted with hearty applause. The speaker, in his opening remarks, alluded to his connection with the Free Soil party, composed largely of young men who had espoused political opinions in opposition to those of their fathers, and spoke of the tendency of the young men of the present day to support the movement in the interest of tariff reform.

The tariff reformers, said Mr. Atkinson, do not, in the fullest sense, perhaps, give their confidence to the Democratic party, but their distrust of the Republican party is greater than their distrust of the Democratic party.

The Democratic party, he added, is now on trial, and the question that it will be obliged to answer is whether in the future it will claim our votes because of our distrust of the Republican party, or because of the trust we place in the Democratic party. [Applause.]

The Democratic party has had such a sweeping victory that it seems that at last the public conscience has been touched. It is not alone due to reasoning and arguments that the country has been swept by this tornado. It is, in part, due to the character and the methods of the men in the Republican party who have been in power for the past 12 months. The public conscience is aroused by the pitiable position of a man who will not deny that he is a thief. The public conscience is aroused, and no longer trusts itself to a party that allows unscrupulous men to dictate its policy.

We have given our support to the Democratic party, continued Mr. Atkinson, because we have confidence in its present leaders. [Applause.] We place our faith and confidence in these men because of their conservative methods in treating the tariff question. The Democratic party is in the position to secure our full trust and hearty support two years from now if it continues to advocate measures in the interests of the people. Rash and injudicious measures might be the outcome of such a sweeping Democratic victory, but, judging from the record and political expression of the leaders in the Democratic party to-day, and their advocacy of measures which appeal to the best sentiments of men interested in the progress and development of the country, we may have confidence to believe that condition and not theories will be taken hold of by the Democratic party in its consideration of political questions. [Applause.] "I ought to feel," said Mr. Atkinson, in conclusion, "that it is fortunate that the control is passing into the hands of the Democratic party, most judiciously led by men of character and ability, and that we shall secure the adjustment of fiscal questions on sound business principles, resulting in the settlement of the great issues of today to the satisfaction of the protectionists and free traders alike. [Applause.]

At the conclusion of Mr. Atkinson's remarks Congressman-elect Coolidge was introduced, and was given a hearty welcome. He said that he felt that it would be unjust to himself and those who figured in the recent election if he had not been to be present upon such an occasion.

The election, said the speaker, was fought out on the tariff issues, and while the campaign is politically at an end, the issues of tariff reform have just commenced and the duties of tariff reformers in reality only just begun. [Applause.] Mr. William Lloyd Garrison was next introduced. He said that he rejoiced that the decalogue and the golden rule were venturing back into politics. The recent election vindicates again the wisdom of self-government. We have a right to be jubilant, he added, because, as far as the tariff reformers took part in the campaign, they appeared to the intelligence and conscience of the voters. Overwhelming victory brings its dangers, and unless the purpose of the campaign is held tenaciously, and the Cleveland element predominates, another example of Democratic skill in turning the apple of success into the ashes of speedy defeat will be furnished to the world.

Our course as tariff reformers is plain. We follow the hand which carried the torch of freedom, regardless of a party name. [Applause.]

The politicians will naturally advocate half measures and tardy steps. The function of tariff reformers is to hold up the standard unflinchingly, and to indulge in the luxury of faithful speech; to furnish the moral force upon which parties must finally rely, and manufacture the public sentiment which will uphold the radical enforcement of our views. Our objective point is the utter and total abolition of the system of robbery and spoliation, misallied protection, and in this service we should consecrate ourselves anew. [Applause.]

Mr. Moorfield Storey, the next speaker, said that the victory must be considered soberly. We must endeavor to find out what the victory meant. It is a positive indication that the people of the United States are opposed to the McKinley bill; that the people desire to record themselves against a system which permits men to contribute for a campaign fund in the interest of selfish legislation; that the people mean that hereafter Congress shall attend to the whole business of the public; that public office is a public trust. [Applause.]

Osborne Howes, Jr., who followed, said that the issue which won the victory was expressed in the argument that the tariff was a tax. The system of protection, he added, is a fraud, and the sooner that tariff reform clubs change into free trade clubs the better. Political parties must adapt themselves to the exigencies of the times. I do not mean to advocate an immediate change in this country to a free trade policy, but we must change the present artificial business system. We must free ourselves from the encumbrances that shackle us. We know that many industries have perished, and we lament over the industries that have not yet been born in England, cramped as she has been in the last 40 years, has made as much progress as the United States, and she has done it because she has had free trade. If we had had free trade in this country during the past 40 years, our wealth would have been doubled. Massachusetts ought now to take the lead for free trade, as she has in the past for other reforms. If our country enjoys reciprocity throughout the world, American produce will be found in every part of the world, and our commerce will be found on every sea. [Applause.]

Mr. N. T. Allen and Rev. F. B. Hornbrook spoke briefly on the lessons of the elections, and a poem, entitled "Who Killed the G. O. P.?" was read by Mr. C. Howard Wilson, secretary of the club, who also read letters of regret from Congressman-elect George Fred Williams, Hon. John E. Russell and Mr. Winslow Warren.

Who Killed the G. O. P.

Who Killed the G. O. P.?

"I" said Ohio Will,

With my little tariff bill,

I killed the G. O. P.

Who saw him die?

"I" said Jim Blaine

"I warned him in vain

And I saw him die."

Who caught his blood?

"I" did," said Spaulding,

And it gave me a scalding,

I caught his blood."

Who'll bear the torch?

Then Candler said, "I'll do it,

And sulphur I'll add to it;

I'll bear the torch."

Will Quay be the clerk?

And Quay said, "I will;

I know how to keep still,

I'll be the clerk."

Who'll dig his grave?

Then Ames with his spade,

A grave already had made;

And he dug the grave."

Who'll be the parson?

"I" said Joe Walker

"For I'm a good talker;

I'll be the parson."

Who'll be chief mourner?

"I" said Tom Reed,

"I'll mourn it indeed,

I'll be chief mourner."

Who'll sing the dirge?

"I" said the man of men,

I will sing, 'I might have Ben,'

I'll sing his dirge."

Who'll carry the coffin?

Henry Cabot will bear it,

Perhaps he will share it,

He'll bear the coffin."

Who'll toll the bell?

Give it to Honest John

Let him toll on and on He'll toll the bell."

Then Grenhalge with his cap and bells

And Hoar and Frye and Hale, sir,

And Ingalls with the decalogue

And Fox without his tail, sir,

And Clarkson with 10,000 scalps

And Delaunoy too, sir,

And Rising Sun Stove Polish Morse,

All made a great to-do sir.

And the birds of the air,

And the fish of the sea,

And the Republican voters

Wherever they be,

Fell sighing and sobbing

GREENWICH TRANSCRIPT HAS BEEN CONSOLIDATED WITH THE GRAPHIC

TO OUR READERS.

The political parties and other advertisers have taken up so much space in this issue, that it has compelled a change in the make-up of the paper, and the news are scattered about on all ten pages. Much interesting correspondence in regard to the election next Tuesday, and several columns of local news will be found on the 9th and 10th pages, and every page will be found to contain something of interest, which should be read by every voter.

NEXT TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

The election next Tuesday is just now the most absorbing topic, and special interest centres on the mayoralty contest. As the campaign is mainly fought on the same lines as last year, a study of the election figures of a year ago shows that the Citizens' candidate is almost certain to win. Here are last year's figures when Mayor Burr had 185 majority.

Wards	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Burr	160	227	262	252	213	311	105
Hibbard	243	343	211	141	158	107	202

Alderman Pettie will have a larger vote in Ward Five than Mayor Burr received, but it is doubtful if he receives any more in Ward Six. On the north side of the city Mr. Hibbard is a much stronger candidate than last year, as many men who voted for Mayor Burr on the second term issue are for Mr. Hibbard this year.

Wards One and Seven are almost unanimous for Mr. Hibbard, and all party distinctions have been lost sight of, prominent Republicans being among his most enthusiastic supporters. Ward Two is always a Citizens' ward, and Mr. Hibbard is sure of a majority there. Ward Three is always uncertain, and the so-called "Independent" movement there, which got out nomination papers for Mr. Pettie, has alarmed some, but Mr. Thomas F. Mague says he was against Mr. Hibbard last year and the rest of the signers are probably in the same condition as will be seen from the list of names. The ward will probably be close, with the chances in favor of the Citizens. Ward Four is understood to have gone all to pieces, from a Republican standpoint, on account of some doings at the Ward caucus, and local dissensions, and it will be very surprising to all the workers if the ward does not give a good majority for the Citizens party.

Of course under the Australian ballot law it is very unsafe to make predictions, but judging from the men prominent on the Pettie side, they have made no gains of importance over last year, while Mr. Hibbard's friends include many who were against him last year, and who said then that on any other year they would vote for him, and their best to elect him. It might also be mentioned that THE GRAPHIC has always been on the popular side at every election for the past five years, and the evidence of the popular feeling this year was too plain to be mistaken.

THE TWO CANDIDATES.

There is this to be said of the two candidates for mayor, their personal character is beyond reproach, and so far no one has ventured to openly assail them. Of course, as in former campaigns, there is some mud-slinging, and in some of the wards bad things are being whispered, but this has to be done in secret and the stories will not bear the light, and no one dares take the responsibility for them. Both Mr. Hibbard and Mr. Pettie are moral, honest, and upright men, and the campaign has so far been outwardly very respectable on both sides.

Other questions will have to be raised, if any one is doubtful as to the way he should vote, and the two paramount issues now before the city are Sewerage and a new City Hall, and the record of the two candidates on these questions are being looked up with much interest.

Mr. Hibbard is an earnest advocate of sewerage, as a great public necessity both for the health and the future prosperity of Newton. His views on this question are well known. In regard to a new City Hall, he is equally emphatic against the project at this time, as it would impose a debt of many thousands, cause a great increase in taxation, while the present building will answer every purpose for a number of years. A number of prominent tax-payers have sought his views on this question with some anxiety, as they feared he favored the scheme.

On the other hand Alderman Pettie reported in favor of a new City Hall, and was chairman of the committee which recommended an appropriation of $500 for the purchase of plans and the consideration of a site, and the issue in this respect seems to be very plainly drawn. In regard to sewerage, Alderman Pettie has never been known as an enthusiastic advocate of sewerage, and it is only fair to assume that a mayor from a thickly settled ward of the city would push the matter more earnestly than one whose residence was in a thinly settled district, where the need of sewerage was not so apparent.

A good deal is being said by the opposition to Mr. Hibbard about the necessity of experience for the mayor, but as there will be plenty of aldermen re-elected, the next mayor will have no lack of competent advisers, and Mayor Burr, for instance, had had no experience in the board of aldermen, when he was promoted from the common council to the mayor's chair, so that experience in the board of aldermen is not always a necessity. If experience was such an absolute necessity, Alderman Nickerson had the strongest claim to the position, on the ground both of experience and of civil service reform, but the Republican party passed over Alderman Nickerson and elected Councilman Burr, which leads one to infer that this sudden awakening to the necessity of experience in the board of aldermen, and the beauty of civil service reform principles is merely for campaign purposes.

MR. SAMUEL BARNARD.

There will be only one contest over a member of the school board, but that is a very important one, and as Alderman Bond is on both tickets it promises to be between Mr. Samuel Barnard and Mrs. Abby E. Davis, both old members, but the former was left off the Republican ticket for some unexplained reason.

Now the fact is, as all the fair minded members of the board can testify, that Mr. Barnard has been one of the most valuable members of the board. He held the responsible position of chairman of accounts, and as he is a thorough business man, the business of the committee has been managed with an exactness never before seen in the board. There has been no carrying of expenses over to next year, no extravagant use of the city's money, as Mr. Barnard always stood ready with the figures to show what could be done and what could not.

It is said that this exactness and business-like way of doing things has exasperated some of the other members, who had some pet scheme they desired to get an appropriation for, and that they brought about the failure to renominate Mr. Barnard by the Republicans.

It is also said that Mr. Barnard suffers on account of the strong prejudice among some of the Ward Three workers against any one who in any way sympathized with the popular side in the late school board troubles, and if so this attempt to punish such a faithful member of the board for his independence ought to be frowned upon.

The ladies of Newton who were so interested in the matter ought to stand by Mr. Barnard, and all the younger voters certainly should do so, for the board cannot afford to lose the services of a first class business man.

Mrs. Walton has a card in another column in favor of Mrs. Davis, and while we are willing to agree in all that is said of the value of her services, yet it is a question which should be decided on business principles and not as a matter of sentiment. The board has no lack of former school teachers, or of lawyers, and it will have a plentiful supply of ministers, and to balance these it needs practical business men, who will see to it that the business is done on business principles, men like Mr. Barnard, who will see that the large school appropriation, some $120,000, is wisely and judiciously expended, and who have shown their capability and fitness for the position. Indeed Newton can not afford to allow Mr. Barnard to be beaten.

THE GAMEWELL INVESTIGATION.

The common council is to take a hand in the investigation business also, has authorized President Hyde to appoint a committee to do the work, and the city solicitor says they have a perfect right to investigate the police signal system, if they desire, as they were called on to vote money to pay for it. With two committees there is no danger but that the truth will be discovered by one or the other.

Mayor Burr has appointed as the committee of the aldermen, Messrs. Johnson, Hamblen and Harbach, and they have already begun their work. The Gamewell Company protest against Mr. Johnson, on the ground that having already declared the system a failure, and taken such decided grounds against it, he can hardly be called an impartial investigator, but Alderman Johnson is a fair-minded man and will probably do his best to give a fair verdict.

It should be said that the Gamewell Company has guaranteed to give the city a perfect system and to remedy any defects free of cost, but so far they say they have received no official notice of any defects, and on the contrary have been often assured by high officials that the system was working perfectly.

It is certainly rather significant, the Gamewell Company say, that the anonymous and other attacks in the Newton Journal are sent out by some one to every city which is talking about a police signal system, which implies that the attacks are directed by a rival company, and they have probably selected Newton instead of some other city which has the Gamewell system, because it is the home of the Gamewell Company. It is curious that in other cities the system is said to be working perfectly, and that only in Newton is there any complaint. The company have similar systems in many cities, which are working perfectly, and why should not their systems work here.

In Syracuse, N. Y., for instance, they have a system precisely similar to the one in Newton, only it has 65 boxes instead of 20, and after the anonymous attack in the Newton Journal the company wrote to the Chief of Police of that city and received the following reply:

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 12, 1890.
Your letter of inquiry received, and in reply would state that your police signal plant now in use by the department here does exactly what was promised it would do. Its simplicity renders its workings easily understood, and I have heard of no complaints against it.
Very respectfully,
CHAS. A. WRIGHT,
Chief of Police.

It strikes outsiders as very peculiar that a system that will work in Syracuse or Cambridge or elsewhere, does not work in Newton.

THE DEAD LOCK BROKEN.

There was a very interesting session of the City Council, Monday night, over the appropriation bill. The lock began about eleven o'clock, and continued with varying fortune until half past two. As the reporters are never out at such an unreasonable hour, it is impossible to give a detailed account of the proceedings, but according to all accounts the board of aldermen finally came to the common council figures on the large items, the school and public library, but refused to budge on the small items increasing the appropriation for fire alarm stations from $650 to $800.

In the last conference committee meeting the Common Councilmen claim that one of their members was respectfully alluded to and withdrew in a body, and joining their brethren went into executive session. The board of aldermen were prepared to fight it out on fire alarm stations if it took all night, and grimly awaited results.

These soon came in the shape of information, that the common council had adjourned and were fast going home. The upper branch felt its dignity attacked and said so with more or less emphasis, it is reported, and it is also said that the relations between the two bodies are rather severely strained.

The common council solved the difficulty rather cleverly by meeting the next night and erasing the fire alarm stations from the appropriation bill, passing the bill, and putting the fire alarm stations in a separate order, for the aldermen to discuss at their leisure. They say they have closed the books and if the aldermen wish to take the responsibility for going without the new fire alarm stations, they can do so, and they are willing to go into the city election on that issue.

THE ALDERMEN.

In regard to the candidates for aldermen, those who have been nominated by both parties are of course all right, but in Wards Four and Five there is a contest. In the former, Councilman Crehore is nominated by one party and Councilman Porter by the other. The Lower Falls voters asked the Republican caucus to endorse Mr. Crehore, as they had never had an alderman, and he was in every way fitted for the position. The caucus refused because he was a Mugwump and put up Councilman Porter. On merit alone, Councilman Crehore is entitled to the position, as he has been one of the most valuable members of the lower branch. On the locality argument he should be elected, as it is only fair that Auburndale should be willing to divide the honors at least once in twenty years, and as the Committee of Seventy think it very wrong to introduce partisanship into city affairs, Mr. Crehore should be elected on this ground also.

In Ward Five, the opposite conditions prevail. The Republicans have put up the able and efficient President of the Common Council, Elliott J. Hyde, who has fairly earned a promotion, while the Citizens have put up Dr. Thompson of Upper Falls. Now the "Seventy" tell us that experience is a great thing, and Mr. Hyde has had experience. He comes from the other end of the ward, which should be given its turn at the honors held so long by Upper Falls, and he is in every way well fitted for the position. A letter in another column sets forth his claims with a conciseness and veracity that ought to insure him the election.

It is useless, of course, to attempt to answer all of the campaign stories that are afloat, yet some of them are so curious, and so entirely without foundation as to present an interesting study. For instance, a group of men were talking on the train the other day, and one of them said he was opposed to Mr. Hibbard because he obtained his nomination by trickery. He himself did not know the particulars, but had been told so by some that knew. Now what is the use of attempting to disprove such a statement as that. Mr. Hibbard had not the first thing to do with getting the nomination, he had eleven votes in the Republican convention and was unanimous choice of the Citizens', and yet some of his opponents assert that he obtained the nomination by "trickery" and find people who believe them. There are many other stories equally as absurd, and as devoid of truth, but fortunately the great majority of Newton voters are too intelligent to take any stock in them.

Two prominent citizens and tax-payers approached Mr. Hibbard the other day and asked him if he was in favor of the new city hall project, costing several hundred thousand dollars. Without waiting to discover if these men favored it, Mr. Hibbard replied that he was emphatically not in favor of any such project at the present time. The gentlemen replied that they should then vote for him, as they did not believe in any such extravagant project, which would increase so largely the burdens of the tax-payers. With sewerage coming next year, and city expense larger than ever before, it is no time to talk of building new city halls, or any other unnecessary extravagance.

Mr. Isaac T. Burr voted the full Republican ticket at the recent state election, and was therefore entirely consistent in the position he took at the Ward Seven Republican Caucus. Certainly if any voter of Newton is entitled to speak at a Republican caucus, and to have his views receive a respectful consideration, it is Mr. Burr, who has always been faithful to his political duties, and has been for so many years an honored citizen of Newton, and has as deep an interest in its welfare as any of those who find themselves in this campaign forced to disagree with him. All men can not agree in city politics, any more than on any other issue, but they can agree to disagree in a gentlemanly manner, and this we think is the attitude of the great majority of voters in this campaign, and the remarks in another paper in regard to Mr. Burr were not only without foundation but entirely uncalled for, in the opinion of the majority of the gentlemen interested in the Citizens' movement.

On another page we print an official copy of the ballot to be voted on next Tuesday, which will enable every voter to study his ticket at leisure, and decide just who is the best man for every office. THE GRAPHIC is full of suggestions this week, which will assist the voter to make up his mind, but he should in all cases follow his own convictions, and choose the best, without regard to political or other considerations.

In reading the list of the signers to the Independent nomination paper for Alderman Pettie, it is only fair to some of the gentlemen whose names appear there, to say that they probably now see the full list of signers for the first time, and they can complain with truth that they have been very unfairly treated by the political managers who got up this paper.

The death of Benjamin P. Shillaber will come as a personal loss to hundreds of readers, who have laughed over Mrs. Partington and Ike, and have been familiar with the other works of this genial writer. He had also many personal friends in Newton, who had met him on his frequent visits to his daughter at Newton Centre, and who regarded him with great affection, for to know him was to respect and esteem him.

REV. R. A. WHITE'S suggestion at the Union Thanksgiving Services at Newtonville, that the clergymen of the city should meet at least once in two months for conference, in regard to charitable and other matters, is an excellent one and ought to be carried out, as the influence of such a body of men could be made very strong and far reaching.

The only really happy and independent men in the city government this week, are those who have been nominated by both parties, or those who have not been nominated by either. They have nothing to trouble them, and they can speak their minds on any question just as freely as they please.

WHAT JIM TARBOX SAYS!

THE KING OF FRIEZE.

FOR DRIVERS AND OTHERS.

Warranted strictly all wool, and snow and water-proof.

The Best Ulster ever made for $12.

THE STANDARD CLOTHING CO.,
395 Washington Street, Boston.

To Whom it May Concern:

In February, 1889, the STANDARD CLOTHING Company sent me a Dark Oxford Mix Frieze Ulster, which they called their "King of Friezes," with the request to give it the hardest possible wear during the balance of the winter. Although there was no snow of any amount, it was a very wet season, and I wore the coat daily in my business, and found it exactly as they represented, impervious to water and snow. I have the ulster in use now, and can confidently recommend it as the most desirable, strongest, warmest ulster that I have ever owned.

The price of this "King of Friezes," $12, brings it within the reach of every hack driver, hardworking driver, car driver, or any one whose business is out of doors, and who needs a coat that will shed water or snow.

JAMES M. TARBOX, Superintendent Herdic-Phaeton Co.

A Long-Felt Want Supplied.

A Warm, Durable, All-Wool, Water and Snow-proof Ulster, at the moderate price of $12.00.

The KING OF FRIEZE.

The President of our Company—an expert in woollens—has been two years perfecting a fabric that would be proof to snow and rain, and yet that could be sold at a moderate price. In the "King of Frieze" a perfect success has been attained.

STANDARD CLOTHING CO., 395 Washington St.

Overcoats, Ulsters and Cape Coats.

We have manufactured and placed upon our tables for the coming season, the largest and most complete stock of Overcoats ever shown in this country, and at the Lowest Prices ever named for Reliable Goods. We say this boldly for it is the simple truth. We name a few of the Special Bargains:

Elysians, in Indigo blue and fast black, for $15.00; worth $20.00.

Black and blue Moscow Beavers, all wool, $10.00; worth $15.00.

Also Kerseys, Meltons, Chinchillas, Elysians, Montagnacs and Scotchies, all tailor-made, and trimmed equal to the best custom work, for $20.00, $22.00, $25.00, $28.00, $30.00.

Ulsters, in all grades fabrics and prices, from the durable weaves for $8.50 up through all grades to the natty swell garment for $30.00.

BOYS AND CHILDREN.

In Boys' and Children's we have a bewildering array of Bargains.

Special bargain No. 1. 1000 Boys' Suits, all wool double and twist cloth, age 4 to 14 years, for $8.50 per suit; reduced from $9 and $5. One of our greatest bargains.

Special bargain No. 2. 1000 Boys' Suits, fancy Scotchies and Cheviots, carried from last season, for $6.50; reduced from $12 and $10. Come quick if you want one.

Special Bargain No. 3. 500 Plaid and Scotch Mixed Cape Overcoats for Boys, age 4 to 14 years, for $5.00; reduced from $7.50. Make no mistake—you will never buy this garment so cheap again.

In conclusion, the STANDARD announces that it intends to make this a phenomenal Bargain Season, and to that end it has named prices never approached in the history of the trade. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

—Services at the Universalist church at 10:45 as usual, Sunday. Sermon by the pastor. Subject: Upward Falls. Special evening services at 7:35 p. m. Rev. E. L. Rexford, D. D., of Roxbury, will preach the sermon. All are welcome.

—Councilman Mead ought to be returned to the Common Council. He has been a good member of that body, a man of opinions who is not afraid to express them. He is a conservative and successful business man and an excellent public servant.

—Some of the pretty young ladies of Newtonville have organized a club and, it is said, have agreed to cordially salute all gentlemen friends who vote for the other candidate. The girls don't vote, but they are bound to have their wishes regarded.

—The team bowling matches were inaugurated in the Newton clubhouse Monday evening, and if the first game is a sample of what is to follow, the excitement in the result of the tournament will soon reach a fever heat. Capt. Richards' team won after two ties by one pin.

—The union services in the Universalist church, Sunday evening, attracted a large audience and were of a very interesting and impressive character. Rev. R. A. White, G. S. Butters and D. H. Taylor participated in the services which took the place of the usual Thanksgiving meeting.

—Misses Josephine Sherwood and Emily Tewksbury gave a very pleasant progressive tiddlers party, last Friday evening, Nov. 21. Twenty-four young ladies and misses enjoyed this merry game, making six tables. The ladies' first prize was taken by Emily Lindsay of Auburndale, and the gentleman's first was captured by Howard Hollings. There were present—Ellnor Carter, June Grant, Daisy Pillsbury, Eleanor Hooper, Katie Lockett, Marion Bosson, Catharine Hooper, Alice Hill, Helen Hunt, Winifred Pulsifer, Kittie Atwood, Emily Lindsay, Willie Hollings, Jennie Knox, Leon Bedford, Howard Hollings, Lennox Lindsay, Philip Burgess, Walter Carter, Charlie Cummings, Rogers Shapleigh, Alfred Cummings, Willie Hackett, and Reginald Brown. After refreshments and a rollicking Virginia reel the young people scattered, having enjoyed the social evening most fully.

—The schedule of the Newton Club team bowling contests with date of games is appended: Nov. 24, Team 1 and Team 2; Nov. 25, Team 3 and Team 4; Team 1 and Team 5; Dec. 4, Team 7 and Team 8; Dec. 5, Team 9 and Team 10; Dec. 11, Team 1 and Team 3; Dec. 15, Team 5 and Team 9; Dec. 18, Team 2 and Team 4; Dec. 23, Team 6 and Team 10; Dec. 26, Team 1 and Team 5; Jan. 1, Team 3 and Team 9; Jan. 5, Team 2 and Team 10; Jan. 8, Team 3 and Team 9; Jan. 12, Team 4 and Team 6; Jan. 15, Team 7 and Team 9; Jan. 19, Team 1 and Team 5; Jan. 22, Team 2 and Team 4; Jan. 26, Team 4 and Team 5; Jan. 29, Team 6 and Team 7; Feb. 2, Team 3 and Team 10; Feb. 5, Team 1 and Team 4; Feb. 9, Team 2 and Team 8; Feb. 12, Team 3 and Team 6; Feb. 16, Team 7 and Team 10; Feb. 19, Team 1 and Team 5; Feb. 23, Team 2 and Team 9; March 2, Team 4 and Team 10; March 5, Team 1 and Team 5; March 9, Team 2 and Team 8; March 12, Team 3 and Team 7; March 16, Team 4 and Team 9; March 19, Team 3 and Team 9; March 23, Team 5 and Team 10; March 26, Team 1 and Team 6; March 30, Team 2 and Team 4; Apr. 3, Team 3 and Team 9; Apr. 6, Team 4 and Team 9; Apr. 9, Team 6 and Team 10; Apr. 13, Team 1 and Team 7; Apr. 16, Team 2 and Team 8; Apr. 21, Team 4 and Team 7; Apr. 25, Team 5 and Team 8; Apr. 27, Team 6 and Team 9; Apr. 30, Team 8 and Team 10. —Read the notice of concert to be given Saturday evening in the Park Theatre, Waltham. The Ruggles Street Quartet is the principal attraction.

—Inspector Henthorne and Officer Percell turned over to Brookline officers about $200 worth of property stolen in Brookline, which they recovered.

—M. A. Kent, J. Commons, and F. C. Sheridan were appointed delegates from West Newton to Worcester, Dec. 1st.

—The alarm from box 35 at 9:35 o'clock, Sunday morning, was for a slight fire on the roof of Andrew Peters' blacksmith shop on Washington street, caused by sparks from the stove pipe.

—We learn that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson and Miss Ella Elliott, their niece, intend to start on Saturday of this week for California with the intention of remaining there during the coming winter.

—Thomas Bryson employed as teamster in the highway department, while at work in the stable, last Tuesday, slipped and fell to the floor injuring his head and also receiving a bad shaking up.

—Rev. P. H. Callahan, formerly assistant pastor of St. Bernard's church, and later pastor at Foxboro, has been appointed to fill the vacancy at St. Mary's church, Upper Falls, caused by the death of Rev. Father O'Brien.

—Councilmen Churchill and Mead stand out as excellent examples of what a man can do in the Common Council, as they have given good satisfaction by the faithful way in which they have performed their duties and the carefulness with which they have served their constituents.

—The Woodland Park Assemblies will give their first Cotillon party on New Year's eve at the hotel, under the management of Messrs. Leland and Richard. The new Venice Quadrille will be the unique feature of the evening.

—Allen's school first eleven has played eight games this season, out of which they have won 5; lost 2; tied 1. Average; number of points won by Allen's 144; by opponents, 97. The opponents have been unable to score in any of these games.

—A special meeting of the aldermen was held in City Hall, this morning, and three election officers confirmed. The appropriation bill was brought up but was postponed until the adjourned meeting to-night. The Common Council have a special meeting this evening, to further consider the appropriation bill.

—Two assemblies are announced as a starter of the season's social festivities, to be given in the City Hall, Wednesday evening, Dec. 3 and Jan. 3, and the matrons are Mrs. J. C. Jaynes, Mrs. N. T. Allen, Mrs. Ellen P. Perrin; and the managers, Francis Newhall, Arthur Howland, Severance Burage and Henry L. Fairbrother.

—On Thursday afternoon of last week the Allen's foot ball second eleven defeated the Newtonvilles by a score of 26 to 0. For Allen's Pedro and Gilman played a fine rushing game and Seeley a fine tackling game. For Newtonville, Waters and Bradley made some good rushes, and Cobb's tackling was a feature of the play.

—While Antonio Smeene, a fruit man, was driving his team on Watertown street, Monday afternoon, the whistle-tree of the wagon broke and the horse ran up Washington street. The animal tried to jump over the fence at the residence of Rev. J. O'Toole, but was held by the pickets, one of them running into him, inflicting a severe wound.

—Triton Council, No. 547, Royal Arcanum hold their first grand ball in City Hall, Thanksgiving evening, over 250 couples occupying the floor. Mr. P. H. Gannon was floor director and was ably assisted by the aids. The music was furnished by Richardson's orchestra of Boston, and the ball continued until early in the morning, the council netting a good sum to replenish their treasury.

—In court this morning, John Kellher was committed for 30 days as common drunkard. Walter B. Honors pleaded guilty of larceny of $30 from his room mate, Geo. Harkins, and was fined $10.00 and costs. Jeremiah Hooley for man slaughter against Albert C. Groth, both of Thompsonville, pleaded not guilty and his case was continued. He was placed under bonds at $5000.

—Bring the little ones at three o'clock to the Christmas sale and supper at Nickerson's Hall, and let each have a plum from the big pudding, or hang up their stockings to see what Santa Claus sends by a very charming messenger. Ma and auntie, too, can find a nice Christmas gift to send to Grandma in the country. Let Pa come in the evening for a cup of tea. —The ladies of the Altar Guild of the Church of the Messiah had made arrangements for Rev. Father Ignatius to hold mission service at City Hall this Friday evening, (his Honor Mayor Burr having placed the hall at the disposal of their committee,) but the reverend gentleman has been so wearied during the past few days that he was obliged to add this to the long list of invitations declined.

Lassell Notes.

Rev. Dr. Shinn of Grace church, Newton, gave a lecture Wednesday evening, Nov. 19, upon The Passion Play at Oberammergau which he saw last August. His opinion of the performance was greatly changed by what he saw and heard. All his objections vanished, when he recognized that the play was a truly religious rite, most reverently given. The lecture was very interesting and was happily concluded by the singing of a hymn very appropriate to the occasion. This was rendered by Dr. Shinn's son, his daughter accompanying upon the piano.

The cooking lesson on Monday was upon Casserole of rice and meat, oysters with mushrooms and Parker House rolls.

The outings of the week were to hear Stanley, to visit picture galleries, to the Symphony concert as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Shepherd are holding Saturday afternoon classes, entering all the pupils by turns. The reception of the 22nd was made more agreeable by a magic lantern, and some amusing exercises in charcoal free hand sketching by Mr. Philip A. Butler, the artist.

Seventy-five pupils have left for Thanksgiving at home or with friends. A large party remained to entertain their friends at Lassell.

Sunday Afternoon Meeting.

The four o'clock meeting Sunday the 16, was quite fully attended. It was led by Mr. F. H. Tucker, chairman of the devotional committee of the Y. M. C. A. He explained that the association had discontinued the conduct of the meeting, as announced in the GRAPHIC, solely in order to do more distinct work for young men and then only upon the assurance that the meeting should be continued, Dr. Titus having offered to assume the responsibility of it. The latter was then called upon and stated he felt these meetings were a source of much good to Newton and should be continued. He said he was not a member of any particular denomination and wished to have no name but Christian. If he took the name, he should conduct the meetings in the interest of Christianity and in co-operation with all the churches. In a vote on the question whether the meeting should be continued as proposed, almost the entire audience rose to their feet in the affirmative. Mr. Tucker guaranteed the meeting, which is the only expense. But it was voted that this should be met by a weekly collection. Mr. C. F. Bacon remains in charge of the organ. Last Sunday Mr. B. C. Savin spoke and Mrs. Frankland assisted in the singing.

Stoddard Lectures.

A Scientific Excursion to Mont Blanc.

Intelligence has been received in Paris that M. Janssens, the astronomer and member of the French institute, who left a short time ago on a scientific excursion to Mont Blanc, reached the Grands Mulets on Aug. 17. On the following day a party of fifteen guides and porters took charge of the astronomer, who is in delicate health, and took him in a sledge, especially built for the occasion, up to the Chalets des Bossons, at an altitude of 14,600 feet, by way of the lesser and greater plateau and the Bossons du Dromadaire. A small scientific laboratory, provided with the necessary meteorological instruments, has been set up in the Bossons hut, where M. Janssens will carry on a series of observations in special analysis.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Irishmen to Have a London Club.

There is to be yet another new club to be started in London—a club for Irishmen resident in London. Its members will include artists, literary, dramatic, musical and professional men. It is proposed to open the club to Irish students and young men engaged in offices. For the convenience of the latter class a cheap table d'hôte dinner will be provided in the middle of the day. The club will be open to Irishmen of all creeds—political and religious differences being strictly tabooed.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Glasthy Philosophy.

Some men manage to get more than their share of things, even under the most difficult circumstances. In spite of the brick manufacturers' boycott in New York, a poor fellow named Hafner, passing along the street, received a whole loadful on his head and was fatally hurt.—Boston Herald.

Creosote has been successfully applied as a remedy for the potato disease in Scotland. Every eye of the seed potato is touched with creosote by means of a small camel's hair brush. The product of potatoes so treated is almost totally free from disease. Where the creosote is not applied to all the eyes of the seedling the result is partial disease. If too much is used the seed will not germinate.

Vote for No License.

Newton Centre, Nov. 27, 1890.
To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

Dear Sir—Will you kindly allow me, on the eve of our municipal election, in behalf of the cause of temperance, of good order and the welfare of our honored city, to urge upon our citizens the importance of emphasizing, by a large No-License vote, their position on this important issue.

The aggressions of the liquor traffic, every day growing more and more arrogant in its demands, the specious pleas made in its behalf, and the insidious manner with which it is invading many localities, heretofore exempt from its corrupting influences, renders it imperative, and in the highest sense, the first duty of our citizens in this most favored of cities, to cast an emphatic vote "For the home, against the saloon."

The record of previous elections, while constantly on the side of No-License, and the gratifying record of our officials, in thoroughly meeting public sentiment in the enforcement of law and the suppression of the dram shop, still shows large percentage of our citizens, who do not express themselves on this very important issue.

Can we not have a most emphatic vote for No-License next Tuesday? Such a vote will not only emphasize more decidedly the convictions of our people, but will encourage the friends of temperance in other localities.

Yours respectfully,
EDWARD H. HASKELL.

Artificial Ice.

The committee appointed to consider the advisability of organizing a company to manufacture artificial ice in Newton have reported in favor of the project, and say a capital of $100,000 will be needed. They have issued rose-tinted circulars calling for $100 subscriptions to stock. They hope to make ice ready to load in delivery carts at $1.00 a ton, and to sell at 30 cents per 100 pounds, and that the interest on two shales will pay any ordinary family's ice bill.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

The Board of Health hereby respectfully calls the attention of our citizens to the fact that the use of Stable Manure for surface dressing of lawns is not only disagreeable but is dangerous to health. They would recommend the use of commercial fertilizers for that purpose.

WM. S. FRENCH,
Clerk.

We have for some time published the following in our pamphlet, "How to make a Good Lawn."

ONE OF BOSTON'S PROMINENT PHYSICIANS

recently said, "I have no doubt that in many cases disease has been communicated to families through the use of stable manure on their lawns, under the windows of their living rooms, and some time the Boards of Health will prohibit its use on the surface in large cities."

And are glad to note that the progressive City of Newton has been among the first to officially recognize the truth of the statement.

Bowker's Lawn and Garden Dressing is a complete substitute for stable manure; it is an odorless, fine, dry powder made from chemicals, and produces a healthy, luxuriant growth of green grass and a velvety lawn.

It is not too late to apply it now. Send for "How to Make a Good Lawn," mailed free, Postpaid.

SERMON BY DR. SHINN. THE STRUGGLE FOR A SOUL.

The following sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. Shinn on Sunday, Nov. 10th, and is published by request of a large number who heard it.

Deliver me because of mine enemies.
Ps. 69, 18.

I wish to speak to you this morning of a mighty struggle that is continually going on—the struggle for the possession of the human soul.

Every one born into this world becomes the object of a contest. The forces of good and the forces of evil wage a warfare over him.

From the first hour of his existence down to man's latest hour this contest goes on.

We may not always be conscious of it, nor may we always realize how desperate is the battle, nor may we always see clearly the momentous results—but the battle is on. It is always on, and the issue is salvation or perdition. The soul is saved, or the soul is lost!

Let us study this morning some of the influences which aim at the destruction of the soul.

There is no spectacle more interesting than that which is witnessed when a young couple bring their babe to the Baptismal Font in the church to enrol it in the army of Christ.

Too often indeed the bringing of a child to Baptism is a mere formal matter, but no one could so regard it, if there were to pass before his mind a vision of the mighty efforts that will be made to overthrow the young immortal soul thus consecrated.

The battle for the possession of that soul begins early, and continues long. If there were revealed to parents as they stand at the font holding their babe—some pictures of how he will be tempted to turn away from the pathway of righteousness, how he will be assailed by the powers of evil; how he will be opposed at every stage of his progress by those who would drag him downward to eternal death—they would repeat the vow of renunciation of the world, the flesh and the devil, with the deepest earnestness.

It would be not the recitation of words that have but a vague meaning—but that vow would be full of meaning, and full of the deepest feeling.

They would realize the awfulness of the perils of his becoming the slave of sin, of his becoming bound by the chains of evil, and of his losing his hope of eternal blessedness.

In an earlier age of the Church it was the custom to turn the West when this vow of renunciation was made, for as the East symbolized the light, so the West symbolized the darkness. And as the East with its brightness symbolized the whole-some influences that were invoked for the aid of the immortal soul, so the West with its darkness symbolized the baleful influences that were renounced and in being renounced were defied.

There was a profound truth brought out by this old usage, to which I have referred, for it was not simply an expression of abhorrence of evil, but a defiance of evil, it was the opening of the battle which would end only when life ended, and when the bright beams of the sun of righteousness shone upon the victorious soul as it entered the Paradise of its God.

Think then of the little child over whom the battle between good and evil is so distinctly joined, and trace his career.

Why, says one, why talk of a battle over a child? Can there be a struggle for his soul before he is conscious?

Is not the fighting delayed until he grows old enough to make choice?

Ah, the answer is that the battle has already begun. It is not to be commenced. It has begun.

We understand better than ever we did that some of the strongest influences which go towards moulding and shaping a child's character, are those which are at work during the first few years of his life.

What warping and twisting—what stunting and spoiling there is done by the incompetence and selfishness of their own parents.

I speak not now of the mighty influence of heredity, of the tendencies transmitted by the parents—but of the actual treatment of children by their parents, whereby the disposition is tainted and an evil direction is given to the faculties which may never be changed in all the future life of the child.

God help the little children, who in their helpless infancy are in the power of parents, who have never learned to control themselves, and who therefore are manifestly unfit to direct their children aright, and who in their unfittedness become the foes of their own children.

Why is it that so serious a matter as the proper development of infancy receives so slight a share of attention? Why is it with the fact before us, that indelible impressions are made during the first few years of a child's life—there are so many mothers who make no study of how they may make right impressions upon the plastic natures of their own children?

We need a deeper appreciation of the sanctity of motherhood, a deeper appreciation of the truth that a good mother is one of the most blessed agencies for good in all this world.

There is no such general appreciation of the sacredness of motherhood as there is of the influence of the father. He over her little ones—or there would not be the common usage of turning away from their heaven-appointed tasks by so many, and the transfer of the care of their little children to incompetent and selfish hirelings.

It is one of the saddest sights in all the world—the declining of responsibility by mothers, and the placing of their children under the influence of servants who are often ignorant, selfish and brutal. You can often predict the future of these hapless little ones, whose first impressions are received from the hands of who have no motherly feeling for them, who regard them with no tenderness, and who instill into them deceit and selfishness.

It would seem that the very dread of having her children contaminated by coarse servants of the kind described—would be enough to rouse any mother and compel her to be their guardian.

It ought to be enough to induce her to give up any enjoyment she may find in society or in any selfish occupation—to devote herself to the tasks that belong to her position as a mother. She is deserting her child when he needs her help most. She is exposing him unshielded on a battle field where the darts are already flying thick and fast.

If there were more true mothers—there would be less peril for these young immortals that come into this world.

But look now at the next stage of the battle. See the child grown old enough to become a school boy. Is there danger there? How sad it is that there should be so many dangers in the school life today of our American children.

We have been doing all we can to train their intellects—to make scholars of them, to give them a knowledge of history and the sciences, but all the while we have been reducing the religious teaching in our schools until it amounts to very little, if indeed there is any left.

In our divisions upon religious views—we have cut out of our schools instruction once given in them, and we dread even to speak to young people there upon the simplest moral topics, lest some objectors raise a cry of condemnation.

And yet while we have withdrawn religious teaching, which is the only sound foundation of ethical teaching—the forces of evil have grown more and more bold in attacks upon the developing character of childhood in our midst.

Do you know, O parents, how persistently evil assails your children in the schools?

Have you any idea of the foulness of speech which they are compelled to hear from vicious companions? Do you realize the significance of their impatience of control? Do you not fear the results of this lawless, independent spirit which is becoming so characteristic of the children of today?

There is a mighty struggle made by the forces of evil for the souls of your children even while they are young pupils in schools—but that struggle becomes more intense as they grow old enough to take up advanced studies in your academies, high schools and colleges.

Revelations are made now and then, which seem well nigh incredible—revelations of the diabolical plots laid by unscrupulous followers of the devil—to pollute the minds of our young people.

I dare not mention here the facts that come to my notice. It will be too hard for me to detail them in your hearing. Suffice it to say that the authorities of some institutions have found themselves compelled to give up the old usage of publishing the lists of names of their pupils. Why so? This is the answer—To prevent their receiving circulars and pamphlets of a most revolting character.

While ago in one of our large cities great piles of impure illustrated literature were seized and confiscated. This awful stuff was all ready for being sent out through the mails—and some of it was intended to reach mere school boys and girls whose parents were entirely oblivious of the danger.

The fact is that there are utterly unscrupulous people who are always plotting to pollute, and to destroy by polluting, the souls of the young.

The temptations of college life are rarely appreciated, even by the parents whose sons are expected to attend the college. They are especially great in the case of those who are freely supplied with money. The sons of the wealthy find themselves speedily introduced to ways of evil, and we betide the young man who has not been well grounded in Christian principles, and who does not have the helping hand of Christian guidance during his college course.

The vicious habits of young men are often winked at by thoughtless people, who have the notion that it is almost necessary that every one must waste through the mire before he can become manly.

We hear a great deal of talk about "sowing one's wild oats," and it is sometimes suggested that before one can become a great saint he must have been a great sinner.

It is time to get rid of such nonsense as this. It is time to see that vice is pollution, that it makes scars in the character that never entirely heal up, and that evil living in any early period of life may prepare the way for evil living in a later period.

Sin in early life makes grooves in character develops tendencies, and renders it harder to walk uprightly in manhood.

An unsullied youth is the best preparation for a staunch and reliable manhood. Never look at vice as a thing to be tolerated or glossed over. It is an evil to be feared. It is a calamity to be guarded against. Aye it is something so awful that every man well pray to the good Lord to defend your children with His heavenly grace, that they be not led captive by the wiles of Satan.

NEWTONVILLE WOMAN'S GUILD.

MRS. KATE GANNETT WELLS ON THE RED CROSS WORK.

On Tuesday Nov. 18, in the Methodist vestry, Mrs. Kate Gannett Wells, of Boston, spoke to the Guild on the "History of the Red Cross Work" a work with which Mrs. Wells is largely identified, being chairman of the executive committee, a member of the lecture committee, secretary of the committee on state work and head of the advisory committee on children's house.

Mrs. Wells spoke of the sign of the Cross, the symbol of life. The Red Cross is the special symbol of the Knights of Malta and under the cross the crusades were fought and the greatest good of the world had been wrought.

At the International treaty at Geneva thirty-seven came in and took the cross as their symbol, adopting the colors of Swiss flag reversed, a red cross on a white field, and the emblem of a hospital it was regarded as a flag of truce.

Under the Red Cross the Ambulance system was planned and general articles signed by different countries.

Miss Clara Barton was eager that America should enter into the treaty but as war is so uncommon in America, it was finally decided, as the American amendment for the relief of suffering from any cause, and adopted at Bern.

President Arthur signed the treaty March 1st, 1882, and the senate ratified it on March 17th. Miss Barton was placed at the head of the order in this country. It was finally decided, as the American amendment for the relief of suffering from any cause, and adopted at Bern.

During the Franco-Prussian war Miss Barton went to the aid of the wounded and personally superintended the relief given at the siege of Paris and also at Strasburg. The last assistance was at Johnston where after the terrible disaster order was brought out of chaos.

Eight or ten years ago St. Ben Tower saw the need of a Red Cross Ambulance and the great good accomplished and so was anxious to introduce such work into Boston.

The Woman's Educational Society in order to give emergency lectures to policemen, since policemen are men and their work was among women, drew up a new set of by-laws and merged the Massachusetts Emergency and Hygiene Associations, adopting the Geneva Treaty. At first the policemen were indifferent, but now every man on the force is obliged to attend a board of physicians decide whether they pass the examination or not. Mayor Kimball saw the importance of the work and through him the lectures were given in Newton.

It takes two years to go through with all the policemen of Boston.

By order of the fire commissioners all the fire engines are used in the emergency methods.

Out of the general work has grown a better sanitary condition noticeable in the children's play grounds, with sand heaps and better health and manners. Four or five thousand have had the benefit of these summer play grounds.

The Flower Mission is another benefit with the sick and poor in their homes. Last summer 4000 bouquets with twenty or twenty-five flowers in each were given to the poor.

In conclusion the speaker said any one who has a sympathetic heart and a desire to help others may get into the work and under the sign of the Red Cross the greatest good in all the world has been and can be done, under its banner. No question of sect ever enters. It is hoped a class may be formed here and the ladies interested in this humanitarian work.

THE MAYORALTY.

MR. FRANCIS A. DEWSON DECLARES FOR MR. PETTEE FOR MAYOR.

The election of the Mayor and other officers of a city like ours, representing many local and personal interests, cannot fail to excite the very active attention of its citizens; personal feelings are likely to be excited, and the apparently neglected or slighted claims of different neighborhoods and individuals lead to a more or less general desire to make a trial of new men, with the exclusive hope that some person not yet involved in the supposed obligation incurred by older public servants may succeed not only in satisfying the personal desires of every individual for better highways and sidewalks, more street lights, a stronger police force, newer schoolhouses and all the numerous and increasing items of public convenience and service which seem so desirable to each village and neighborhood; but that all these things may be had, or at least the particular ones in which each one is personally interested, and at the same time a more general and far-reaching business capacity and smartness, the rate of taxation be kept at least at its present limit.

The manifold business operations of a great city must be conducted upon the same principles and with similar methods as those which govern and control the administration of any other large business enterprise, and that would be considered a very unwise business firm which, in arranging its affairs for a new year, assigning departments to its principals and employees in order to obtain better economies and larger results should place at the head of the whole, a new man, whose experience had been gained in wholly different enterprises.

Here, if anywhere, it seems to me, should experience, joined to fair ability meet with its just recognition, and the principles which are advocated by the Civil Service Reform movement and which govern all well conducted business be brought into exercise.

For one I have, therefore, made up my mind to cast my vote at the next election for Mr. George Pettee, the candidate nominated by the Republican Convention for Mayor of the City of Newton.

Having been a member of the Board of Aldermen, and of the Board of Public Works, upon one of our most important Boards, I am able to bear testimony, as all who have held similar relations with him, to his faithful, straightforward and independent character, as well as to his excellent, if quite conservative, business qualities, and his practical knowledge of the ways and means of carrying out the many mechanical enterprises which form so large a part of our public activities, considering it to be on the whole much safer to trust the executive branch of our city government in the hands of such a man, who will have time, ability, good judgment and experience to bring to bear upon the execution of the work of the City and who will faithfully attend to these duties rather than to look for relief from the shortcomings of our City Government, whether real or original, by placing at its head a new man, who would be liable to have in less than a year become familiar with the details of its work, and who then might fail to be re-elected just as his service gave some promise of real value. While it may not be absolutely essential in every case that previous experience in City work should be a requisite, or that a candidate in its highest office, it is only a reasonable common sense which suggests that, other things being nearly equal, a term of service in one or both branches is the most valuable recommendation to the superior officer, if accompanied with other requisite qualifications.

It must be remembered that the office of Mayor is one of very limited powers; that of veto being, perhaps, the most important, as his appointments to office are subject to approval of the Council. His greatest strength will always be in personal character and ability to influence in the direction of good legislation. The Mayor can in no other way exercise any control over the expenditure and in consequence upon the rate of taxation, and nothing could be more foolish than the expectation of relief in this direction by the election alone considered of any man who has no previous experience in the office of Mayor. It is mainly an executive office and so long as the expenditures warranted by the Council are economically and honestly administered, we have every reason to believe has been the case in the hands of all our Mayors and chairmen of committees, the remedy for excessive taxes must lie in the economical spirit of the people themselves. If we want public improvements of any kind, we must be willing to pay for them. If we desire to reform the methods of our City Government in this respect, we must begin with the election of wise and careful men to the Council; and so far as we do this we shall be providing the best material from which to choose our chief executive officers.

FRANCIS A. DEWSON.
Newton, November 17, 1890.

The Mayoralty.

To the Editor of the Graphic.

It is curious to notice that the opponents of Mr. Hibbard are unable to find a single thing to say against him, except that "he wants the office," which is not true.

In both the city papers they are obliged to exhibit to voters a pure white column, showing their inability to refute one item of the evidence of his peculiar fitness for the office.

We congratulate Newton on having a citizen of such exceptional ability, who is willing to accept the nomination.

COMMON SENSE.

Union Thanksgiving Services at Newtonville.

The churches of Newtonville held Thanksgiving services on Sunday evening instead of as usual on Thanksgiving day. The increased attendance seems to prove the reasonableness of this way of doing.

The sermon was preached by Rev. R. A. White on "Charitable work in Newton." Among other things the speaker urged the need of co-operation among the many churches and charitable organizations of Newton. Let the leading officers of the different charitable organizations meet in conference at least once in two months. The city would thus be benefited. Indiscriminate giving on the part of several organizations to the same individual or family would thus be prevented. One family last Thanksgiving received three complete dinners from as many sources. Such giving makes it easier for the poor to beg than to work.

It was also suggested that the clergymen of this city should meet in conference every two months for the consideration of charitable and municipal matters in which they might legitimately make their combined influence felt.

Also charity must be seen to be something more than alms giving. To help people to help themselves is the only charity worthy of the name. The great need is the personal touch of good-will to the thrifty people, with the lives of the unthrifty and ignorant poor.

Poverty is only a sign of improvidence, lack of work, drunkenness and laziness. Alms giving alone merely perpetuates these diseases. To teach a poor woman how to manage her house economically, is better than to put money in the bank for her. Sewing schools for the girls, and cooking schools, are among the most practical forms of charity.

Effective remarks were made at the close by Rev. Mr. Taylor of the Congregational church. Rev. Mr. Butters was obliged to be absent by previous engagement.

I Don't Want a Doctor!

I have tried them, and they have only swindled me. I have figured up what they cost me for the last four years. It was just $324.31. If I had it now it would be a fortune for me. This year my bill for medicine was only five dollars, for which I purchased six bottles of Sulphur Bitters. They cured me of Scrofula after suffering four years.—P. J. Cummings, Troy, N. Y.

It is dangerous to neglect catarrh, for it leads to bronchitis and consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh in all forms.

NEWTON.

C. Farley rents, sells, tunes pianos. Rent towards purchase 433 Wash'n. St., Newton.

—Mr. Harry H. Brackett has returned from Colorado, on account of the severe illness of his father, Mr. W. H. Brackett.

—Next Sunday is three years since Grace Church was consecrated by Bishop Paddock, and 17 years since it was first opened.

—Notice the advertisement of our opening of holiday goods at J. Henry Bacon's, in our advertising columns this week.

—Rev. Mr. Hornbroke had a large and interested congregation at his lecture on Theodore Parker, last Sunday evening.

—Mr. J. Wallace Goodrich, organist at Eliot church, has sprained his wrist, and will be unable to preside at the organ for some weeks.

—New choir seats were used in Grace Church for the first time last Sunday in an incomplete condition. They will be all finished in a week or two.

—The GRAPHIC has secured an original story by Miss Francis Spachew, the popular author of Newton Centre, and it will be printed in our next issue.

—Gen. Geo. P. Irie, has opened an office for land investments and loans in Seattle, Washington, where he will be glad to see any of his Newton friends.

—The Newton Social Science Club will meet at Mrs. W. Russell Brackett Bellevue Street, Wednesday, at 10 a. m. Business meeting and talk by Mrs. Baker on the "Shut-ins."

—Annual Guild Sermon by the Rev. Percy Browne of Roxbury in Grace Church, Sunday night, will be an interesting occasion. The seats are free in this Church to every one on Sunday nights.

—Mrs. R. A. Brackett, dress-maker, of 16 Baldwin street, has taken a position as head dress-maker in one of the leading dress making establishments on Boylston street, near Park square, Boston.

—The Carpenters and Joiners Union of Newton will meet in Cole's Hall, Wednesday evening, Dec. 3, to consider the shorter hour day. All members are invited. Henry Lloyd of Toronto will make an address.

—Persons who were not able to put offerings into the Hospital Collection in the churches on Sunday are requested to hand them to some one of the Newton pastors or to send them to Mr. G. S. Bullen's treasurer.

—The people of Newton may not be surprised to see some of the novelties this year in Christmas goods, as we understand that Mr. J. Henry Bacon was seen in New York last week, very busy among the large importing houses.

—Mr. H. W. Parker's music for the hymn "O' Twas a Joyful Sound" which has attracted so much attention, is to be sung by the choir of Grace Church on Sunday. It is regarded as one of the best hymn tunes of modern days.

—Preparations are being made for meetings for the consideration of the severage of Newton to be held next month under the auspices of the Hygiene and Emergency society of this city. Particulars will be made known in a week or so.

—A sermon by Rev. Dr. Shinn is published on the subject of the value of a Human Soul. It dwelt with such a practical subject that there were numerous requests for its publication, so that it could have a wider circle of hearers.

—The contribution of Channing church for the Cottage Hospital was about $500, which with two free beds supported by members of that society, and its membership the Hospital aid society will give this church a record of some $1200 for this year.

—Alderman Coffin is to remove the Page house, from the corner of Park and Elmwood streets, to the corner of St. James street and Hunnewell Terrace, he having bought a lot on the Silby estate. Mr. Coffin is said to contemplate putting up an apartment house on the Page estate.

—A large Maple tree which stood in the way of the widening of the approach to Bellevue Street Bridge was taken up Monday and drawn through the street by four horses to Mr. Farquhar's place, where it was set out. A tree nearly as large was set out on Hovey street a year ago and it flourished all summer and promises to grow.

—At Eliot church, last Sunday the collection for the Cottage Hospital amounted to the very generous sum of $44.96, which placed the church at the head of all the city churches in the list of contributors given at a Newton church on one Sunday for the Hospital. But the needs of the Hospital increase every year, and its good work appeals more forcibly to generous people.

—A class of young ladies, who write "Parasites of Volens" upon their banner, and who have pledged themselves to raise a certain amount in the interests of the Newton Baptist church, will hold a sale in the church parlors on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, Dec. 10th. Fancy and useful articles will be offered at reasonable prices; also confectionery, cream and cake. It is hoped that the ready and willing workers will receive a liberal patronage to encourage them to other efforts of a similar nature in the future.

—There will be a vespers service at the Channing Church next Sunday evening, Nov. 30, at 7.30 o'clock. The following musical selections will be used:

Organ Prelude, "Andante in G." Alex. Guilmette.
Quartette, "O' Worshipful Lord," M. Watson.
Quartette, "Nearer My God to Thee," P. A. Schaeffer.
Anthem, "Jehovah in Bb" F. Schubert.
Quartette, "Eventide" F. A. B. Offertory, "Romanza in D" Von Willm.
Anthem, "Father, Redeemer of my Soul," Alex. Leprevost.
Organ Postlude, "Offertoire in C."

Seats free in the evening. All are cordially invited to attend.

—A Thanksgiving concert was given by the Sunday school of the Methodist church, Sunday evening, which attracted a large audience. Renditions by a quartet, cornet solo by Miss Parks and carol numbers were the special features. The order of exercises is appended: Organ voluntary, Miss Warren; school chorus; scripture reading; invocation; Rev. Andrew McKean, D. D.; response, Evening Song, "The Order of Exercises"; Mr. H. H. Campbell; Thanksgiving exercises by primary scholars, Miss Mabel Lawrence, leader; cornet solo, Miss May Parks; fruit offering, Mrs. Lawrence's class; quartet, "Ye shall go out with joy"; psalm of thanksgiving, Mrs. Stevenson's class; choral talk, "People whom we know," Mr. Seymour Eaton; school chorus, "Uplift the banner"; Thanksgiving carol, Miss Warren's class; recitation, Thanksgiving Ode, Harry Stonemetz; closing hymn, "A mighty fortress is our God."

—Father Ignatius attracted the largest audience ever in Eliot church, last Friday night, every seat was filled and many stood up. Rev. Dr. Calkins introduced him saying that they could meet on one common ground of love for Christ, and disregard all differences. Before taking up the collection he said that Father Ignatius was willing to promise that all the money secured should go towards paying the expenses of his services in Boston, and none of it used for his monastery in England. Father Ignatius was curiously watched by the audience during his address, as his dress and mannerisms are so different from what is usually seen in the pulpit, and while he is a fluent talker he did not seem to have the power of moving the audience in any great degree. His address was more of an exhortation than a sermon, and he did not touch upon the peculiar beliefs and practices which have made him so widely known, nor the miracles he alleges to have been wrought at his monastery. He seems very earnest and zealous and resembles the modern evangelists more than a preacher. He closed the services with the singing of a hymn.

The Cottage Hospital.

The returns from Hospital Sunday collections are so far very gratifying to the friends of the hospital, and the gifts have been unusually generous, and it is evident that the citizens of Newton intend to see that this noble charity is supported. Last week, there were applications for admission for sick people who needed the care and attention, but they had to be denied as every bed was full. From this it will be seen that the Cottage Hospital needs generous aid to enable it to do the work needed in Newton.

The great need of the Hospital is free beds, and it is suggested that the churches, both Protestant and Catholic, could not do more for the cause of charity in any other way than by paying for a free bed. Our first duty is to care for the poor and the sick at our doors, and the Cottage Hospital furnishes a means for doing it. The new private ward is about ready to be furnished and this will give more accommodations at the Hospital, and as the number of sick cared for increases the expenses increase also.

Those who are not connected with any of the churches can send their contributions direct to the Treasurer, Mr. Geo. S. Bullen.

Geo. S. Bullen, Treas.
Newton, Nov. 26, 1890.

Gen. Armstrong Next Monday Night.

Gen. Armstrong with his company of Indian and Negro youth, who are meeting at New Old South on Sunday evening, will come to the Eliot church in Newton, on the evening of Monday, December 1st. The quaint slave songs sung by the Hampton quartette, the appearance of the Indian boys from the west, and the well known name of Gen. Armstrong usually insure a crowded house at the Hampton meetings. One of the Indians who is to speak comes from Sitting Bull's camp at Standing Rock, North Dakota, and has only been at the school about two months. The other Indian announced upon the programme is from the Indian Territory, and tells of life among the Cheyennes. These simple stories of their own lives given by the Indian boys, afford one a better insight into the life upon an Indian reservation than many words by a white man. The two colored boys gave the same sort of word pictures of the life of the schools in the country districts of the south. The chaplain of the school, Rev. H. B. Frissell, will give some account of a ride of a thousand miles through the country districts of the south visiting negro homes and schools. Gen. Armstrong will give a short summary of the results of work among the Indians.

The Season's Cloaks.

A call at the handsome establishment of Springfield Bros., corner of Washington and Bedford streets, Boston, introduces one to the largest and most complete cloak establishments in New England. Imported goods are received by every steamer, and every thing in the cloak line can be found there, or made to order at short notice.

Besides the foreign cloaks, the firm have established a high reputation for their own make of cloaks, which range in price from a small sum for a moderate garment, of which they have a great variety, to wraps that cost hundreds of dollars. They are shown of every material and trimming so that all tastes can be suited, and the visitor can wander from one floor to another of their immense establishment and make selections at their leisure.

Special attention is called to their fur department, which is very large and complete, including fur-lined wraps of all kinds, sealskin sables and shoulder capes of all the fashionable furs. Their prices are very low for the quality of the goods, and a cordial invitation is extended to the ladies of Newton to visit the store when in Boston.

NONANTUM.

—James McCutcheon is very ill with typhoid fever.

—The striker in the North church belfry has begun his work.

—J. H. Nevins has nearly completed his house on Dalby street.

—Hudson is opening a fine line of holiday goods at his Bridge street store.

—Victoria Lodge, Sons of St. George, hold a public installation the first Tuesday in December.

—A piano has been purchased by the Y. P. S. C. C. and the Sunday school, and was placed in the chapel on Thursday.

—The Sons of Temperance of this village entertained Norumbega Division of Wesley, last Friday evening, at the Lowell Hall.

—Miss Josie Hudson of this village officiated as pianist at an entertainment given at the Broadway Baptist church, Cambridge, one evening recently.

—A Sunday school concert is arranged for next Sunday evening at 6.30, the singing to be given by the boys exclusively. Mr. Geo. M. Fiske of Auburndale will address the meeting.

—Miss Edith Chapman gave a very pleasant party to the juveniles, last week, at her home on Bridge street, the event occurring on her thirteenth birthday; she was made the recipient of a number of gifts.

—Mr. Moses Armstrong left this village for Portsmouth, N. H., last week; before leaving a number of his friends called upon him with congratulations on his good fortune, he has secured a valuable situation in N. H.

To the Voters of Ward 7.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC
Wm. C. Bates has announced that he is an independent candidate for the common council. I do not object to this action of his, but I do protest against his assertion that the Republican caucus was managed "by a half dozen men." The meeting was one of the largest of its kind ever held in the ward, and was entirely free from the customary "cut and dried" methods. Hence the result. It is an insult to all who participated in this caucus to speak of dictation or management. Is the marking list not the fairest and freest way of selecting candidates? By this method the present nominees for the council secured over twice the number of votes given to Messrs. Bates and Hall.

SNEEZING.

ITS VIRTUE DEPENDS CONSIDERABLY UPON TIME AND PLACE.

The virtue of sneezing, it seems, depends much upon time and place. Sneezing from morn till noon is good augury, says Aristotle, but from noon to night the reverse. And yet St. Augustine tells us that if on rising in the morning any of the ancients happened to sneeze while putting on their shoes, they immediately returned to bed in order that they might sneeze more auspiciously. A writer in the Illustrated American, So, if the Hindu, while performing his morning ablutions in the Ganges, should sneeze before finishing his prayers, he immediately begins them over again.

There is a Scotch superstition that one sneeze is lucky and two are unlucky, and in England it is believed that if any one sneeze for three nights in succession some one will die in the house. According to Lancashire folklore you must be very careful upon what day of the week you allow yourself the luxury of sternal sneezing.

Sneeze on a Monday, you sneeze for danger; sneeze on a Tuesday, you kiss a stranger; sneeze on a Wednesday, you sneeze for a letter; sneeze on a Thursday for something better. Sneeze on a Friday, you'll sneeze for sorrow; sneeze on a Saturday, your sweetheart tomorrow.

Sneeze on a Sunday, your safety seek. The devil will have you the rest of the week? A most remarkable custom, if we are to credit Helvetius, was that which prevailed at the court of Monmouth. Whenever his most sacred majesty happened to sneeze, every person present was obliged to imitate the royal example. And this before the days of nostril-titillating snuff!

Nor was this all. The servants of the royal household were obliged to take up the sneeze and pass it on to the sovereign without the gates, and he to all the others, until sneeze followed sneeze from the foot of the throne to the uttermost frontiers of the kingdom.

Clearing Up a Mistake.

On a highway about four miles out of Marietta, Ga., I found two colored men fighting. They were doing a great deal of kicking and clawing and rolling around, but not hurting each other much. They continued to fight for five minutes after my arrival and then backed off, and I inquired the cause of the row.

"Well, sah," said the one who had most wind left, "we set yore on dis log an' seed you comin' way off on beyon'de bushes but we didn't see you. You say you was a loose mewl."

"An' I dun told Moses dat you was one of Mars Peters' cows," put in the other.

"I dun said he was mistaken," continued the first. "Den he called me a lian, an' I called him another, an' we went to fight."

"Well, you were both mistaken, you see."

"Yes sah, we was. You is neither a ow nor a mewl. You is noffin but a ankee on a hired hoss."

Texas puts in her claim as one-tenth of the country. A great many people want to know how large Texas is in area. They look in quite a number of alleged statistical abstracts and never find the same figures in two of them. The official figures of Texas area are 252,000 square miles—equal to about 8.9 per cent. of the entire land area of the United States. Texas is six times larger than New York, seven times as large as Ohio, and 100,000 square miles larger than all the Eastern and Middle States, including Delaware and Maryland. Compared with the countries of Europe, she has 34,000 square miles more than the Austrian Empire, 62,000 more than the German Empire and nearly 70,000 square miles more than France.

A New York drummer once stopped at a crossroads tavern in Texas for dinner. The coffee was so thin you could read a paper through it, and the landlady as she set down the cup, said—

"I'm afraid, mister, you will find this reether weak."

"Is it all right," said the drummer, as his eye caught the grounds in the bottom of the cup through the amber liquid. "It's all right and don't pother. If your coffee is weak, your butter is awful strong and the general average will do very well."

Emaciated invalid (just arriving at the springs): "Is it true that drinking these waters produces fat?"

Native (weight 250): "Produces fat? Why stranger when I came here I only weighed eight pounds and look at me now!"—Texas Sittings.

"Bredderen and sistren," said the pastor "yo have been tole dat de McKinley bill done gwine to raise everybing; bud whatcher want raise de mortgage an dis year? Needer prayer nor de McKinley bill an a gwine ter raise de mortgage whad de butcher an' de grocery man done hole on you paster. De collection will now be collected."

Mamma, said a little boy to his mother, the other day, "let me see you break Maud S's record; will you?" "What do you mean?" asked the mother. "Why," said the boy, innocently, "papa says you can talk faster than a horse can trot."

It is said that a well-known humorous street broker, some time since, attended a party at New York, and was introduced by a lady when it would be seven o'clock. He replied: "It is not seven o'clock yet—but it will be b-b-by the time I can say it."

"Now," said the photographer, taking hold of the cloth over the instrument, "are you all ready?" "Yes," replied the customer. "Well, just keep your eye on that sign," he said, pointing to a legend on the wall, which read: "Positively no Credit," and look pleasant."

The Finance of Love.—Blumbers: "So your daughter is going to be married and leave you?" Bagley: "I am afraid so. She seems to quote Jack Wagely far above par."

"About the most disagreeable man on earth," said Charlie Cashgo, "is the pawnbroker." "Yes," responded Billy Bender, dolefully; "but we have to put up with him."—Washington Post.

Intentionally Misunderstood.—Chapple: "It's very disagreeable when a fellow goes into society to meet one's tradespeople." Cynicus: "Why, they don't dun you before the company, do they?"—N. Y. Sun.

Is there any tie which absence has loosened, or which the wear and tear of every-day intercourse, little inconsequentialities, unconfessed misunderstandings, have fretted into the heart, until it bears something of the nature of a fetter? Any cup at our home table whose sweetness we have not fully tasted, although it might yet make of our daily bread a continual feast? Let us reckon up these treasures while they are still ours, in thankfulness to God.—Elizabeth Charles.

A GREAT AMERICAN MAGAZINE.

THE SUCCESS OF "THE CENTURY AND ITS PLANS FOR 1891.

The Century Magazine is now so well-known that to tell of its past success seems almost an old story. The N. Y. Tribune has said that it is the companion, St. Nicholas for young folks, issued by the same house, "are read by every one person in thirty of the country's population,"—and large editions of both are sent beyond the seas. It is an interesting fact that a few years ago it was found that more than a thousand copies of the Century went to Scotland,—quite a respectable edition in itself. The question in England is no longer "Who reads an American book?" but "Who does not see an American magazine?"

A few years ago the Century about doubled its circulation, with the famous War Papers, by General Grant and others, adding many more readers later with the Lincoln History and Kennan's thrilling articles on the Siberian Exile System, One great feature of 1891 is to be

"THE GOLD HUNTERS OF CALIFORNIA," describing that wonderful movement, the gold fields in '49, in a series of richly illustrated articles written by survivors, including the narratives of men who went to California by the different routes, accounts of the gold discoveries, life in the mines, the work of the vigilance committees (by the chairman of the committees), etc., etc. General Fremont's writing was done for this series. In November appears the opening article, "The First Emigrant train to California,"—crossing the Rockies in 1841,—by General Bidwell, a pioneer of pioneers. Thousands of a white man's family and select party, or a friend among "the Argonauts of '49" will be interested in these papers.

MANY OTHER GOOD THINGS ARE COMING, the narrative of an American's travels through that unknown land Tibet for 700 miles over ground never before trod by a white man, the experience of escaping War Prisoners, American Newspapers described by well-known journalists; accounts of great Indian Fighters, Custer and others; personal anecdotes of Lincoln, by his private secretaries; "The Faith Doctor," a novel by Edward Eggleston, with a wonderfully rich programme of novelties and stories by most of the leading writers, etc., etc.

It is also announced that the Century has purchased the right to print, before its appearance in France or any other country, extracts from advance sheets of the famous Talleyrand Memoirs, which have been secretly preserved for half a century—to be first given to the world through the pages of an American magazine. All Europe is eagerly awaiting the publication of this personal history of Talleyrand—greatest of intriguers and diplomats.

The November Century begins the volume, and new subscribers should commence with that issue. The subscription price ($4.00) may be remitted directly to the publishers, The Century Co., 33 East 17th St., New York, or single copies may be purchased of any newsdealer. The publishers offer to send a free sample copy—recent back number—to any one desiring it.

Salt.

For weak eyes, a wash of weak salt and water will prove of much benefit. Salt and water quite strong, and used persistently for a time, will prevent the hair from falling out.

A teaspoonful of salt dissolved in one-half glassful of water is excellent to allay nausea in sick-headaches.

To relieve heartburn drink a half-tumblerful of cold water in which has been dissolved a tablespoonful of salt.

When wiping up the floor before putting down a rug, sprinkle it all over with salt, while damp; this will greatly prevent moths.

For stings or bites from any kind of insect, apply dampened salt, bound tightly over the spot. It will relieve, and usually cure very quickly.

Salt as a tooth-powder is better than almost any other dentifrice. It keeps the teeth very white, the gums hard and rosy, and the breath fresh.

If the throat is very sore, wring a cloth out of cold salt and water, and bind it on the throat tightly, when going to bed; cover it with a dry towel. This is excellent.

For neuralgia, make a small muslin bag, fill it with salt, heat it very hot, and lay it against the aching place. It will prove a great relief, as salt retains the heat a long time.

For troublesome weeds, and for grass in lawns, driveways, etc., apply a dressing of coarse salt; this will kill all growth. Be careful not to put it on anything that should not be destroyed, however.

For catarrh, sniff up considerable salt and water from the hollow of the hand every morning. Salt and water, used as a gargle just before going to bed, strengthens the throat and helps to prevent bronchial troubles; it is also excellent for sorethroat.

If ink is spilled on the carpet, throw a quantity of salt on it, which will quickly absorb the ink; take this up, and put on more salt. Keep repeating this, rubbing it well into the ink spot, until the ink is all taken up by the salt; then brush the salt out of the carpet.

If anything catches fire or something burning makes a disagreeable smell or smoke, throw salt upon it at once. If a fire is quickly desired, it may readily be obtained by throwing salt upon the coals; likewise, if too much blaze should result from dripping fat from broiling steak, ham, etc., salt will subdue it. Independent, Enterprising, Interesting. The Springfield Republican.

A first-class, Wide-awake, readable newspaper published Daily, Sunday and Weekly.

This journal was established in 1824 and during all its history it has been the consistent and conscientious advocate of the people's causes. It is alert, enterprising and liberal in gathering the news of the day, and in preparing it for publication, while its editorial comments and discussions are candid, able and wholly independent. It publishes moreover, a vast amount of valuable and interesting reading matter touching the various phases of human affairs, apart from the regular chronicle of current happenings. It is the special advocate and representative of New England ideas and interests, and its first office is the record of New England events.

The Daily and Sunday Republican are quarto sheets of 36 columns, which are frequently accompanied by supplemental pages as occasion demands. The subscription rates of the Daily are $8 a year, $2 a quarter, 70 cents a month, 3 cents a copy; of the Sunday edition, $2 a year, 50 cents a quarter, 5 cents a copy.

THE WEEKLY REPUBLICAN

a 12-Page Newspaper containing 84 columns.

It offers the most comprehensive and careful review of current news united with a singularly rich and varied collection of miscellaneous reading, embracing correspondence, stories, a special department for women, another for children, and one for farmers, thoughtful and suggestive editorials, literary discussions and reviews, original and selected poetry, religious readings including a weekly sermon, special articles on live subjects, dramatic and sporting note and comment, etc., etc. It is emphatically a journal for the family circle and is commended by many of its old subscribers as

The Best Newspaper in the United States. The subscription rate is only or 10 cents a month for shorter periods.

New subscribers to The Weekly Republican for 1891, will receive the paper free for the balance of 1890. Send for free sample copies.

1891. HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

ILLUSTRATED.

The important series of papers on South America by Theodore Child will be continued in Harper's Magazine during the greater part of the year 1891. The articles on Southern California by Charles Dudley Warner, will also be continued. Among other noteworthy attractions will be a novel by Charles Egbert Craddock; a collection of original drawings by W. M. Thackeray, now published for the first time; a novel written and illustrated by George du Maurier; a novelette by William Dean Howells; and a series of papers on London by Walter Besant.

In number and variety of illustrated papers and other articles on subjects of timely interest, as well as in the unrivaled character of its short stories, poems, and essays, Harper's Magazine will continue to maintain that standard of excellence for which it has been so long
